'Dig No Coal 'Til Frick Signs,' Coal Region Defy

Today

Constitution, and NRA.
Reflating Tires, and Money.
September Begins Work.
Still Killing Witches.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

YESTERDAY was "Constitution Day." One hundred and forty-six years have passed since the Constitution of the United States was adopted after long discussions, and the settlement of jealousies more bitter than those that mark the present efforts to settle NRA codes.

In honor of the day, the distinguished George W. Wickersham, who was attorney general under President Taft and head of President Hoover's national commission on law observance, is filled with gloom and worries about the Constitution.

"We have the NRA functioning as a virtual dictatorship," he says.

He thinks that President Roosevelt has abrogated the Constitution, made it a scrap of paper.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT might advise Mr. Wickersham to read Francis Bacon's essay number forty-two "Of Youth and Age." Bacon says:

"Men of age object too much, consult too long, adventure too little, repent too soon and seldom drive business home to the full period, but content themelves with a mediocrity of success."

Bacon says also:

"Young men are fitter to invent than to judge; fitter for execution than for counsel, and fitter for new projects than for settled business."

The average American will think that if the Constitution could stand the Civil War, plus the Great War, plus the stupid throwing away of tens of billions of dollars, that same Constitution will be able to stand the NRA, which is nothing more than an earnest effort to make conditions better quickly instead of waiting for the slow process of time.

W. R. HEARST, talking over the National Broadcasting Company's nation-wide hookup, made clear the difference between "inflation" and "reflation."

As financial matters stand, the government is like a doctor that has a patient wide open and can't quite decide to sew him up again. We have been kicked off the gold basis and nothing has been done to make up for that loss in the dollar's value.

"INFLATION" is like blowing up a tire till it bursts, whereas "REFLATION" is like pumping a reasonable amount of air into a tire that has gone flat.

Our dollar tire is going flat very rapidly. On Saturday it dropped to 66.97 cents on the world's markets.

NOT JANUARY, but September, really begins the new year. Summer ends. Labor Day comes. Next Sunday will see the end of daylight saving time, except in Chicago, where the exposition wants it to last longer.

Lucky the man who concentrates on his own job, determined to make THAT a success, whatever else happens. And, also, lucky the man who HAS a job.

IN AN isolated African village, seventy-one savages have been sentenced to imprisonment for horribly brutal treatment of two women, a mother and daughter, accused of "witchcraft." The outrages perpetrated, which cannot be described, were made "necessary" by the natives' religious superstitions.

In another part of Africa last January, sixty natives were sentenced to death. They killed an old woman for "casting a spell over a man's wife." The sentences were commuted.

IT IS not so long since tens of thousands were tortured and burned for witchcraft in Europe, in the name of religion. Even New England did not escape the curse.

WHEN A man with a low forehead and thick neck goes into a ring with another like him and knocks the other out and becomes "heavyweight champion," everybody knows him and thousands will gladly pay to see such "heroism."

In St. Louis, there have been mysterious deaths from sleeping sickness and the United States Public Health Service announces that:

"Three unidentified scientists of St. Louis have submitted to bites from mosquitoes that previously had bitten sleeping sickness victims."

These scientists, who do not care to have their names mentioned, are willing to risk their lives, as others did when the experiments were made with mosquitoes that practically ended yellow fever as a serious menace.

If the names of the three "unidentified scientists," offering to risk death for general welfare, WERE published they would be forgotten in a week, while the names of Heenan, John L. Sullivan, Jack Johnson, the big Negro, and others, would live on. That is our "civilization."

THE CODE for coal mine owners and workers makes it clear that NRA is to provide powerful support to union labor. Coal mines that have been on a non-union basis for many years, or always, must recognize workmen's unions.

The miners will work only five days a week, eight hours a day, which will give them in the seven days a hundred and twenty-eight hours to do as they please. Eight hours a day underground, in the dark away from the sunlight, for five days every week, is plenty.

DAVIS AGAIN ON TRIAL IN LOTTERIES

Prospective Jurors 'Grilled' to Avert Another Mistrial

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—Healthy again, United States Senator James J. Davis, of Pittsburgh, strode into federal court today and placed his political future on trial.

The senator is on trial because of those big lotteries held by the Moose order, of which he is the chief. He is accused of breaking the law in the interstate shipment of lottery tickets.

What's more, Uncle Sam contends that Senator Davis got $173,000 for himself from the substantial profits of two of the lotteries.

JURORS 'TELL ALL'

As the tedious business of selecting a jury got under way the prospective jurors had to "tell all," so to speak.

They were asked whether they belonged to the Senator's order, the Moose; whether they ever worked on a police force, belonged to any anti-vice societies, any political clubs; whether they or their families knew anybody on the government payroll, and a dozen other questions.

The Senator, as is known by one and all, is charged with sending lottery tickets in interstate shipments for charity balls held by the Moose. One of the prospective jurors said that he had bought tickets for the alleged lottery.

Another prospective juror wanted to know if the trial was likely to be in session over Thurs-

DETROIT, Sept. 18.—(AP.)—Three bandits, one armed with a sawedoff shotgun, failed at 4 a. m. today in an attempt to hold up the night force of the Dearborn Inn, Henry Ford's early American hotel in Dearborn, when a clerk broke away and ran for help.

The bandits started after the clerk, but fled when they heard Shaw calling police from an upstairs telephone.

JEAN HARLOW

JEAN HARLOW WEDS NO. 3

International News Service.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Sept. 18.—Jean Harlow, the screen's glamorous platinum blonde, swept through the midnight skies with Harold G. Rosson, 38, Hollywood "ace" film photographer, in a romantic airplane elopement to Yuma, Ariz., where the couple was married at 4:30 o'clock this morning.

And then, even before the people of the desert country were awake, the happy couple winged their way back to Hollywood with Allen Russell, private pilot and known as Hollywood's "air cupid," at the controls.

Miss Harlow was attired in black, her velvet coat trimmed with fox fur. She was stockingless and explained:

"I tore them getting into the plane so I left them in the little Yuma Cafe where we had our marriage breakfast."

She was the widow of Paul Bern, who was a Hollywood film executive.

It was Miss Harlow's third marriage and her second romantic elopement. When 16 years of age she eloped with Charles F. McGrew II, wealthy young Chicago broker. They were divorced January 29, 1931.

On July 2, 1932, she married Bern. On September 10 of the same year, Bern was found dead in his home, a coroner's jury later finding that he had committed suicide.

510,000 ON VOTE LISTS IN COUNTY

Record Registration Reflects Intense Campaign

With a record-breaking registration in the city, exceeding any in history, it is believed, more than 510,000 voters in Allegheny County will be eligible to vote tomorrow in one of the hottest city and county fights in years.

The city registration totals, it is estimated, over 194,000. The total in the county exceeds by about 20,000 that of last year, when the Hoover-Roosevelt presidential campaign was on.

In Pittsburgh the registration figures for the three days were 157,360 Republicans and 35,852 Democrats and a scattering of about 500 allied to the other parties:

In the third class cities the registration was 27,523, Republicans getting 22,679 and Democrats 4,757 and 87 being scattered among the other parties.

BOROUGHS, TOWNSHIPS

The boroughs and townships came through with a registration of 289,886, a decrease of more than 6,000 as compared with the 1931 registration.

While the registration in Pittsburgh is not quite as high as in 1931, registration commissioners believed they have a peak registration. They say that there is a much lower percentage of phantoms on the books this year.

The Registration Commission is taking testimony on alleged phantom voters and is expected to strike out a number of names this

BAN BEER SALE TOMORROW

The "suds" won't flow in Pittsburgh and Allegheny County tomorrow, according to District Attorney Andrew T. Park.

He called the attention of restaurant and bar proprietors to the State Beer Act, prohibiting sale of beers and wines on primary or election days. Parapragh C of Section No. 23 of the Act says:

"It shall be unlawful for any person to sell or furnish beer on the day of any municipal primary or general election."

Park said that any complaints of violation of the law will be investigated by county detectives at once. The occupation of most officers of the law—city, county and state—at the polls didn't cause much fear, in some corners, that the law might be strictly enforced.

Suspect Who Fled Hospital Arrested

SOMERSET, Pa., Sept. 18.—(AP.—Ernest Pletcher, 25, a farmer charged with wounding Miss Flora Miller, 18, his former housekeeper, is under arrest after fleeing, police say, from a hospital at Mt. Pleasant.

He was being treated for a wound which officers say he inflicted upon himself after shooting the girl. Miss Miller is recovering.

The American Navy—And Foreign Advice

ACCORDING to a London dispatch, Sir John Simon, the British minister for foreign affairs, is much displeased at President Roosevelt's decision to begin the building up of the American Navy to treaty strength—that is, to equality with the British navy.

If Sir John's expression of British displeasure in this regard fails to prove effective, the dispatch intimates that the British government and the Japanese government will, with great reluctance, be compelled to build up their navies, too.

In voicing these sentiments, the astute Sir John runs true to British as well as to Japanese form. The British, like the Japanese, willingly enter into treaties with the United States to limit and reduce armaments for two reasons:

First, because the diplomats of Great Britain and Japan never fail to bamboozle American diplomats into subjecting the American Navy to most of the limitation and reduction for which these treaties provide.

Second, because the British and Japanese governments have learned by experience that: having ratified a treaty of limitation and reduction, the United States will not build up to treaty strength.

This is exactly what happened after the Washington treaty of 1922 and after the London treaty of 1930—Great Britain and Japan continued to build within treaty limits, but the United States failed to build within treaty limits.

THIS WISDOM on the part of the British and the Japanese, and this folly on the part of the United States were the subject of one of the last addresses made by the late Admiral Moffett, who was lost when the U. S. S. Akron was destroyed in a storm off the New Jersey coast.

Speaking at the annual dinner of the Naval Academy Graduates' Association of New York, a short time before his death, upon "The Decadence of the United States Navy," Admiral Moffett said:

"Since the administration of President Wilson, our Navy has progressively declined. He realized that in order to maintain his foreign policy the nation must have adequate force behind it. He therefore demanded for the United States a navy inferior to none.

"After his conference in Europe he cabled for such a navy and the Congress and the American people gave it to him, only to have it or the major part of it destroyed after 1922 when the United States was hoodwinked and bamboozled into limiting the only category in which it was strongest.

"Uncle Sam lost everything but his shirttail when he signed the Washington treaty.

'Suicide Guard' Placed Over Doomed Lamson

Tub Death Slayer Prefers Gallows To Life Term

By RALPH B. JORDAN

International News Service.

SAN JOSE, Cal., Sept. 18.—A special "suicide guard" of deputy sheriffs today was established over David A. Lamson.

Sheriff William J. Emig made the drastic move following a report from Lamson's cellmate that the handsome Stanford University Press executive, facing death on the gallows for the murder of his wife, was suffering from "fits of deep despondency."

The Sheriff said:

"We'll take no chances with this prisoner now. We want to deliver him safely to San Quentin Prison."

However, there were no indications from the prisoner himself that he contemplated self destruction.

He smiled slightly, he had "slept well," and then reiterated his declaration that he would "a thousand times rather hang than go to prison for life."

The death sentence is scheduled to be pronounced upon him tomorrow by Superior Judge Roberg R. Syer in accordance with the verdict brought in Saturday night.

Because the jury that found him "guilty of murder in the first degree" did not impose a life sentence, it is mandatory upon the court to order Lamson "hanged by the neck until dead."

Conviction was obtained upon the contention by the state that the 31-year-old defendant, a former Stanford dramatic and journalistic favorite, had beaten his pretty young wife, Allene Thorpe Lamson, to death in their campus bungalow because of an infatuation with a blonde divorcee in Sacramento, Cal.

An appeal for a new trial will be taken, according to Lamson's attorneys, on the grounds of "errors by the court, misconduct of the district attorney and a verdict not supported by the evidence."

6-HOUR DAY DEMANDED FOR PITS OF DISTRICT; MOSES TELLS STAND

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—(AP.)—The bituminous coal code, to which operators affixed their signatures Saturday night, today faced a new threat from organized labor which held possibilities of reopening the controversy and delaying final promulgation of the charter by President Roosevelt.

A meeting of the Labor Advisory Board of NRA was called for late today to give formal consideration to the code.

There were strong indications it would register opposition not only to the interpretation of the collective bargaining provisions, but also to a number of the wage scales.

John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, and William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, have asked such a stand from the board, which is headed by Dr. Leo Wolman, and includes selected spokesmen for labor.

The Industrial Advisory Board, which speaks for business, approved the code today.

No attempt was made by H. C. Frick Coke Company to operate its plants in the Connellsville region.

Leaders in the holiday movement, calling a general mass meeting of representatives from five counties, declared:

"Not a lump of coal will be mined anywhere in the district until the Frick Company signs the code."

The meeting, called for 1:30 p. m. at Pricedale, will be similar to that held last week at which

COAL CODE GOES TO ROOSEVELT

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt's formal approval of soft coal's fair competition code topped today's NRA program.

Gen. Hugh S. Johnson expected to present the long-disputed bituminous coal charter to the President during the day, but the Administrator could not set the hour. Wage rates for Alabama and Kentucky, which the President would fix under the code accepted by the industry Saturday night, still were being studied.

Once he receives the code, Mr. Roosevelt's signature was looked for almost immediately. He has kept in close touch with its formation. Promulgation today would make it effective October 2.

NRA TERMS SCORED

Pittsburgh Workers Balk At 8-Hour Program

Pittsburgh district miners still idle under the protest "holiday," appeared divided today in their attitude toward the bituminous coal code, awaiting the signature of President Roosevelt.

Practically all local mines remained shut down.

Some of the men declared that "code or no code" they would remain out until granted a six-hour day.

They said there were satisfied with $4.60 a day for inside skilled labor, but didn't like the eight-hour day or 40-hour week provision.

Others said they were ready to return to the pits when the President signed the code.

R. Templeton Smith, vice president of the Pittsburgh Coal Company, made it plain that the men could go back to work at any time. He said:

"We are very anxious that the men work every day."

CODE DEFIED

Defiance of the code was uttered by groups of men at Montour No. 10 of the Pittsburgh Coal Company and Horning No. 4 of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation.

Twelve hundred men are out at the former mine and 500 at the latter. The men said:

"Even if the code is signed we will not go back until we are given a six-hour day. That would mean steady work for us. We also want full recognition of

DISARMAMENT SITUATION TENSE, U. S. ENVOY REVEALS

DAVIS CONFERS WITH BRITISH PREMIER

MacDonald's Outlook On Problem Gloomy

International News Service.

Before leaving London, Davis delivered to the British leader a message expressing President Roosevelt's hopes that the Geneva Disarmament Conference will yet prove a success.

After a two-hour conference with the Prime Minister at 10 Downing street, Davis rushed to his hotel to pack and make ready for the journey. He had time, however, to tell International News Service:

"There is no disguising the fact the disarmament situation has become tense and the effort to reach an agreement has become more difficult."

Davis was accompanied by Arthur Henderson, president of the disarmament conference, when he boarded the boat train en route to Paris.

It was learned that Davis' talk with MacDonald at breakfast was cordial and covered a wide range of topics, but the Prime Minister was unable to conceal his fear that Franco-German differences might upset the conference.

The talk between the two statesmen also covered the American naval building program. It was understood they parted with the mutual feeling that, whatever happens at Geneva, there will be later talks between Britain and the United States, and possibly Japan, on naval matters.

Davis expects to be in Paris for three or four days before continuing on to Geneva.

PARLEY AT PARIS

PARIS, Sept. 18.—(INS.)—The specter of a new Germany, armed for combat, was invoked by France today as preliminary disarmament discussions between this country and Great Britain got under way at the Foreign Office.

Concessions and departures from long-standing French disarmament policies were promised by Foreign Minister Joseph Paul-Boncour at the outset of a formal interview with Capt. Anthony Eden, of the British Foreign Office—all with an eye to halting Germany's rearmament by concerted international pressure.

Early indications were that Britain would fall in line with France's view that definite and immediate steps must be taken if a new European armament race is to be nipped in the bud.

GERMANY FIRM

BERLIN, Sept. 18.—(INS.)—Forceful notice that Germany will refuse to submit to disarmament inequality, served in a belligerent speech by Dr. Wilhelm Frick, Reich Minister of Interior, today confronted representatives of France and England meeting in Paris to discuss the arms issue.

Clearly indicating Germany will obtain what she wants from the Disarmament Conference, soon to reconvene in Geneva, or abandon it, Dr. Frick told 80,000 German youths and girls at Rudolstadt, Thuringia:

"Germany is fed up with being treated as the scapegoat of the world. We decline to continue to play the pariah role."

Toadstool Victims Show Improvement

ALIQUIPPA, Pa., Sept. 18.—(INS.)—Slight improvement was reported today in the condition of four persons who became ill after eating toadstools, picked as mushrooms. A fifth person, Edward Pringle, 20, succumbed to the poisonous fungus.

It was Pringle who had picked the toadstools from which the five people, including his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Pringle, of New Sheffield, and Mr. and Mrs. William Stoll, took sick.

Humphrey Defies Roosevelt Ouster

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—(AP.)—William E. Humphrey continued to serve as a Republican member of the Federal Trade Commission today after flatly rejecting President Roosevelt's request for his resignation.

The refusal was given by letter several weeks ago. Humphrey questioned the President's authority to remove him without cause. Since, Mr. Roosevelt has taken no step to remove the commissioner.

afternoon. Chairman J. K. Morrow said he does not expect to see a great number removed from the books because of the thorough work done by county investigators under Leo A. Riordan.

County Commissioners today announced that more than 70,000 watchers' certificates have been issued to date, an indication of intense interest in the campaign.

DEMOCRATIC GAINS

While the Democratic registration was 15,000 more than the previous record, the total of 55,852 was not as high as party leaders had anticipated.

The final registration day, Saturday, was without any serious disturbance and only one case of "slugging" was reported to the registration commissioners.

Informations were filed today before Alderman Thomas A. Geary against City Detective John Brisky, of 408 Chestnut street, North Side, who is accused of beating a crippled member of a North Side registration board.

The charges were brought under the direction of Edward Boyle, solicitor for the Registration Commissioners. Brisky is charged with assault and batery and interfering with a Registration Board.

Boyle said that Frank Gorick, registrar in the Seventh District of the Twenty-third Ward, was completing his work Saturday night when Brisky demanded to see the books. When Gorick refused, Brisky struck him several times, Boyle said.

HEARINGS HELD

The commissioners and their office force worked all night Saturday, yesterday and last night and will be on the job today.

All hearings are closely watched by attorneys for the Republican organization, Attorneys Ben Steinberg and B. Robert Averbach being on the job throughout all of yesterday.

Among those who were questioned by the commissioners yesterday was Police Capt. Nuncie Marino, who was questioned regarding distribution of tax receipts. He denied knowledge of any receipts. However in checking his residence for the last few years, Recorder Edward Gearing announced that Marino had falsely registered in 1931, registering from St. Clair street when he was residing in Roup street.

Henry Killin, of 1145 Penn avenue, questioned last night, refused to say where he had obtained his tax receipt. He said it was given to him but would not tell by whom. He was released after being warned not to attempt to vote.

3RD CLASS CITY REGISTRY GAINS

An increase of more than 2,000 in the registration in the third class cities was announced by the Bureau of Elections today. A total of 27,523 persons qualified for tomorrow's primaries. In the presidential fight last fall the total registration was 25,579.

In McKeesport the registration totaled 18,109, the Republicans getting 15,983 and the Democrats 2,065. About 61 persons registered under other parties. In Clairton there were 2,714 Republicans and 1,214 Democrats and a dozen others allied with other parties.

Duquesne had a total registration of 5,474, or slightly less than the registration a year ago. Of the total, there were 3,982 Republicans, 1,478 Democrats and 14 scattered.

'PHANTOM' VOTE HEARINGS HELD BY BOARD

Commissioners Given Some Strange Explanations

Registration Commissioners heard some strange stories today as they summoned witnesses to testify regarding the purchase of tax receipts.

The commission is working rapidly in a final effort to purge the list of "phantom" voters. All the testimony taken will be considered this afternoon, and, where evidence warrants, names will be stricken from the lists.

OFFICES MIXED

Among those who appeared before the commission was Ella Sanborn, of 1718 Franklin street, who produced a county tax receipt which she said she purchased herself. Asked where she obtained the receipt, she insisted it was at the City Treasurer's office.

James Burns, an unemployed laborer, of 213 First avenue, produced a tax receipt which he said his landlady gave him.

Fayette Hammonds, who lives at Shantytown, 1600 Liberty avenue, said that a man named "Blackie" gave him a tax receipt and said:

"You owe me 50 cents, and, if you don't pay it, register and vote, you are going to be kicked out of Shantytown."

WARNING GIVEN

Hammonds was warned by the Registration Commission not to attempt to vote, as the Shantytown men are not considered permanent residents.

Laughter rocked the Registration Commission room, as John Easley, Negro, of 3406 Ruthvene street, turned to leave the room after testifying that he was properly registered.

Easley was wearing a football jersey on the back of which was inscribed in bold letters the nickname, "Kiddo Phantom."

POLL OVERSEER PLEA DENIED

The belief that an elections overseer should be a watchdog for all the people and not a political partisan was expressed by Judge James H. Gray today when he refused to supply each faction in McKees Rocks with such an officer. Five overseers had been requested for some districts in that borough.

Judge Gray pointed out that it is the fairness of an election, not its outcome which should concern an overseer. He added:

Solution of Troubles Following Parley Indicated

HAVANA, Sept. 18.—(AP.)—Provisional President Ramon Grau San Martin predicted today that a solution of Cuba's political crisis would be reached before the day was over, and indicated that he might surrender the presidency.

Receiving the foreign press, Dr. Grau San Martin, appearing fatigued but smiling, declared that "the person who occupies the government is unimportant: Fulfillment of the revolutionary program is the principle thing."

TROUBLES GROW

His prediction of a solution of the crisis came as labor troubles were increasing and as Americans throughout the island were described as "nervous" under the threat of new strikes.

The President told the foreign correspondents:

"All non-political sectors are collaborating with the government in an effort to bring about a harmonius solution, the prospects for which are bright.

"The menocalistas, the mendietistas and the ABC are studying various proposals and will present their solution this afternoon, at which time I am almost sure that an agreement will be reached."

Commenting on his interview with United States Ambassador Sumner Welles, Dr. Grau San Martin said that the talk was "most cordial" and that it had resulted in reaffirmation of the "good feeling between the two nations and their peoples." He said that he recognized Mr. Welles' "high motives toward Cuba."

EXPLAINS PURPOSE

The purpose of the present regime, Dr. Grau San Martin continued, is "to lead the country non-politically until the constitutional assembly has been held, after which all political tendencies can express themselves."

He voiced the belief that this task could be carried out in less than a year, possibly in six months. He continued:

"The labor problem and the problem of hunger will be resolved with the help of the government and the army. The problem of strikes is bettering momentarily. Our economic difficulties will be less pressing immediately after political stability returns."

PUBLIC WORKS DELAY DENIED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—(AP.)—The Public Works Administration today denied reports that Pennsylvania projects are being held up awaiting specific information from Gov. Pinchot.

Such information is demanded of applicants for funds and also from the State Advisory Board for Public Works. Pennsylvania law limits the amount of money the state can borrow, and officials said in that connection the Governor's approval of projects is necessary, but that it is entirely a state matter and does not concern the federal administration.

The administration said no special negotiations are being carried on with Pinchot over public works.

MELLON SUIT FIGHT OPENS

Judge R. M. Gibson heard arguments today on demurrers filed by W. L. Mellon and five associates of the Gulf Oil Corporation to suits entered against them for the recovery of $5,000,000 which they are alleged to owe the government for income taxes from 1926 to 1930.

The suits were filed by Albert R. Knight, of Lansdale, Pa., and David A. Olson, of Washington. In the event of a verdict against the defendants, Olson and Knight, acting as taxpayers, would receive half of whatever judgment was found.

Attorney William Watson Smith, for the defendants, asserted the suit was not based on federal statute and that the government had not joined in it. He asserted that it did not have the sanction of the commissioner of Internal Revenue.

Attorney Charles A. Russell, for Olson, said the right of action had lain dormant for years, and that the purpose of the law under which the suits were brought was to permit citizens to act when the government was negligent.

SENATORS HAIL HEARST AID TO INFLATION

Leaders See Speech Clear Up Doubts in Public Mind

Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—Enthusiastically commending the radio address of Willam Randolph Hearst on "Inflation, deflation and reflation," Congressional leaders declared it would prove a powerful aid in bringing about the policy a vast majority in both houses of Congress is demanding to end the depression.

Every Senator and Representative, in commenting upon the address, remarked the clarity and force with which Mr. Hearst presented the complex currency question. Such a statement reaching a vast audience over the air, they believe, will do much toward clearing up doubts in the public mind and hasten the inauguration of an inflation policy.

THOMAS HAILS SUPPORT

Stating that he "naturally approved" of Mr. Hearst's speech, Senator Thomas (Dem.), of Oklahoma, Senate leader in the fight for inflation, said:

"Mr. Hearst thoroughly understands the money question and the importance of money and credit inflation to bring about recovery and permanent prosperity. I am glad to have his support in our fight to end the money famine. We will have no expansion of credit until we have an expansion of the currency. Mr. Hearst has stated the case splendidly."

WARNING JUSTIFIED

Senator King (Dem.), of Utah, expressed himself as especially pleased with Mr. Hearst's comments on the opposition of reactionary bankers to an inflation policy. He said:

"Mr. Hearst's attack on the bankers was sound, and his warning to them was warranted. They must be made to realize there must be some change in our currency policy."

In hearty agreement with Mr. Hearst's third proposal of expanding the currency "by the government buying silver and issuing silver certificates and subsidiary coinage," King said he was prepared to go farther than that—to establish by law a fixed ratio between silver and gold at 18 to 1 or 20 to 1. He added:

"I favor increasing the amount of money in circulation, but have not yet come to favor the issuing of greenbacks. We can have a sound expansion of the currency without any wild scheme that would retard investments and retard business recovery."

SEES POLICIES ADOPTED

Senator Fletcher (Dem.), of Florida, chairman of the Senate Banking and Currency Committee, expressed the belief that the policies advocated by Mr. Hearst will "substantially prevail." Fletcher said:

"I listened to every word of Mr. Hearst's speech as it came over the radio. It was splendid, logical and forceful. His definition of inflation, deflation and reflation was clear, understandable and enlightening.

"His reasoning and views should impress the country. They give us the way out of the depressioon. I believe, in the main, that substantially the policies he advocated will prevail."

'W. R. Hearst Day' Set At Fair October 1

CHICAGO, Sept. 18.—In recognition of the part the Hearst newspapers have played in making "A Century of Progress" the outstanding world's fair of all time; Rufus C. Dawes, president of the fair has announced Sunday, October 1 will be designated as William Randolph Hearst day in honor of the publisher.

President Dawes suggested the Hearst day program to the publisher in a letter sent to him at San Simeon, Cal., three days ago. In a telegraphic reply received by the president of the fair today, Mr. Hearst acknowledged the "signal honor" bestowed upon him and said he would be pleased to permit the fair to designate October 1 as William Randolph Hearst day.

In his letter to Mr. Hearst, Mr. Dawes said:

"The hearty co-operation of the Herald and Examiner and the Chicago American in making a Century of Progress the outstanding world's fair of all time, calls for an expression from us of our deep appreciation.

"We are very anxious in some way to show that appreciation and we suggest that October 1 be declared 'William Randolph Hearst Day' at 'A Century of Progress.' This will give us an opportunity to join with you in celebrating 'A Century of Progress' and your part in it.

"Thank you again for the many kindnesses that you have extended to us."

BOYS CHARGE THREAT BY GAMBLING DEVICE OPERATOR

REFUSED PAY AFTER 'HIT,' PAIR SAYS

Store Owner Denies Gun Accusation By Students

It cost John Slatkiewicz, 18, of 518 Lockhart street, North Side, $25 or 30 days in jail today to satisfy charges that he operated three "numbers" machines, refused to pay a winner, slapped one boy and threatened to shoot him and a friend.

The technical charge lodged against Slatkiewicz when police arrested him and his brother, Stanley, 25, in their confectionery store at 860 Suisman street, North Side, was that of being a suspicious person.

BOTH STUDENTS

The cause of the arrest was the complaint of two students at Latimer Junior High School—William Sietz, 14, of 831 Lovett way, and Lawrence Tischer, 16, of 831 Tripoli street.

They said in court that yesterday they "hit" on one of Slatkiewicz's "numbers" machines—later confiscated by police—and that John refused to pay, accusing them of having cheated. Their winning was $3—300 for 1, with odds of 1,000 to 1.

When they argued, Sietz said John slapped his face. They repaired to an alley, gathered an armful of bricks, they told Magistrate Jones, and returned to the attack.

DENIES THREAT

They claimed John met them at the shop's door, brandishing a pistol, and said:

"If you come in here, I'll let you have it. You'll land in the hospital."

John in court denied he threatened them. He was just putting the gun under the counter, he said.

The machines, not produced at the hearing, were confiscated by North Side police. Stanley Slatkiewicz was discharged.

DYERS' PLANTS UNDER GUARD

Police guarded three retail cleaning plants that resumed operations today while negotiations between the employers and the union committee were delayed awaiting report of the New York strike settlement.

The three plants, each retail establishments with no wholesale cleaning business, announced no efforts would be made to operate trucks. The plants were the Oswald Werner and Sons Company, D. H. Seruset Company and the Crandall-McKenzie and Henderson Company. Offices operated by Werner's and Crandall's were opened downtown. Werner and Seruset announced that all work in the plants would be finished and made available to owners at the plant and offices.

The Crandall firm said that not alone would all unfinished work be completed, but that new orders would be taken.

In the meantime, W. J. Mooney, spokesman for the plant owners who operate wholesale business, said no conference had been called today. Word was awaited from Miss Emmeline Pitt, United States Labor Department mediator, who was to report the New York settlement.

FORD INCREASES KIDNAP GUARD

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 18.—The regular guard at the palatial Grosse Pointe estate of Edsel Ford has been increased by five men, it was learned yesterday, following the disclosure that Henry Ford's private police had brought about the arrest in Los Angeles of Joseph (Red) O'Riordan on a charge of plotting to kidnap the automobile magnate's grandchildren for a $1,000,000 ransom.

It is said that the guard at Edsel Ford's home was augmented because Mr. Ford feared the publicity given the O'Riordan arrest might cause another plot to kidnap his children.

SEARCH IN VAIN FOR MAIL PILOT

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 18.—(AP.)—Ground searchers and observers in airplanes carefully scanned the lake country between here and Toledo today in a third day's fruitless search for some trace of Harold L. Neff, airmail pilot, who disappeared during a flight from Toledo to Cleveland early yesterday.

At nightfall, no clue had been received as to the fate or whereabouts of the 25-year-old flier who was last heard from when he radioed "Everything O. K." at 2:21 Saturday morning, 24 minutes after he took off from Toledo, where he had refueled.

The air searchers—25 Army, private and airline planes—were augmented today by scores of men and boys on the ground and in boats. The latter explored the lake in the possibility Neff's plane was hidden by muddy waters near the shore line.

INSURANCE FAKE HOLDS 6 MORE

Six more alleged confessed members of an auto accident insurance ring were arrested today by city detectives.

They were Sam Consiglio, 38, of 1014 Maple way, Braddock; James Politano, 34, of 4686 Lorigan street; Joseph Murphy, 32, of 3748 Frazier street; Giovanni Ruggerio, 51, of 342 Forward avenue; Joseph Ricco, 35, of 808 Greenfield avenue; Leger De Gurian, 38, of 5873 Shady-Forbes terrace. Sebastian Oliverie, 32, of 3800 Frazier street, out on bail with 10 other alleged members of the ring who pleaded guilty to conspiracy to cheat a week ago, was rearrested. The 11 are awaiting sentence.

Politano's confession, according to detectives, describes a faked accident staged last August 18 at Murray avenue and Windsor street. His car was to strike De Gurian, detectives said. De Gurian was then taken to the headquarters of the ring at 3800 Frazier street, beaten by his friends, slashed with a razor and put to bed while an insurance claim was filed, the alleged confession relates.

BUGGY HOLDUP COSTS FARMER, WIFE $13

'Can't Chase Us,' Jeer Of Three Bandits; Others Robbed

The first horse and buggy holdup in years was on state police records today when three armed youths held up and robbed a farmer and his wife near Saltsburg.

Jack Bale, of near Saltsburg, en route home with his wife, told Greensburg state police that the trio drove a machine in front of the horse and forced him and his wife to alight from the buggy. They took $13 from him, he said. As the men drove away, one said:

"I guess we won't have to worry about you chasing us."

Shortly after the Bale robbery, police were informed by Blaine Leager, of near Blairsville, that three armed men forced his machine to the side of the highway in the Derry road, near Blairsville. He and his wife were also forced to alight from their machine. The trio obtained $2.40 from him, he told police, and tore his wife's wedding ring from her finger. They also took tools and a robe from the machine.

The second holdup had hardly been recorded, police said, when Andrew Kelonic, of Scottdale, reported that he and a girl companion were held up and robbed by three men as they sat in a parked machine in the Latrobe-New Alexandria road. Kelonic said he was forced to hand over $13 and his watch. His companion was robbed of an engagement ring, he told police.

SHOTS FOLLOW NRA TAUNT

SCOTTDALE, Pa., Sept. 18.—Two men were in the hospital suffering bullet wounds and a third was in jail today, all because the youths of Scottdale taunted Naum Achess, 40, Bulgarian storekeeper, for not displaying an NRA Blue Eagle.

Achess ran amuck late last night and emptied his pistol through the window of his store. The bullets felled Patrolman Don Baker and Carl Pritchard, the latter when he ran into the line of fire in an effort to rescue the wounded officer.

Night Patrolman Gus Hoffman arrested Achess after blinding him with the glare of his flashlight. The prisoner was taken to Greensburg barracks of the state police when a crowd collected.

Residents said boys had been ridiculing the storekeeper because he had not signed up under the NRA. They painted a green eagle on his window which he removed.

Liner Wins Sea Battle With Raging Hurricane

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—Tossed and battered by the worst storm in the history of its veteran master, the Ward liner Morro Castle docked in New York today—two days behind schedule.

Of the 140 passengers and 200 crew, more than 70 had suffered cuts and bruises during the raging storm, which swept away the vessel's radia masts and sent many of the women into hysterics.

Capt. Robert R. Wilmott, who stayed on the bridge for 72 hours without relief, said he had never experienced anything its equal during many years at sea.

Capt. Wilmott was high in his praise of Miss Gwendolyn Taylor, pretty young business secretary of Philadelphia.

When the storm was at its worst, Miss Taylor went into the lounging salon, where many of the passengers had gathered, and very calmly began to play the piano.

The Morro Castle put out from Havana Wednesday night at 7 o'clock, after the storm had been located and Capt. Wilmott decided they would miss its greatest fury.

Immediately after a terrific wave hit the liner, passengers fled to their staterooms, donned lifepreservers and gathered in the main salon. Capt. Wilmott said:

"There were times when I actually had to look up from the bridge to see the tops of the waves."

The bridge is 65 feet above the water line.

Associated Press.

Week-end storms that had wreaked death and destruction along the Atlantic Coast had passed out to sea today and fair weather was reported in most sections.

Fourteen persons were known to be dead in North Carolina, where the storm struck its most vicious blow. Property damage there approached $3,000,000. Two persons were drowned in Pennsylvania.

Massachusetts suffered a buffeting yesterday. Wharves were wrecked, shipping disrupted, highways flooded.

New York and New Jersey escaped much of the storm's wrath, but historic Barnegat Lighthouse, a Jersey institution for three-quarters of a century, faced possible destruction.

In Mexico soldiers searched ruins for additional victims of another hurricane that struck the vicinity of Tampico and San Luis Potosi. The number of dead in those two cities was set at 45, with nearly 150 injured and 6,000 homeless.

Lindy Visits Swedish Kin, Maps Soviet Flight

International News Service.

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 18.—Moved by a visit to the home of his ancestors, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh today went forward with plans which may culminate in a flight to Moscow to gather data on commercial aviation there.

It was learned that Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh are planning to make the flight as an expansion of their survey work in North Atlantic skyways which brought them by stages across the ocean by plane.

Last night the Colonel and his wife visited Gaardloesa in Skase, birthplace of the airmen's father. They flew from Stockholm, taking precautions to keep the trip secret.

Despite this, the townspeople gave them a hearty reception, and the fliers were escorted to an old farm where Lindbergh's grandfather once lived.

Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh also drove to Borrby, to visit his nearest relative in Sweden, Berta Svensson, a cousin of the aviator who has a small shop there.

GIRL, 8, SAVES BOY, 3, FROM DROWNING

Jumps In, Clothes and All, to Rescue Child Falling in Pool

Adele Baredian, 8, of 1332 Federal street, may be a girl, but she's all right, opines young Jimmy Ahoorinian, 3, at his home, 7045 Frankstown avenue. In fact, Adele's some girl!

Adele pulled Jimmy out of nine feet of water in the Byerly Crest swimming pool, on the Lincoln highway, yesterday, after he fell in while trying to fill a pop bottle with water. And that's something for a girl Adele's age.

Jimmy didn't like the conversation of his parents, so decided to go it alone for a while. Adele and her younger brother were nearby, when she saw Jimmy lean over the edge of the pool and then slide into the water.

Without stopping to remove her clothing she jumped into the water, while her brother did the yelling, and before help arrived Adele had boosted Jimmy up the side of the bank.

Describing the rescue, the little heroine said:

"I couldn't do anything else. My brother Harry and I started to the store to buy some candy. I had seven cents in my hand and when Jimmy yelled for help I looked for a place to put it. I dropped it into the sand and it was there when I thought of it again."

Weather Conditions.

The tropical storm is now in the far northeast, beyond the limits of the Pittsburgh weather map, and the disturbance that traveled eastward along the Canadian border is now centered over Quebec. High pressure is centered over the central valleys, resulting in clear skies, generally, from the plains states eastward. A low pressure area is centered over Southern Saskatchewan, lowest barometer reported, 29.44 at Swift Current. It is causing considerable cloudy weather over the Far West, and a rising temperature condition over the plains states, but as yet, little rainfall. Temperature changes were slight from the plains states eastward. Maximum temperatures of 90 degrees or higher occurred yesterday over the southern states, and northward over the central valley to Northern Missouri and Central Illinois.

MINERS DEMAND FRICK SIGN SCALE

the holiday was spread throughout Western Pennsylvania.

Although it has not the official sanction of the United Mine Workers of America, every man taking part in it has shown his allegiance to the organization. To have the sanction of the union, a meeting must be called by district officers. Today's meeting, like last week's, was called by the rank and file leaders.

MOSES' STATEMENT

The policies of the H. C. Frick Coke Company were outlined in a statement given out here yesterday by Thomas Moses, president, but the attitude of the company towards the code was still a matter for conjecture. Moses denied that his company had refused to sign the code. He said:

"We expect to obey the law. We are not opposing the government. This is not the policy of the Frick company. Our attitude is one of helpfulness as soon as we can determine how we are to be affected and how we can co-operate."

Answering a direct question as to whether his company would sign the code, Moses replied:

"We have not said he would or would not sign. We have not had an opportunity to determine the course of procedure."

A few hours before, his answer to the same question was:

"We are not going to disobey the law. We will have to mark time until we can determine just how we are affected and how we can co-operate. We are going to be reasonable. There has never been any dispute as to wages. We cannot and do not intend to take any positive, arrogant or unreasonable stand."

TAKES NO PART

The Frick company which has operated non-union for 40 years, has taken no part in the NRA negotiations in Washington. The company withdrew its representation in the early conferences when Hugh S. Johnson, recovery administrator, insisted upon dealing with John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, and other union workers. The Frick company made a separate truce following the general walkout of miners in Western Pennsylvania a month ago.

Commenting on this, Moses said:

"We have not taken any part in the negotiations over the coal code or on wage contracts. We had no representatives at any of the negotiations or conferences. We are not certain as to the interpretation or contents of the code and we have not had an opportunity to determine the course of procedure."

Picketing in the holiday zone was quiet and orderly today. Cool breezes of early morning have prompted the men to build shelters. They appear to be preparing for a long seige—"even if it takes all winter."

Fires dotted he hills of Fayette, Greene and Westmoreland Counties this morning as the men gathered in their accustomed places.

PICKETS MASSED

At the Frick-owned Edenborn mine, near Gates, scene of last week's most serious disorder when 16 men were shot in a clash with company deputies, there was a mass picket demonstration. Men on holiday were joined by others from as far away as Green County and long lines of men paraded back and forth in front of the mine with flags and banners waving. A group of curious spectators, including the inevitable riot-gun armed company deputies. State police patroled the roads. There was no disorder.

A bombing occurred at Smock, near the Frick-owned Colonial No. 1 mine. Joe Cicconi, his wife and five children, ranging in age from 10 months to 9 years, were shaken up in the blast which ripped off the porch of the Cicconi home and Union beer garden, of which Cicconi is the proprietor.

Mrs. Cicconi, her children huddled about her, said she knew of no reason why anybody should seek to harm them. She declared:

"We don't know why this was done except this a place where the miners have a lot of good times and someone might have wanted to fix it so they wouldn't come here any more."

Union miners living in the patch said they were prevented from leaving their homes last night prior to and after the explosion by company deputies. State police are investigating.

Sheriff Harry E. Hackney inserted this advertisement in a Brownsville newspaper:

"Until further notice, by reason of emergency conditions in the county, no further permits will be issued by this office to carry guns."

Chicago Milk Strike Ends, Pickets Quit

CHICAGO, Sept. 18.—(AP.)—The milk strike was over today as picketing farmers disappeared from highways and shipments moved to receiving centers unmolested.

Meanwhile representatives of the Pure Milk Association and dairy companies sought approval in Washington of a proposed one-cent increase in the retail price of milk in Chicago as a move to benefit producers.

P.R.R. Train Kills Man at Woodville

Identity of a man struck and killed by a freight train of the Pennsylvania Railroad at Woodville was being sought today by morgue officials.

The body, that of a man about 30 years old, was discovered by postoffice employes early today, according to morgue officials.

POLA NEGRI

POLA TO MARRY M'CORMICK

Universal Service.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 18.—Friends of Pola Negri, returning to Los Angeles today, reported that the vivacious Polish film star, and Harold McCormick, 61-year-old Chicago multimillionaire, will be married in November.

Although both principals publicly denied the romance some time ago, Miss Negri is declared to have admitted to intimates that she will go to the altar with the wealthy farm implement magnate.

In Paris, it was reported, the two are seen together constantly and friends declare McCormick has showered the actress with presents.

McCormick has been wed twice before—to Ganna Walska, Polish singer, and to Edith Rockefeller McCormick.

Miss Negri was formerly the wife of Prince Serge Mdivani, the debonair scion of the house of Georgia, who is now being sued for separate maintenance by his wife, Mary McCormic, opera star.

BLAST, BULLETS IN MINE WAR

International News Service.

SCRANTON, Pa., Sept. 18.—Violence in the anthracite labor union difficulties reached a new high today when a union official's home was dynamited and a 17-year-old boy was shot down.

Two men in an automobile tossed a piece of explosive at the home of William Brennan in North Scranton, partially wrecked the building and damaged the adjoining residence of Mrs. Elizabeth Powell.

Alexander Horvath, an onlooker when battling broke out between pickets and mine workers at an operation where insurgents called a strike, was struck in the face with a charge of buckshot. He was expected to recover.

Clearfield Miners Vote to Back Code

DUBOIS, Pa., Sept. 18.—(AP.)—Representatives of 10,000 miners in Clearfield, Jefferson and Elk counties voted today to return to work under terms of the coal code signed by operators in Washington.

A crowd of more than 1,000 attended the meeting and cheered the decision.

SIX-HOUR DAY DEMANDED BY MINERS

the United Mine Workers. We mean business."

At Mollenauer No. 3 of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation, at Castle Shannon the men said they were wiling to return to work when President Roosevelt signed the code. They were satisfied with its terms, they said. Three hundred men walked out last Friday on "holiday."

COVERDALE STRIFE

At No. 8 mine of the same company at Coverdale the men are demanding pay for cleaning up slate. They declare this provision should be inserted in the code. The men there have been on strike for about six weeks because they were not paid for cleaning up slate.

One of the men said:

"Why go back to work now? The code doesn't take effect until October 2. Until then the operators could dig cheap coal."

A meeting of miners was to be held near Imperial today. Two hundred men employed at the Moon Run mine of the Pittsburgh Coal Company and at half a dozen independent mines nearby started in trucks for the meeting.

All large operations in Allegheny County are down, obviating the need of picketing. If any of the mines open without granting a six-hour day, some of the men warned, "there will be trouble."

The situation in Westmoreland, Washington and Greene counties where virtually all large mines are idle because of the five-day-old holiday remained little changed today, according to reports.

Union leaders in Westmoreland said they had advised miners to return to work. In Washington County, pickets from Greene County persuaded the miners at the Ellsworth, Marianna and Cokeburg pits of the Bethlehem Mines Corporation to join the walkout this morning.

JOHNSON TURNS TO RETAIL CODE

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—Master codes for retailers and the construction industry, involving upward of 10,000,000 employes today became the goal of Hugh S. Johnson, NRA Administrator.

Although the retail and construction codes have been eclipsed by the bitter fight over coal, recovery officials hold them even more important because they extend into every nook and corner of the nation.

A master code for retailers, worked out by Deputy Administrator A. D. Whiteside, now is on Johnson's desk, with a code embracing more than a score of branches of the construction industry about ready for action.

In the retail code Johnson faced a decision on the major question of price-fixing—a question which may have to be answered finally by President Roosevelt. Johnson has indicated he would approve a provision in a retail code forbidding selling below wholesale cost, plus 10 per cent.

Price-fixing already has been attacked by the Consumers' Advisory Board, of which Mrs. Mary Rumsey is chairman. The exact form of retail price control also is the subject of a battle between leading retail interests.

DAVIS ON TRIAL SECOND TIME IN LOTTERY

day and Friday, Jewish holidays. George J. Mintzer, defense attorney, immediately announced to the court that he intended to ask for adjournment over those two days.

The task of selecting a jury threatened to consume all of today.

The Senator looked himself as he walked into court, flanked by his counsel, Charles J. Margiotti, and Margiotti's aide, Sebastian Pugliese. When he was wheeled out of the South Side Hospital in Pittsburgh four months ago after an emergency operation for appendicitis he was a ghost.

Davis said he spent his convalescence writing a book on strikes, explaining:

"I studied every strike back for 100 years, and I just finished the book last week. A Christian Scientist advised me not to read, but to build up something. So, I wrote the book. It did me a lot of good."

As he sat waiting for court to open, he said that so far as he knew there would be no attempt to obtain another continuance. He added:

"I feel pretty well now, but I don't think I will be able to stand any long sessions."

Margiotti was tickled pink with the appearance of his client. At the first trial a year ago (it ended in a mistrial), the Senator was sick. When he wasn't dozing off to sleep at counsel table he was little interested in the proceedings. Today he was alert.

Another attorney joined the Davis forces today. He is Howard Woltz, of North Carolina. Margiotti said the Moose of that state had sent him here.

He is the second North Carolinian attached to the trial, Judge Johnson Hays being from there.

Davis' other lawyers are Charles H. Tuttle, of New York, and Thomas Davies, of Washington. Somebody remarked that Davis was knee-deep in counsel.

COUNSEL CONFIDENT

Margiotti confided, confidentially and publicly, that he felt his case was in better shape now than it was a year ago. He is not pessimistic as to the outcome. However, he has to reckon with young, shrewd Louis Treadwell, the government's prosecutor. Nobody denies that Treadwell is competent.

The outcome will mean either the death or the continuance of Davis' political future. If he loses, he knows himself that he has little chance of remaining in the Senate.

This may have significance: After the first trial ended prematurely last year, Davis' counsel queried the jurors one by one, out of court. Ten of them signed statements saying they would have acquitted Davis, two said they would have wanted to hear the Senator's testimony before deciding.

Davis has a co-defendant, Theodore Miller, head of the propagation department of the Moose order.

There was a story in one of the papers here yesterday that the Senator was being mentioned as successor to Robert P. Lamont, who resigned as head of the steel industry's organization. This should not be taken too seriously.

AUTO DEALERS WORK ON CODE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—(AP.)—Unfair practices in making allowances for used cars were described today to the Recovery Administration as the center of virtually all the trade evils in the automobile retail industry.

This statement was made by F. W. A. Vesper, of St. Louis, president of the National Automobile Dealers' Association, at a hearing on the automobile retailers' code. He said efforts were made in drafting the code to eliminate this evil.

Vesper said that salesmen on a commission basis had suffered the greatest hardship in the last three years because they have not been assured any weekly earnings.

TRUCK WRECKED ON RIDGWAY'S HILL

ELLIOTT URGES DIRIGIBLE BE ENCOURAGED

By ELLIOTT ROOSEVELT
Aviation Editor of the Sun-Telegraph

LOS ANGELES Sept. 18.—In just a few days, or weeks, the Macon, America's largest and newest airship, will be crossing the United States to take up its new quarters on the Pacific at Sunnyvale, Cal.

What does the dirigible of the Zeppelin type add to our picture in military and commercial aviation?

In this country its use as a vehicle of commerce is unknown. Aside from the historic round-the-world flight of the Graf Zeppelin, made possible by William Randolph Hearst, America has had no opportunity of knowing this type of aerial transport.

Yet the Graf has been flying on regular schedules for years.

Some years ago, men of vision in the United States formed themselves into two groups and organized corporations for the study of airship operations. These corporations have continued as research units and have gathered much valuable data.

With the center of trade swinging more and more to the Pacific Ocean, fast service for mail, passengers and light merchandise is vital. Steamers are slow.

Constructive plans for commercial service to the Hawaiian and Philippine Islands, and to the Orient, await only necessary legislation.

For a time after the Akron crash, even air transport business suffered. The public felt that if the Navy could not safely operate aircraft then surely privately-owned companies could not be expected to have a higher safety ratio. But such a mental attitude is unfair and unfounded.

It must be remembered Dr. Hugo Eckener has brought the Graf Zeppelin safely through five years of world-wide operation and that men of his experience might have saved the Akron.

Let us, therefore, look to a universal recognition of the lighter-than-air ship as a commercial vehicle for transportation over wide oceans.

(Copyright, 1933, by the Sun-Telegraph.)

(Mr. Roosevelt in this and subsequent articles, which will appear under his name, is writing as a private individual and is not in any way to be regarded as having any connection with officialdom in Washington.—Editor's Note.)

The American Navy—And Foreign Advice

BRITAIN 448,000; JAPAN 193,000; FRANCE AND ITALY NONE.

"We have done almost no building as compared with the other signatories to the Washington treaty since 1922, after we destroyed most of the naval power we had.

"Japan has laid down, or appropriated for, 164 vessels, totaling 410,000 tons; Great Britain 148 ships, including two battleships, totaling 470,000 tons.

"In the meantime, the United States, faced with the growing antagonism of the world, has appropriated for the niggardly total of 40 ships of 197,000 tons.

"THAT IS LESS THAN ONE-FOURTH OF THE BUILDING DONE BY JAPAN AND A LITTLE MORE THAN ONE-FOURTH DONE BY ENGLAND.

"The British and the Japanese programs have comprised practically every class of combatant ship, and have maintained their navies very nearly up to the full treaty strength.

"In order to reach treaty strength by December, 1936, the United States will have to build 119 vessels; Great Britain 66, and Japan 7.

"Not only have we failed to build ships, but the vessels we have are all under-manned, while Great Britain has more vessels than the United States in each category in full commission, and Japan's categories are all practically built up to treaty limits and are fully manned. In other words, the United States Navy is 75 per cent manned; Great Britain's is 90 per cent; and Japan's is 100 per cent manned."

THESE WERE almost the last words of the American Admiral who met a hero's death when the Akron was destroyed. Every one of these words is true and their truth is known to no Britisher better than Sir John Simon, the British minister for foreign affairs.

In the light of this record, the protest of the British minister for foreign affairs against President Roosevelt's decision to begin the building up of the American Navy is an insult to the intelligence of the American people and reveals his contempt for what he believes to be their complete gullibility.

DRYS TO FIGHT REPEAL VOTE IN COURTS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—(AP.)—The Rev. William Sheafe Chase, superintendent of the International Reform Federation anounced in a statement today court action probably would be instituted within a week of 10 days to challenge the constitutionality of the probihition repeal votes in 29 states.

He would not disclose where the action would be originated other than to say proceedings would be instituted against the secretary of one of the states which has not yet voted to determine "on what authority he expects to waste public funds upon an unconstitutional election." He said:

"It will test the constitutionality of the acts of 29 states which have voted wet, and probably will result in pronouncing them null and void."

CHURCHES DIVIDED

BOISE, Ida., Sept. 18.—(INS.)—With a rift imminent in the ranks of the churches and with the din of last-minute pulpit exhortations fresh in their ears, Idaho voters prepared to go to the polls tomorrow on the national repeal issue.

Conservative wets predicted a 3 to 2 majority and estimates ranged as high as 2 to 1.

Public statements were made that every town over 5,000 population would go overwhelmingly for repeal and only in the exclusively rural and some Mormon communities of the southwest would dry sentiment prevail.

Keen disappointment was known to be felt by drys Saturday when Senator William E. Boran returned to Boise with nothing more than the laconic statement that "I think the people know how I feel" and "There isn't much time for any effective work."

Intense feeling crept into the dry campaign Sunday in unanimous and bitter denunciations from the protestant pulpits of recent pro-repeal statements by Bishop M. S. Barnwell, of the Episcopal diocese.

With a record of state constitutional prohibition extending back three years before national enactment of the Eighteenth Amendment and with a predominance of local dry laws even before that, Idaho has been a battle ground in the present test.

Twice Dr. Clarence True Wilson has toured the state in behalf of the prohibition cause.

NEW MEXICO TEST

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Sept. 18. — (INS.) — New Mexico was prepared to go to the polls tomorrow and express a decided preference for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

The vote generaly anticipated will give repeal a majority of about two to one, although some repealists predict a three-to-one majority.

Killed on Bridge

JOSEPH B. PEEL, 19

YOUTH FATALLY HURT BELIEVED HIT-RUN VICTIM

County Detective Peter Connors continued his probe today into the death of Joseph B. Peel, 19, former newspaper reporter, who was found unconscious on the Liberty Bridge, presumably the victim of a hit-and-run driver yesterday.

His skull fractured in a dozen places, Peel died several hours later in the Mercy Hospital. With his death, police and detectives set out to find the motorist who had informed the tunnel police of the incident.

Early yesterday morning, Connors reported Peel separated from a group of young men and women with whom he had attended a party near his home, 2215 Brownsville road. That was at 4:30. He was found on the bridge two hours later, and Connors is trying to trace his movements during that time.

Police believe he was hitching a ride on the bridge when an automobile struck him.

Peel had made his home with his grandmother, Mrs. Emile Havey. He was a graduate of Carrick High School and attended Duquesne University. He was a member of St. Basil's Roman Catholic Church. He leaves his father, Basil Peel, of Hays street.

A Sale of Famous

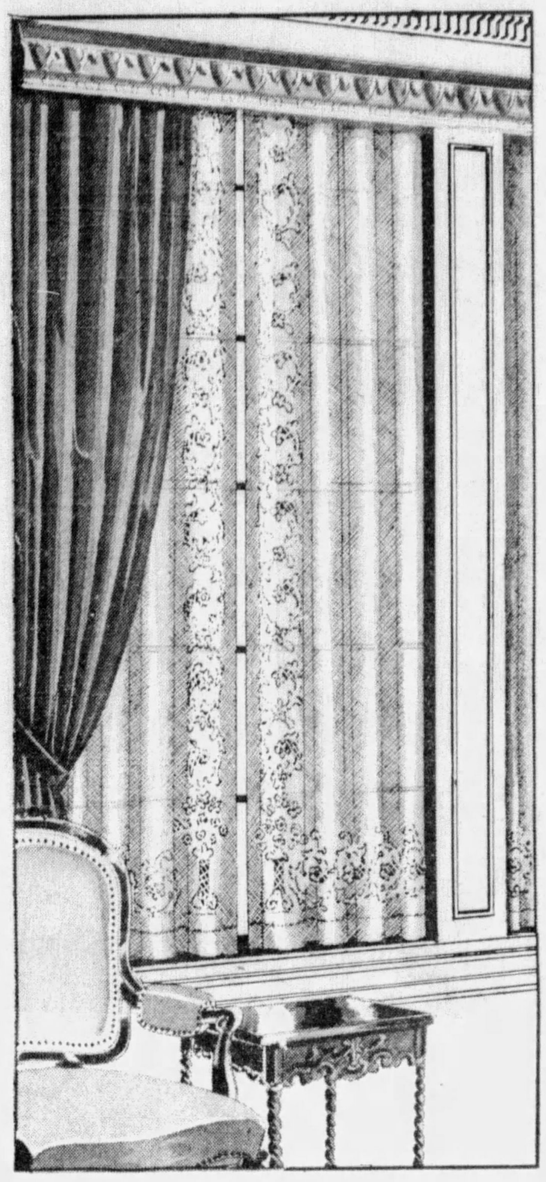
QUAKER



Lace Curtains

At Less Than

1/2 Today's Regular Prices

Lace curtains are the fashion today, and Quaker is known the country over as an authority.

That Pittsburgh appreciates the opportunity to buy Quaker Curtains at a saving was evidenced by the spectacular response to a sale last June. We planned then to repeat the event in the midst of the fall redecorating season when every home is considering new curtains . . . and this is the fortunate consequence! Old prices will prevail in this sale, notwithstanding the fact that curtain prices have gone sky high in the last two months.

Just 2500 pairs. Duplicates of patterns (more than 80) can be had, but they'll cost at least double this price!

$1.55 Pair

Filet lace curtains in bordered designs, with plain or figured centers. Woven of the fine super-twist yarns that make Quaker Lace Curtains so durable. All 2¼ yards long. 2½-yard lengths to match, $1.75 Pair.

$1.95 Pair

Attractive all-over patterns and some with interesting borders—sheer looking curtains that will stand innumerable launderings. 2½ yards long. In ecru.

$2.55 Pair

Exceptionally fine qualities made from the finest combed yarns and styled in unusual patterns—with figured hems and borders and elaborate designs. 2¾ yards long. 2½-yard lengths to match, $2.85.

$2.95 Pair

The finest of Quaker Curtains . . . exquisite all-over patterns, figured borders. Made with the ravel-proof lock stitch that characterizes Quaker Lace Curtains. In ecru tone. 2¼ yards long.
2½-yard lengths to match, $3.25.

Other Quaker Lace Curtains, including the new rough weaves, Country House Curtains that are ready to hang and adjustable from the bottom . . . Vista Curtains that can be drawn back like draperies. $2.95 to $4.50 Pair.

Quaker Lace Ensembles

The realm of Quaker lace extends to the dining room table . . . and bedroom, and the same distinctive styling of Quaker Curtains is reiterated in each piece. New and lovely table cloths . . . runner sets . . . bridge sets and napkins for the dining room. Luxurious bedspreads and scarfs for the bedroom . . . and far less expensive than you've expected such beautiful things. See them in the Linen Section.

Quaker Lace Table Cloths—72x72 to 72x108-inch sizes. $6.00 to $12.75.
Quaker Lace Doilies—30c to 60c.
Quaker Lace Bridge Sets—$3.75.
Quaker Lace Bedspreads—Single and Double sizes, $6.00 and $7.50.

Lace Uses Demonstrated by Quaker Representative

Every day this week, Miss Houltaine, representing the Quaker Lace Company, will be available for advice on the art of selecting and hanging Lace Curtains . . Table Settings . . . Bedroom Pieces.

You are invited to attend her informal lectures and demonstrations daily at 10:30, 12:30 and 2:30. The fine art of decorating with lace curtains and accessories will be illustrated at each lecture.

VOTE WORKERS GIVEN FINAL ORDERS

Political headquarters today swarmed with workers getting their last-minute instructions for patrolling the polls at tomorrow's primary election in the interests of various candidates.

All campaign managers took time out from these conferences to issue optimistic statements of success for their candidates, and some of them had a basis for their claims. Others were merely going through the orthodox political motions.

Miss Hannah Patterson, vice chairman of the Citizens' League, this morning gathered her district workers who will guard the interests of Councilman P. J. McArdle, a Republican mayoralty candidate. The Citizens' League intends to rely principally on women watchers, believing they will be more effective and will not be victims of the thuggery which frequently occurs in some voting districts.

VETS AT POLLS

Veterans in uniform will guard the polls in the interest of Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell, a second Republican candidate, and Mayor John S. Herron's headquarters is prepared to rely upon the usual organization stalwarts to further his interests.

The Mayor himself expressed confidence regarding the outcome. He said:

"After being in touch with all districts of the city, I am thoroughly satisfied that the entire Regular Republican ticket will be victorious tomorrow. I feel that myself and the five Councilmen will be chosen the party's standard bearers."

Former Senator John S. Weller, manager of the Herron campaign, today issued a statement claiming victory for the Mayor and his entire councilmanic ticket.

Former Mayor William A. Magee and James F. Malone, independent candidates for Council, tonight will make a final appeal by radio to voters.

J. Garfield Houston, directing the campaign for McArdle, declared there had been a material swing in McArdle's direction. Independents were privately predicting that two members of their councilmanic slate might break through among the five to be nominated.

County Controller Robert G. Woodside, Mackrell's manager, prophesied that his candidate's opposition to "Coyneism" had been effective with the voters.

Mackrell himself reiterated the charge that there was a connection between the Herror and McArdle' campaigns to benefit the Mayor.

HERRON FAVORITE

From regular headquarters it was learned that in several wards an effort would be made to swing votes to Judge Frank A. Piekarski for County Court, though he was not listed among the approved candidates in cards passed out last week.

Assistant United States Attorney Raymond D. Evans was reported to be getting aid from some ward chairmen for Common Pleas Court. For three places to be filled only Judge Harry H. Rowand and County Chairman William H. Coleman were indorsed officially.

In the Democratic primary confident statements came from the rival headquarters of William N. McNair and John M. Henry. McNair has the better organized and financed campaign, and it was claimed for him that the majority of the new Democratic registration would go to his standard.

Henry, asserting that he had convinced voters that McNair was a "machine" candidate backed by County Chairman David L. Lawrence and Joseph F. Guffey, expressed the belief that the new Democratic voters had left the Republican party because of their opposition to organization rule, and would carry that sentiment to the polls tomorrow and vote for him.

Idle Vets Stampede For 5,000 Ford Jobs

DETROIT, Sept. 18.—(AP.)—Jamming streets and halting pedestrian and street traffic over several blocks in downtown Detroit, a throng of unemployed war veterans, estimated by police to number nearly 5,000, today began registering as applicants for 5,000 jobs promised to veterans by the Ford Motor Company.

Laughing and joking, all apparently in good humor, the veterans, several hundred of whom had waited all night in order to be first on call at the registration desks in American Legion Memorial Hall, maintained good order as the interviewing began.

Mr. and Mrs. Voter of Pittsburgh and Allegheny County:

Each cross-mark (X) you place on a ballot tomorrow is your expression of a decision in a matter of vital importance to you and your community.

Interest only in one or two contests and hasty marking of the remainder of your ballot is ignoring an opportunity and a duty to contribute to better government.

A good Mayor is a necessity, but unless you, Mr. and Mrs. Voter, provide a good Council, there can be little hope for better city government. Five councilmanic candidates will be nominated.

County voters will join city voters in deciding the complexion of the judiciary branch of our government. The caliber of our judges must be of the highest standard.

Juvenile Court, which deals only with children's cases, and which cares for the homeless and neglected children of the county, can be best handled by a woman.

EVERY OFFICE INVOLVED IS IMPORTANT

The candidates indicated by a cross-mark (X) after their names have publicly pledged themselves to render just and faithful service to Allegheny County and Pittsburgh if nominated and later elected.

John Q. Public

VOTE MACHINES SPEEDED TO POLLS HERE

The remaining 177 voting machines of the 908 to be used in Pittsburgh and third class cities tomorrow, will be delivered to the polling places today, and by nightfall everything will be in readiness for the election tomorrow, Director William T. Rees of the Bureau of Elections, said today.

Seven hundred and thirty-one machines were delivered Saturday and yesterday. In only a few cases was there any trouble. Where the polling places are located in school buildings, election bureau employes found it difficut to gain entrance, the custodian of the building not being present.

The 924 guards, recruited from the ranks of the local National Guard units and service organizations, were on the job over the week-end to prevent any tampering with the machines after being delivered to the polling places. Twenty-four hour service is being maintained at the polls.

INSPECTORS ON JOB

Tomorrow morning when the election board takes charge, the guards will be replaced by the 436 machine inspectors appointed by the County Commissioners.

In addition to delivering the remainder of the machines today, elections bureau workers will be busy deliveirng election equipment, the ballots and books, to the various election boards. In some cases this equipment will not be delivered until tomorrow morning just before the polls open.

County investigators yesterday spent several hours in Stowe Township, rounding up 31 sample ballots which disappeared from bundles delivered to one of the election boards. The bundle should not have been opened until tomorrow morning. Seventeen of the ballots were recovered.

SCATTERS BALLOTS

According to Director Rees, it was discovered Saturday afternoon that the ballots for the township would have to be reprinted. The bundles having been delivered, it was necessary to collect them again. Collectors discovered that 31 were gone. At the home of the election board member to whom they were delivered, it was learned that a daughter innocently had opened the bundle and scattered the ballots.

The reprint was necessary when it was found that there were candidates running for both township auditor and township collector. Recently the township commissioners set up the office of controller to replace the auditors.

Judge Gray Indorses Lindsay Candidacy

The candidacy of Alexander P. Lindsay for Common Pleas Court was indorsed in a statement today by Judge James H. Gray. Citing 16 years association with Lindsay, Gray said he was convinced he was well qualified for the judgeship.

Mt. Lebanon Man Runs on Record

George Ross Fisher, candidate for tax collector of Mt. Lebanon Township, is running on a record of tax reduction accomplished during his past four years as township auditor.

Fisher substantially increased the township income and reduced its operating cost in a number of departments, according to his campaign committee. A graduate of the University of Pittsburgh, he is a trained public accountant.

CHARGES TRICK ON BALLOT

The County Commissioners were charged with favoritism to Judge Ralph H. Smith, candidate for Common Pleas Court, in a statement issued today by Andrew G. Smith, candidate for the court.

He said the Commissioners failed to submit sample ballots to candidates until the official ballots had been printed, thus preventing correction of a wrong address for A. Marshall Thompson, candidate for Common Pleas.

Judge Smith was granted designation of his occupation on the ballot although his request was not presented until after the time for it had expired, his namesake asserted, also charging an unfair arrangement of Judge Smith's name on the ballot.

Had sample ballots been presented, Smith said, he would have had time to protest the alleged favoritism. He declared he and Thompson could have gone to court to compel a reprinting, but refrained to save the people the $20,000 it would cost.

Loved ones need you!

—you dare not fail them

NO ONE has to tell you that mental distress and nervous strain, overwork, colds, the "flu," sickness or a deficient diet weaken the body. You can feel it.

Now medical science attributes that tired-worn-out-let-down feeling to deficient hemo-glo-bin (skin and tissue purifier) in the blood—so necessary for carrying the vital oxygen from the lungs to all parts of the body—even to the skin—and in throwing off body poisons.

Even a sufficient and well balanced diet cannot properly nourish the body, unless the blood contains sufficient hemo-glo-bin.

Today tens of thousands take a course of S.S.S. Tonic once or twice a year to regain lost strength, restore the appetite and to clear up the skin.

Take S.S.S. just before meals. No need to change your diet . . . S.S.S. will not interfere with any other medicine you may be taking. You will be happy with the beneficial results obtained. Start taking it today. At all drug stores in two convenient sizes. The larger size is more economical.

MORNING STAR PATTERN 545

By LAURA WHEELER

Stars have always been favored by the quiltmaker. Unlike many star quilts though, this one, as lovely as its name, is very easy to make. It has a quality seen in few quilts; when finished it has the effect of two patterns laid on each other. Simple and quick to construct, the pattern is handsome carried out in four materials as shown.

Pattern 545 comes to you with complete, simple, instructions for cutting, sewing and finishing, together with yardage chart, diagram of quilt to help arrange the blocks for single and double bed size, and a diagram of block which serves as a guide for placing the patches and suggests contrasting materials.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Insect Bites Not to Be Ignored

Few things are more annoying than the bite of a mosquito or other insect. The sting usually leads to the sudden appearance on the skin of a firm, whitish patch surrounded by a reddish area. Often insect bites lead to great discomfort and pain.

Dr. Copeland

As a rule, the common mosquito bite produces temporary annoyance. But the bite of an insect like the "redbug", or "jigger" may prove to be more serious.

These pests are small, difficult to distinguish and are usually encountered in the grass and weeds of pastures and meadows.

If you have ever suffered from such a bite you will agree with me when I say it is a painful and distressing affliction. Red blotches appear upon the skin and these may assume the size of a silver half-dollar. Nausea and fever may complicate the picture. A blister forms at the point of the bite and when this ruptures there is always the danger of secondary infection.

Never neglect a jigger bite. A warm bath is beneficial. After bathing apply baking soda to the bite by dabbing it on like talcum powder. At times a weak solution of ammonia lessens the pain and discomfort.

When the blisters break avoid contact with soiled linen or clothes. Keep a sterile gauze bandage on the open blister until it has healed. A mild soothing antiseptic ointment can be applied.

Another painful insect bite is that of the black spider. This insect is frequently seen around barns and such. Whenever possible my advice is to avoid this insect, as its bite is painful and really dangerous.

The bite produces stinging and sharp pain. The local symptoms subside but within a short time the victim complains of agonizing pain throughout the body. Cold sweats, difficulty in breathing, nausea and vomiting are other signs of the disturbance. In severe cases delirium and convulsions of a violent and alarming nature may occur.

Insect bites are common during the summer and fall months. Immediate medical attention is advisable since the outcome of the bite may be serious. Never neglect a bite of some unknown insect, no matter how trivial it appears to you.

McARDLE AS VIEWED BY MAGEE

One Good Man's Estimate of Another

I do not hesitate to say without disparagement or detriment to any of his opponents, all of whom are my friends, that he is not only their peer in moral and intellectual endowment as well as training, but in a composite sense is the best qualified of them all.

I have many times said that P. J. McArdle is the most competent public official who has entered the city hall during the past 25 years.

His logical analysis of intricate municipal questions, his rugged character, his sincerity and courage in standing up against political and economic power places him, in my opinion, without rival among all of the members of Council who have sat in that body since the Council of nine was inaugurated in 1911. I have made no secret of my intention to cast my vote Tuesday for P. J. McArdle for the Republican nomination for Mayor of Pittsburgh.

Varied Opinions Received Concerning 'Bad Wife'

How much should a man forgive a bad wife?

Joe asked. Three times his Little Woman had plunged him into dreadful debts—and then walked out, leaving him to hold the sack. She had to have a big house and ritzy clothes; had to outdo the Joneses, whether Joe could afford it or not. So her theme song was "Charge it." And when she couldn't charge any more—she left.

But now—well; she wants to come back. Says she'll turn on the gas if he doesn't take her. Swears that at last she loves him, and will try to be a Regular Wife if he'll just give her Another Chance.

Shall he?

"No!" says Stasia.

Dear Elsie Robinson:

The tragic letter from "Joe" has moved me more deeply than any of the others I have seen in your column. I must answer it.

Because I adore my own beloved husband, I can feel so deeply the hurts that Joe has sustained at the hands of the travesty on womanhood who calls herself his wife. Oh, it would be too dreadful, were he to allow her to return to him! The tragedy would become more ghastly, because she is a coward and a wastrel—a parasite, feeding upon the strength of others because she lacks the courage and character to sustain herself or give him a break.

And she is only making vain threats to compel him to do as she wants. Let Joe call her bluff, and then thank God that he had the courage to do so.

There is an almost identical case in my own family, where the man had not the courage to call the woman's bluff, and his life has been a hell on earth to this day.

Oh, do tell Joe—in the name of happiness and peace of mind, to say nothing of health—to save himself from the strangling arms of this creature, while there is yet time. Don't take her back, Joe. STASIA.

A DIFFERENT OPINION

Is that good advice to Joe?

Ellen says it isn't. For Ellen was once a "bad wife," and—

Dear Elsie:

I want to tell Joe my story. Maybe it will help. I am now 29, and I have been married for 15 years. I have a fine big boy in Hi, and we are extremely happy, we three, all because my husband had a generous, forgiving nature.

Marriage at 14 and motherhood a year later didn't give me much chance to "see life." As a child I had nothing, and I longed, always, for a lovely home and babies of my own.

I raved savagely that I'd never live in such poor places, after I married. Consequently, I plunged my husband head over heels in debt. It all looked so easy to pay, when we figured it on paper. But I didn't figure on the baby and new expenses. We got behind on everything, and had to borrow. Bills, bills and more bills.

I ran away. Why? I don't know. I had to go to work to live, and I did. But in a short time, I cried myself to sleep every night.

LEFT HIM AGAIN

Then I met my husband, and he begged me to come home. Finally I did. But a year later I left again—for no real reason. My baby's illness brought me back. I promised faithfully I'd not leave again. But one day my husband gave me $40 to pay a bill. I lost it, and I was afraid to go home. I got a job again.

Then I got sick and was taken to a hospital—and when I came to myself there was my husband, beside my bed, praying for me! I shall always remember it. Something came over me, and I begged his forgiveness. I came home again.

I have tried hard to bring him happiness. I know I have succeeded. I don't know a couple as happy as we are. We're still in debt, buying our home. But I am different. I realize how hard he works to make a dollar.

I have only two house dresses, a pair of shoes and a change of underwear. But I don't care. I worship my husband. He has never mentioned the past to me. How could I help loving him?

Please, Joe, be as generous as he is. Give your wife another chance, especially if she is young. Forgive her, and try to forget the past! ELLEN.

There are the to sides to the story. Which side are you on?

Should Joe try again—or shouldn't he? Will she make his happiness, or wreck it, if he does? Would you chance it?

Should a "bad wife" be given another chance?

By FAY KING

Should Helen Wills Moody never play tennis again, or never regain the title she forfeited by defaulting, she will still always remain one of the loveliest young women who ever excelled in sports.

Her beauty, grace, modesty and dignity have inspired admiration and respect everywhere.

There has never been anything moody about "Little Poker Face" excepting that it became her name by marriage. Her level-headedness throughout her grand career certainly indicates that she would have preferred defeat to defaulting. But she would have preferred defaulting to a sensational collapse in public.

None knew better than she what would be thought, said and written of her action, and surely only acute physical distress could ever have prompted her to walk from any court as she courageously did.

A Sequel to Heart of a Wife

Madge's Fear of Lee Chow Is Revived

I threw back my head and frankly stared at Hugh as he told me he thought Avis Arlen was not nearly as poverty stricken as she pretended to be.

He nodded emphatically.

"I mean it," he said. "Of course you, with your divine charity, would not think of the possibility of such duplicity. But you yourself have told me that you believe she would stop at nothing to harm Mary, and my own observation has borne out your comment. Am I right in thinking that when she went back to Chicago last summer she was under something of a social cloud, as far as Mr. Veritzen was concerned?"

I looked up at him, surprised.

"You are an astute observer," I said. "I am sure that Mr. Veritzen most emphatically disapproved of her conduct at the dinner dance we gave last summer."

"If he didn't he was either blind and deaf or had a 'blind spot' in his brain," Hugh retorted. "But I am glad to have you confirm my judgment that he did disapprove of her. I have heard you speak of her persistence in following up anything she wishes to do, and she has sense enough to know that if Philip Veritzen disapproves of her conduct, her only possible hold on him would be through his chivalric pity for the daughter of an old friend in distress. I may be misjudging her. She may be in dire need. But—I doubt it."

"Your argument is most convincing," I told him, smiling. "I'm almost beginning to doubt her statement myself."

MRS. TICER RETURNS

"We'd better not discuss it any more," he said, dropping his voice. "I hear Mrs. Ticer at the door."

My neighbor bustled in, brushing by the Chinese servant in her haste to get to me.

"I'm sorry to have kept you waiting," she said in hurried apology, "but I simply could not get my errands done any more quickly. Are you sure you're all right? How is your ankle?"

"Couldn't be better," I told her smiling. "And you haven't delayed me at all. But if you are ready now, I'll drive you home. I have to go to Southampton on an errand for Mother Graham, so I can take you as far as your door."

"I don't think you ought to be driving around alone," she said. "Suppose you had tire trouble. You ought not to walk a yard. I think I'd better go with you."

"Didn't you tell me a few minutes ago how very busy you were?" I asked her reproachfully, and Hugh struck in easily.

"Mayn't I offer my services?" he asked. "I was going over to Southampton a little later, anyway, and I might as well go a few minutes earlier than I planned to. I'll promise to attend to all tires, and to see that you reach the farmhouse again safely. Will that make you feel better, Mrs. Ticer?"

"I'll say it will," she said fervently, and then Hugh started, as if at some forgotten duty or courtesy.

"How remiss I have been!" he said. "Lee Chow will never forgive me if I let you go without his seeing you."

I wanted to cry out that I had no desire to see this high-born Chinese friend, although I owed him much gratitude.

"Let me take you back to the living room first," Hugh said, and, leaning upon his arm, with Mrs. Ticer carrying my stick, I made my way back to the big room, feeling incalculably foolish in the process.

Mrs. Ticer leaned toward me as soon as Hugh had left the room in search of Lee Chow.

"What's the matter?" she said. "You're as white as a sheet, and you're trembling all over. Did you turn your ankle again?"

"I don't know," I told her, glad of any pretext to account for the agitation which the prospect of seeing Lee Chow had given me. "It gave me a nasty twinge just now, but I don't think I turned it."

"You've no business walking on it yet, at all," she said severely. "But there's no keeping you down. I know that much. But here comes the major back again, and alone."

"I am sorry to have kept you," Hugh said when he came up to us, "but Lee Chow is not well enough to leave his room this afternoon, he says. He begs you will excuse him."

But even as I murmured my regret, I knew that the Chinese had spoken anything but the truth. I still could see his face peering out at me from behind the curtains.

Household Hints

When scraping new potatoes cut the thumb from kid glove and wear on the right hand thumb. This will prevent the unsightly stain which new potatoes cause.

Stick-on labels can be removed by laying thin paper over them then pressing with a warm iron.

When cleaning cane-bottomed chairs, turn them upside down and wash with soapy water until they are wet through. Drying will stiffen the cane.

When tomatoes are rather soft, stand them in a basin of cold water for a while. This will harden them sufficiently to make them easy to cut.

Contract Bridge

HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

The Sins of Our Partners

When a player holds a Yarborough and his partner doubles a Grand Slam bid, he may be pardoned if he has a faint ray of hope that the contract will be defeated, but still, at the same time, retains a slight degree of pessimism. If the contract is made, it is not to be wondered at if he is inclined to charge his partner with undue optimism, when he has been silent throughout the bidding. It is a rather open question whether a player holding four trumps to the Queen and two Queen-Knave combinations should double a Grand Slam contract. It is probable that his Double will do no harm whatever so far as the trump situation is concerned—that is, in locating his trump honor—as it is almost certain that his partner holds no trumps at all. His other combinations either will or will not take a trick or tricks and probably the Double will merely tip off the Declarer to something that he knows already. However, the partner in such instances, unless he is extremely fair-minded, will always have a lurking thought that perhaps the disaster could have been avoided if his partner had not doubled.

South, Dealer.

North and South vulnerable.

	♠ 107 ♡ A K J 7 6 ◇ A 10 8 2 ♣ A 8
♠ Q J 9 ♡ Q 4 3 2 ◇ 7 6 3 ♣ Q J 10	West / East / North / South	♠ 8 5 4 3 2 ♡ — ◇ 9 5 4 ♣ 9 5 4 3 2
	♠ A K 6 ♡ 10 9 8 5 ◇ K Q J ♣ K 7 6

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 NT (1)	Pass	3 ♡ (2)	Pass
4 ♡ (3)	Pass	5 NT (4)	Pass
6 ♡ (5)	Pass	7 ♡ (6)	Pass
Pass	Double (7)	Redouble (8)	Pass
Pass	Pass

1—South holds 4 honor-tricks. His choice of a bid is extremely difficult. His hand is too strong to pass and probably one no-trump is the best choice of a bid as there is no suit approaching biddability in the hand. The only conceivable alternative would be one diamond or one club.

2—An obvious Forcing Take-out. North can account for about 8 honor-tricks in the hand and feels quite well assured that a Slam is in the offing. The only dangerous feature is that South's bid of one no-trump implies that he has no long suit. However, the wealth of honor-tricks may make a long suit unnecessary.

3—A natural response.

4—Showing three Aces and the King of hearts.

5—South must make some response here, and while he may have misgivings about the Grand Slam which his partner may now bid, he has no other bid.

6—At the very worst, the Grand Slam should depend upon a finesse. North should make the bid.

7—A questionable Double. The fact that it locates the heart Queen is probably immaterial, but the other combinations are not sure trick takers.

8—This comes almost as a matter of course.

East, with a perfect Yarborough, decided to open a spade. This was won with the King in Dummy and a trump laid down. The finesse was not taken on the first round as North could see plenty of entries provided West held all the trumps. When East showed out, the play of the hand was mere routine and all 13 tricks were made, for, it is needless to say, a top-score.

Suds

So many laundresses dislike throwing out suds from previous washings, just because the soap is there. Soiled suds will not thoroughly clean the clothes and will create a very poor color, so see that fresh suds are used for each batch of clothes.

Correct Manners

Birth Announcement

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am planning to have birth announcement cards printed for our coming new baby, and I would appreciate your advice as to what type of card is most frequently used—what information is placed on these cards, also the proper time for sending the cards?

Your column has solved many problems for me. R.

I suggest that you do not have these cards printed. Use either the formal engraved type of birth announcement cards, or buy the most conventional announcement card that you can find.

The formal way of making this birth announcement is the use of the Mr. and Mrs. card (engraved, larger than the individual visiting card), with the tiny white card attached to it with very narrow white ribbon. On the small card is the name of the baby, engraved, and, in the lower left corner, the date of the birth.

If you don't want to send your announcements in this formal manner, look about for very simple, white cards, with two or three lines, to be filled in. Don't buy the ones that have space for "weight," "place of birth," and so forth. The only things that should be registered on such cards are the formal name of the mother and father (Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Wells Hall), the name of the baby, and the date of the birth.

These cards are sent just as soon as it is convenient to send them.

NRA We Do Our Part

SPEND YOUR ROOSEVELT DOLLARS WISELY

Spend—Spend—Spend! Get the habit, follow our leader—for President Roosevelt can't be wrong! It's money in motion, dollars rolling from hand to hand—that stimulates business, creates jobs, increases demand—and makes the nation's reconstruction program a success.

We've been spending! Huge sums. We've put hundreds of thousands of dollars into QUALITY MERCHANDISE for our 29TH ANNIVERSARY. Money from McCreery's is right now being changed by manufacturers into goods—into salaries for the people they employ, those men and women who in their turn are spending money for the things they need and enjoy.

Come on! Put your money in motion via McCreery's—spend your Roosevelt dollars wisely—buy new things to wear and new things to use—take advantage of our wise spending by putting your money in motion here—where quality at fair prices give you values really startling, in the face of rising prices.

Walter Winchell ON BROADWAY

This Town of Ours

At the Paradise rendezvous the other after-midnight, two newspapermen huddled in a corner and swapped trivial talk . . . One of them wondered where his next paragraph was coming from—and the other belittled the Hollywood correspondents . . . "They make me sick," he groaned . . . Their chatter was interrupted by an attractive brunette, whose kisser was new to them . . . "Pardon me," she cooed, "you don't remember me. I'm Mike Levee's niece" . . . Before the scribes could ask her to sit down—she sat . . . Her story won their immediate sympathy . . . Hers was a miserable life, she said. The night of her wedding her bridegroom went to his sweetheart. If she could only find some genuine companionship—and New York was so aloof, etc. . . . This went on for an hour—and the newspapermen grew nervous . . . After swapping "the office" with each other, they suddenly remembered they had a date elsewhere . . . "What happened?" one scribe inquired as they reached Broadway . . . "I'm afraid of dames like that," said the other, "she isn't real." . . . "Oh, you're too cynical," scolded his friend. "I rather felt sorry for her" . . . They paused to buy a newspaper, and turned to titter at a Hollywood columnist . . . Whose first paragraph read: "I feel it my duty to warn those in the East that if a definitely psychopathic young lady passes herself off as a niece of Mike Levee or Cecil B. De Mille, get rid of her gently. She's the girl who got Sidney Blackmer's name into the newspapers for something he didn't do!" . . . Whew!

Among other observations is the huge NRA flag featured by Gertner's restaurant next door to the Mayfair Theater . . . It is so large it entirely covers up that theater's electric sign facing north! . . . Mr. Roosevelt probably will get a letter . . . Blanche McDonald ("Miss California") was the runner-up in the Atlantic City beauty pageant . . . When "Miss Connecticut" won the supreme honors as "Miss America" Blanche could have choked . . . Her world crashed all about her, poor thing—so near to the Big Prize and then to see it melt . . . So what happened? So this happened: "Miss America" won a contract to appear for a brief while in the four-a-day theaters . . . And Blanche McDonald trumped that "break" . . . Besides a contract for a Hollywood screen test, N. T. G. gave her an immediate job in his floor show and George White signed her for his forthcoming "Scandals" . . . I always thought the only losers who were popular were those in strip poker games! . . . Most of the producers along Broadway are certain that the code will kill what is left of show business . . . General Johnson's decision is that all "buys" by ticket brokers must be stopped because it is "unfair competition," yet nothing has been done about the "cut-rate ticket bureau" . . . Seems to me that Damon Runyon's version of a Broadway movie is the best yet—his "Lady for a Day" racing along with the genuine Main Stem brogue.

One of the better short-stories, which they filmed in a "short" a year ago never made the New York grade—because of the censors—who ruled against it because its theme dealt with fixing a jury . . . It was called "The Fixer," and it packed an O. Henry twist . . . A trigger-minded lawyer, it appears, saved a murderer from the chair by promising a juror $200 . . . The jury broke a record for reaching a verdict—consuming too many hours . . . It finally returned with manslaughter instead of first degree murder—giving the defendant a long prison term instead of the hot squat . . . "Oh, I'm so grateful," cried the prisoner to his lawyer, "you saved me from sure death. Life in jail will be easier to take" . . . That night the attorney got in touch with the juror he "fixed" to pay him the money . . . "I thought those guys would never give in," he explained, "you insisted on manslaughter, so I held out. They wanted to acquit him" . . . It is based on a fact!

You hear the strangest things about the strangest people in this decadent sector . . . Guthrie McClintic, frinstance, Katherine Cornell's husband, who is rehearsing the new Bankhead play "Jezebel" at the Empahr Thittir . . . Mr. McClintic has a peculiarity which is a little ridic . . . He always tests new members to his cast by standing, with his back to them, down near the footlight . . . He then gives a signal for the player to come on stage—and if Mr. McClintic cannot "feel" his presence, personality, magnetism or something, with his back turned, the actor is fired right there . . . The other day Jack Lorenz suffered through his "test" in this manner—McClintic, standing with his rear to Lorenz, said: "Well. Are you on—have you made your entrance?" . . . The actor, plenty puzzled, replied: "Yes, I'm on" . . . "Well," said McClintic, "I can't feel you, I simply can't feel you, at all" . . . "Perhaps if I came down there and gave you a shove you might!" yelled the exasperated actor, as he toossed the part at him—and ran from the stage—into the barren Broadway to lay off indefinitely, again . . . He won't be lonely, at any rate.

Of course, not enough of the peasants in town could appreciate what happened during the NRA parade . . . I mean they couldn't possibly have appreciated the incident so much as one of the columnists . . . The day before the parade Mayor O'Brien was teased into one of his typical statements by a reporter representing Roy Howard's newspaper . . . The reporter asked the mayor about an item that appeared recently dealing with his visits to fortune tellers . . . According to the front-page box the mayor exploded at the mention of our tag and delivered himself of virile opinions, ending: "Sometimes something is going to happen to that man!" . . . Of course, when he said that, the mayor had no hint of what was going to happen to himself as he viewed the parade of workers, an army of whom cat-called and booed him for 18 minutes . . . What impressed me most about the parade (which I read about), was that the two beautiful models, representing Miss NRA and Miss Liberty took part in a gesture "completely American" . . . Yet their costumes were made by a French woman.

The recent thought: "Wonder what is it like to visit New York for the first time?" brought dozens of "impressions" from out-of-towners—few of them being sugary observations . . . G. Addison of 231 Shoreham Bldg., Washington, D. C., simply doesn't like New York, at all . . . He was considerably disappointed, it appears—only the buildings are "miracles of architecture" . . . Park and Fifth Avenues are "splendid thoroughfares"—but Broadway! . . . It is noisy, congested, tawdry and horribly illuminated, he finds . . . The far-famer crossroads of the world—42nd St. and Broadway—are unspeakably dull and dreary . . . No other major city, says critic Addison, gave him such a profound feeling of depression . . . There are 20 other big cities in America that have New York "licked to a frazzle" . . . It is merely a village—that is, he says, if you took away Fifth, Park, Madison and Lexington avenues . . . Well, of course. And if you took away four of Washington's outstanding arteries, I suspect it would be a village, too . . . As for Broadway its dullness is only recent—the past two years brought about the obvious change . . . There are some optimistic locals who really think the repeal of liquor will revive its glamor and zip . . . The return of beer has packed the restaurants and emptied the speakeasies—most of which refuse to handle lager, for this amazing reason . . . They cannot get a license to peddle it! . . . And they fear that if they are caught violating this law—then they will be closed—and not be permitted to sell whiskey! . . . What a lotta time Carrie Nation wasted.

Sally Blane Signs By Cable

Cables between Hollywood and London were kept hot by film companies making bids for the services of Sally Blane, who is vacationing abroad. Miss Blane accepted the offer of Twentieth Century Pictures when she learned that this company was going to elevate her sister, Loretta Young, to stardom in her first picture, "Born to Be Bad."

"Miss Lonelyhearts" will be Sally Blane's first assignment by Twentieth Century, for release by United Artists. She will play heroine to Lee Tracy's hero. Lowell Sherman will direct.

Bette Beaued By Eight Boys

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 18.—Talk about audacious coups! Bette Davis evened the score with the gossips and stole all the limelight at the premiere of "I Loved a Woman" by showing up at the theater escorted by eight boy friends.

Miss Davis

For a moment non-plussed, cinema first-nighters quickly caught on and buzzed with applause as the slender, radiant Bette, wearing red and white carnations, swept into the theater with her eight swains, four wearing white blossoms in their button-holes.

The whole idea, y'know, is a rebuke to the repeated separation rumors about Bette and her husband, Harmon O. Nelson, Jr., whose musician duties recently carried him East.

"Every time I go out with a man people talk," said the blonde star, "so I thought I'd give them something really worth while and then maybe they'll get it out of their systems."

Bette's boy-friends of the evening included all the men her name has been linked with recently and several more. Count them off: Lynn Riggs, Theodore Newton, Walter Abel, Alex Piers, Frank Conroy, George Gormerly, Schuyler Schenck and Fred Fast.

* * *

Some one was congratulating Minna Gombell and Joe Sefton about the success of their commuting marriage. (She lives in Hollywood, he in San Diego and they meet weekends).

Miss Gombell

"So you've been married four months," gushed the well-wisher.

"Yes," sighed Sefton, "or, to put it exactly, 7,684 miles."

It was a nice idea, but a little premature when someone announced the engagement of Elsie Ferguson, II and Bryant Washburn, Jr., when they were making appearances with "This Day and Age." The fact of the matter is that Elsie was married last July to George Cupple. Her mother tells that an attorney is now arranging an annulment and that both she and Mrs. Washburn look on the youngster's friendship with approval. But it can't be an engagement yet.

"It all started out as a publicity stunt, Bryant said and then Elsie and I began to take it seriously. Of course, we realize we're too young to be getting married (they're both 18), but we're very fond of each other."

* * *

Don't be surprised if Primo Carnera signs up to do a rival picture to M. G. M's. "Prizefighter and the Lady." RKO is trying to get him for a boxing epic with George Bancroft . . . The third birthday party of Mary Elizabeth Ann Brown (she's the daughter of Joe E.) was a gala affair for the youngsters of the cinema colony. Fifteen trained movie dogs were on hand to do their tricks . . . Claire Windsor is rehearsing to appear here on the twenty-sixth in a play, "An Affair of State" . . . Do you have a name with less than 12 letters in it? If so the rage is to have them substituted for the numerals on your watch. Stuart Erwin started the fad in Hollywood.

Shanghai Peach

Play Chance For Mary

Mary Pickford left New York with the statement that, if she did not start work on a screen play soon after her arrival in Hollywood, she would return to New York in October to appear in a play on Broadway.

During her stay in New York, Miss Pickford made arrangements for the publication of several stories and articles under her name in national magazines, and much of her time while on the Coast will be spent in the preparation of this material.

Plans for a national NRA broadcast by Miss Pickford were also made during her stay in New York, negotiations having been carried out at the Washington bureau of the NRA. This broadcast will probably take place from Hollywood.

Plays and Players

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

The local dramatic season will begin next Monday with the presentation of "Ah, Wilderness," Theater Guild production that not only will be the first play of the theatrical year but also the first of the subscription series. This is one of the works recently completed by Eugene O'Neill, and first of the two to be produced. Its appearance on the stage here will be its premiere and the engagement will be imediately followed by the New York opening, according to present plans. The company is headed by the veteran popular comedian, George M. Cohan, and Marjory Marquis, wife of Don Marquis, playwright and humorist. The seat sale will begin Thursday in the box office, which will be open daily, beginning today, to book season reservations.

* * *

Barbara Stanwyck, who has been making a personal appearance in New York, will return to Hollywood this week to begin work in a picture, "Gambling Lady" . . . Marlene Dietrich, who has been spending a holiday in Europe, will sail Wednesday for America . . . Marie Dressler is in New York on vacation . . . Bebe Daniels and Doris Kenyon will play important roles in "Counsellor at Law," in which John Barrymore will be starred by Universal.

Great Parade On Screen

THE GLOBE TROTTER

The greatest peace parade in American history—the triumphant march of the NRA legions on Fifth avenue, New York—is brought to the screen in the current issue of Hearst Metrotone News in spectacular pictures covering its every phase. All the highlights of the gigantic procession, with its 71 units, 250 bands and its 250,000 marchers, are shown. The voice of The Globe Trotter, supplying the details, is heard in addition to the natural sound.

The latest and most striking styles for the fall and winter are presented in beautiful pictures made under the direction of Carmel Snow, fashion editor of Harper's Bazar.

In Brockton, Mass., two locomotives are driven into a head-on collision for the amusement of fair crowds.

Bull fighting, American style, is presented at Tres Pinos, Cal. It is entirely bloodless and Mr. Bull has all the best of it.

Venice, Italy, says goodbye to summer with the royal regatta, which brings out hundreds of gaily decorated gondolas on the canals.

Things I'd Like to Do Again

WELL, I'm taking another stab at some of these items. The folks seem to like 'em, so who am I to complain? But I cant' ever begin one of these columns without thinking of the old gag of the Irishman who was working on a subway construction job when a lawyer leaned over and told him that he had inherited $25,000 from his uncle.

Mike dropped everything and went to claim his 25 grand. Before he quite realized what had happened, he was partying and traveling and having a great time. He had headaches in the mornings—and he was seasick on boats. He gave his friends the air, and then his wife left him. And in less than six months, he was broke—and back on the subway job once more.

He had been working there about two weeks when another lawyer leaned over and advanced some news. Another uncle had died, and again Mike had been left $25,000. Mike gritted his teeth and hurled his tools savagely to the ground.

"My gosh," he cried angrily. "Do I have to go through all that again?"

* * *

Among the things I'd like to do again, are:

Run my first crap game in the basement of a Greenwich Village tenement. (The house was doing very well until the janitor demanded $2 extra a week "for protection." That made the expense too large, so the game folded up.)

* * *

Arrive in California on a honeymoon with $22 in cash. (The wife merely grinned and wanted to know how it was that we had so much left. The wife has changed somewhat since.)

* * *

Play a vaudeville engagement, and carry a portable bar for the entertainment of my friends. (They gave me $2,000 for a week at the State, and the bar bill was $1,150!)

* * *

Take the advice of a farmer and walk "around the block" on a farm on the outskirts of Montgomery, New York. (The "block" turned out to be seven miles long and they had to carry me home.)

* * *

Travel for miles with Paul Gallico in order to have dinner at a little Italian restaurant of which he is extremely proud. (I ordered bacon and eggs, and Mr. Gallico almost collapsed.)

* * *

Insist upon taking Barney, my English bulldog, for a long walk each and every night. (The wife thought it was swell of me—until she found out that I was parking him in the Texan Guinan Club, just around the corner.)

* * *

Try for an entire afternoon to teach a certain chorus girl in "Hot-Cha" how to deliver one short line, and finally give it up in disgust. (Believe it or not, the girl is now a picture star in Hollywood!)

* * *

Meet Rudy Vallee at the very height of his popularity and tell him kiddingly that he had the greatest voice in the world. (Rudy very seriously replied: "Oh, I think Jolson is good, too.")

* * *

Get my first pair of long trousers, and rip them on a nail the second day I wore them. (I had to go back in short trousers while they were being repaired. The job took three days, and I refused to go out of the house until they came back.)

* * *

Be advised by everyone to stay away from Russia while traveling around the world. (When I returned, the only thing people wanted to know was what I thought about Russia.)

* * *

Come home from public school with a tummy ache, and confess to my mother that I had eaten a frankfurter with sauerkraut that I had purchased at a street wagon. Did she give me the dickens! (It's a good thing I didn't tell her about the dime's worth of licorice shoelaces I had eaten the same day.)

Ask Ruby Stevens, a dancer in the Club Anatole, if she had ever thought of going into motion pictures. Miss Stevens said she didn't think she had sufficient ability. (Miss Stevens was a trifle modest. She is now Barbara Stanwyck).

* * *

Get the thrill of receiving my first piece of fan mail., "You're the greatest writer that ever lived," the man wrote, "and I will always read everything you write." (I never showed the letter to anyone because the writer's address was the state insane asylum).

* * *

Interview Connie Bennett when she was still Mrs. Phil Plant, and call her "Miss Bennett." "Call me Mrs. Plant, please," she said angrily. (After the divorce, I interviewed her again and called her "Mrs. Plant." "Call me Miss Bennett, please," she said angrily).

* * *

Bring Harry K. Thaw to the home of my Aunt Ray, in Long Beach, because we were unable to get a decent drink on the beach. (Aunt Ray, a nervous woman to begin with, became so frightened in Thaw's presence, that she broke two bottles trying to pour one drink).

* * *

Attend a performance of a play called "The Seed of the Brute" and have a Broadway actress tell me after the first act that she refused to remain any longer because the play was too dirty. (Heigh-ho, ladies and gentlemen, the actress was Mae West.)

* * *

There they are, my friends. Just memories. Things I'd like to do again. . . .

POLITICAL APPEALS -:- Crooner Dramas -:- ON RADIO TONIGHT

Candidates, Columbo On Air

Russ Columbo heads the Hollywood-on-the-Air program tonight, heard over the NBC-WCAE network at midnight. Estelle Taylor shares the microphone with Russ.

* * *

A radio operator, one of those silent monitors of studio microphones, dials and needle gauges, never heard, but without whom the programs couldn't go on the air, has his inning tonight.

Irving Reis, a control engineer in the Columbia studios, has written a radio play to be broadcast over CBS-WJAS at 9:30.

The drama describes in imaginative fashion the conditions under which studio programs are received in widely separated sections of the country.

* * *

Good Advice

Dorothy Thompson (Mrs. Sinclair Lewis), veteran journalist and author of "The New Russia," is guest speaker on the last of the Grub Street programs, heard over WJAS at 5:45. She will tell why "Women Should Read Newspapers Too."

* * *

While Ted Yarosz and Vince Dundee do battle in the rope ring at Newark tonight, Ed. Sprague and Joe Sartory, of WWSW, give a telegraphic description of the fight, blow by blow, beginning at 9.

* * *

* * *

What with modern song hits being played to death, it will be pleasant to hear "On the Banks of the Wabash," the song with the scent of new-mown hay, when Phil Duey sings it during the Melody Moments over KDKA at 9:30. It was written goodness - knows - how - many years ago, by Theodore Dreiser and his brother, Paul.

Globe-Trotting

By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN

Hello, ladies and gentlemen:

Not trying to steal Mark Shields' stuff but only attempting to acknowledge the correspondence inspired by politics.

Mrs. Framer thinks we all could laugh as she did when an earnest candidate speechifying at a Wilkinsburg meeting, noticing the restlessness of the crowd, blurted out apologetically, "You are tiresome, I'll be through soon."

Then there's the voter who said she wouldn't vote for the candidate whose police-escorted parades ignored the stop and go lights, delaying her on an urgent journey.

At Craig and Center, a few days ago, such a parade was passing. The paraders were in high enthusiasm but if the candidate they were honoring could have heard the raucous, caustic voices of automobile horns cursing the parade and the officers who would not let traffic through, he would have shivered at the cool feeling generated for him.

And now comes a member of the Congress of Women's Clubs all chuckly with laughter, and, after extracting a promise not to divulge the source of information, told me about the meeting at the Congress to which all the candidates for Juvenile Court were invited to speak.

One candidate, whole-heartedly addressing his audience, absolutely unconscious of what he was doing, put his hand in his pocket and withdrew a lady's long white glove and placed it on the table. His wife, beside him, stunned for the moment, recovered and hastily put it in her purse.

INTRODUCING
MILLOT
PARIS

Handsome strangers are not attracted by your soul, alas! but by gay, superficial trifles like a sparkling eye, a come-hither tendril, or a whiff of scent that makes them dream romantically of the Future . . .

LADIES, we give you the best "may-I-meet-her" perfume in years—Crepe de Chine!

SENT TO YOU ON 10 DAYS' TRIAL

The Sensational
Quiet, Light New Model EUREKA VACUUM CLEANER

ONLY $2.50 DOWN during this campaign

Annoying lint, hair and threads are instantly removed by the MOTOR DRIVEN BRUSH.

Combines a MOTOR DRIVEN BRUSH with "HIGH-VACUUM" and other revolutionary improvements

The day of big, heavy, awkward cleaners is past. It has been a man's job to lug them up and down stairs. Lighter weight, better cleaning performance and quiet, easy operation are improvements that just had to come.

And now, for the first time, a MOTOR DRIVEN BRUSH—which instantly removes surface lint, hair and threads—has been successfully combined with deep cleaning "HIGH-VACUUM."

The double cleaning action of this sensational new model Eureka will positively amaze you. Try it 10 DAYS FREE! Absolutely no obligation!

GREAT OFFER FOR LIMITED TIME

This great introductory Factory Demonstration Campaign is only for a short time. Don't delay. Phone at once. Request 10 DAYS' FREE TRIAL. Then decide if it's worth 15 cents a day to own it.

SPECIAL TRADE-IN ALLOWANCES NOW

If you are struggling along with an old cleaner—one that's lost its suction and just won't pick up aggravating surface litter—trade it in now for an extra special factory allowance.

OLD VACUUM CLEANERS DO DECEIVE

See embedded dirt discharged by the new Eureka after your old cleaner has done its best. Trade it in now.

See! Sand "dance" and embedded, grimy dirt storm and "boil" out of the rug inches ahead of the Eureka nozzle.

DURING THIS CAMPAIGN, EUREKA FACTORY REPRESENTATIVES WILL GIVE FREE INSPECTION SERVICE TO ALL PRESENT EUREKA USERS—AND AT THE SAME TIME A FREE DEMONSTRATION OF THE SENSATIONAL NEW MODEL EUREKA WITH MOTOR DRIVEN BRUSH

Much prophesying is going on in the broadcasting bazars which would have you believe there's a definite trend toward a higher class of music, but don't make any bets that what we know as jazz will be utterly abandoned . . . However, it certainly won't be predominant . . .

One of the worthiest of the musical prophets is Willard Robison, who is so far ahead of his time in melodic originality, I'm afraid too few listeners appreciate his religion in rhythm, brought to the loudspeakers on a tide of brilliant color . . .

* * *

Violinist

A welcome addition to the better-music setup is Albert Spalding, first of the famous concert fiddlers to accept a commercial . . . He starts with Columbia-WJAS October 4, with Don Voorhees' orchestra, and Conrad Thibault, warbling.

Don Bestor is another band leader who is substituting sweet arrangements for screaming tempos . . . It begins to look like Paul Whiteman and Johnny Green, pioneers in modern American idiom are about to have their day.

* * *

Stepping Stones

Not only Fred Stone, but his entire family will be featured in that oil broadcast September 24 over KDKA.

That little Mary Small, from Baltimore, proved such a hit on the last Vallee bill, she will be given her own spot at NBC tomorrow at 6:30 . . .

To show you how determined the Radio Commission is to get busy before Congress does, it has just revoked the license of a Boston television concern because the outfit was promoting stock.

* * *

Wise Fox

Stephen Fox, who is showing 'em how radio dramas should be done, and eliminating all the cream-puffy stuff from the shows, will be the big dramatic build-up of the Columbia season.

The radio networks are becoming negligent about repeats, night after night, of popular songs, many of which are heard now half a dozen times, even, on the same evening.

The networks hope the crown of Miss Radio 1933 will rest either on the head of Leah (NBC) Ray, or Rosemary (CBS) Lane.

* * *

History

Big possibilities loom in a Columbia schedule for producing a weekly cavalcade of American history, beginning September 26 in which from 6 to 12 big events in the story of the United States will be encompassed in one episode.

Pattern 1513

Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

Typical of the school frocks in which young girls look best, is the one sketched today. She'll live it in cotton, and be enthusiastic about it in sheer wool, too. Notice the double-breasted front, the smart reveres, perky sleeves and snappy pleats that lend such animation to the skirt . . . never before have these details been so cleverly combined to create such youthful chic.

Pattern 1513 is available in sizes 8, 10, 12, 14 and 16. Size 12 takes 3⅜ yards 36-inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included with this pattern.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this pattern. Write plainly name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE.

THE PATTERN BOOK features a charming collection of afternoon, sports, golf, tennis dresses, jumpers, house frocks, special beginners' patterns, styles for juniors, and lovely clothes for youngsters, and instructions for making a chic sweater. SHELTON SEES 'CODE' NEED

The Rev. Dr. George W. Shelton, observing the twenty-third year of his pastorate of the Second Presbyterian Church last night, spoke on "A New Deal for the Church" and declared the church needs a code more than any other institution.

He added:

"NRA for the church must mean 'New Religious Awakening.'"

The important need of the church, he said, is "Gospel." Next in order, Dr. Shelton listed cooperation and evangelism.

RITES TO OPEN NEW BOYS' GYM

A $7,000 addition to the gymnasium of the Boys' Club of Pittsburgh, Forty-fifth and Butler streets, will be dedicated Thursday night at 8:30. The improvement is a gift to the club by Miss Sophie McCormick as a memorial to her late brother, John Schoenberger McCormick.

The Rev. Dr. E. J. Van Etten, pastor of the Calvary Episcopal Church, will make the dedication address, to which Joseph C. Trees, president of the club, will respond. David I. McCahill first president, and now president emeritus, will be another speaker. James W. Lodge, director, will be chairman of the dedication exercises.

Motorcycle Kills Youth on Highway

GREENSBURG, Pa., Sept. 18.—John Targos, 20, Harrison City, is dead from injuries received when he was struck by a motorcycle as he and two companions were walking on the highway.

FATHER KILLED, SON INJURED IN CRASH

William C. Kraus, 67, of 30 Wilson street, Etna, was killed, and his son, Harry Kraus, 24, was injured when their automobile left the Pittsburgh-Butler road, at Allison Park, and overturned after clearing the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad tracks.

The younger Kraus, the driver, swerved off the road to avoid collision with another machine, county detectives were told. The elder Kraus was hurled from the car.

Five persons were injured when two automobiles collided on the Boulevard of the Allies yesterday. The injured were Edward Pfoutz and his wife, and Miss Kate Hans, 40, all of Hunkers, Pa., and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Morton, of Russdale, Pa. Pfoutz and H. D. Eberharter, the drivers of the cars, were charged with reckless driving.

John Szymanski, of Urbana way, and his helper, Joseph Katz, of Hastings street, were injured when their truck was overturned by an alleged hit-and-run driver at Beechwood boulevard and Fifth avenue, according to a police report.

A. E. Linda, 24, of Ruth street; Fred Schuff, 50, of Tuscolo street, and Sylvester Lutheiser, of Atwater, O., were injured yesterday when their automobile swerved from Chartiers avenue and ran into an embankment, police reported.

AUTO HITS POLE

Mrs. Rose Potetts, of Salter street, North Side; her son, Charles, and daughter, Theresa, were injured early today when their automobile ran off the Library-Finleyville highway at Mineral Beach and struck a pole.

FORBES STREET CRASH

Four persons were injured early today in a collision of automobiles at Denniston avenue and Forbes street. The injured, all passengers of Anthony Raffaele, 24, of 88 Washington place, were treated at Pittsburgh Hospital.

They were Mollie Nasseglia, 20, of 1411 Gilmore way; Theresa Aiello, 20, and Andrew Auferica, 22, both of 81 Washington place, and Mrs. Felix Lewalla, 26, of 916 Wylie avenue.

Morris Rosenblum, 21, of 2214 Beechwood boulevard, was driver of the other machine.

Ohio Bank Robber's Trail Lost by Posse

GALLIPOLIS, O., Sept. 18.—(AP.)—The trail lost to bloodhounds, a sheriff's posse was forced to abandon the search for one of the suspected robbers of the Citizens Bank of Albany, O., who deserted his auto Saturday and fled under a hail of bullets into a thicket near Kanagua.

Sheriff Elmer Hatfield, of Gallia County, said the hounds were unable to follow the fugitive. No trace has been found of the second robber who participated in the $400 holdup.

INSTALLED

A recent survey among families that have been re-employed showed that the majority were going to buy a new electrical refrigerator among their first purchases.

An excellent "first purchase," we'll admit—but we want to stress the fact that waiting too long may prove costly. As yet, Frigidaire prices have not been raised, but no telling when they will. With an easy down payment and convenient terms there is no longer any need for employed families to put off this necessary purchase. Come see the entire line tomorrow.

FOR MORE REASONS THAN ONE!

This is the ninth illustrated editorial—of a series now appearing in the Hearst Newspapers—on the importance of the Buy Now movement as a contribution to National Recovery.

TIME: A SUNNY SUNDAY AFTERNOON. Place: A road leading to any popular holiday place. People: Two average Americans — out for a good time. BANG! The tire blows—they slow to a halt. Their fun is spoiled. The day is wrecked.

We're not cold-blooded when we say they had it coming to them. We're not being just malicious when we admit we're glad it happened.

Because it is "time to re-tire" for too many car owners —for more reasons than one. Let us explain.

As long as this man (and millions of others like him) kept on trying to get the last lean mile out of his tires—a dealer went without a sale—a factory went without an order—tire builders went without work.

And the man himself rode on rubber that grew more dangerous to him and to others with every added mile.

BUT—now that the tire has blown, the man will buy a new one. A dealer will make a sale—and a profit. A factory will get an order. There will be that much more work for tire builders out in the plant.

And the man himself is a head of the game — because he will have safe, new rubber, good for many thousands of miles, on his wheels.

So we say it is a good thing that this tire blew out. It would be a good thing if all the worn and risky tires in the country blew out together.

For here is the situation: Tire manufacturers and tire dealers, like manufacturers and merchants in all other fields, have joined the President in his Recovery Program.

They have cut working hours. They have fixed wage-scales. They have added new men. They have taken on a bigger overhead to help reduce unemployment.

They are doing their part. But if that part is going to count—the car owner who is riding on old, worn, dangerous tires will have to do his. He'll have to buy new tires now.

And why shouldn't you buy new tires now? Or new shoes, new clothes, new furnishings for the house! If you can afford to buy—what's the sense in trying to make worn out things do? Why not, for your own good, get rid of the old, worn things—and get new things you can enjoy?

That's really all there is to this Buy Now movement! We're not trying to bullyrag you into reckless spending. We're not trying to make it patriotic to be spendthrifty!

• • •

Spend now, because this is September —September is the logical time to stock up for winter needs—the key-month that indicates whether the season ahead will be a good one or a bad one.

Good business this fall will give Recovery the momentum it needs.

For good business this fall—for the good of the country—for your own selfish interest — start buying now the things you need and can sensibly buy.

Girl's Information Of Little Help to Inquisitive Host

Republished from Cosmopolitan Magazine and starting September 22 at Loew's Penn Theater, a Cosmopolitan Production made by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

CHAPTER X.

"Now let me ask you one." She laughed mirthlessly. "Park Avenue has only so many men, and they get tired quickly. A girl gets a taste of the old night life, the parties, the jewelry—well, the gangsters spend more than the swells. And there you are. And goodness me, here am I. Isn't it funny we met, and where do we go from here?"

"We hadn't decided on that. You advanced arguments against your apartment, but it seemed to end there."

"That's up to you. I came out tonight because Tony asked me to. I'll stay here until dawn if you want. But I'd a whole lot rather go somewhere and cook a dish of eggs. Are you for it?"

The head waiter was at their table before Durant had assisted Gertie from her chair. "You're not leaving us, Mr. Durant," he protested. "I'll have the show put on earlier if you like."

"I'd hate Mr. Gazotti to think we hadn't treated you well," said the head waiter.

"I'll tell him you did everything for us," promised Durant.

He parted from the girl for a moment at the door of the ladies' dressing room, procured his hat from the check girl and stood in the hallway at the top of the stairs. The check girl looked at him: she ventured a friendly smile. He seemed to be hooked, for this evening at any rate, but a smile doesn't cost anything, and one never can tell.

But Durant didn't even see the smile. Gertie Waxted had been at Crelliman's party last night. If the occurrences of the night had not been exactly as the witnesses had described them to the police, would Gertie be any more frank with him? Well, a few hours' time would answer that.

Surprises Durant

She delayed in the dressing room only long enough to be reassured about her lips and eyebrows. Too bad, Durant mused, as she slipped a warm hand under his arm, that she bothered with make-up at all. She really was quite lovely. Tony Gazotti had not lied about her attractions.

The starter called a taxicab, and Durant gave his address. Ten minutes later the elevator deposited them at the door, and a moment later they were inside.

"Any servants here?" asked the girl.

"I guess they've gone to bed. Why?"

"Oh, I just wondered. If I have privacy I like to know it; if I'm in the public eye I want to know that, too."

"If there's anything you want I can ring for it."

"I guess you can supply me with cigarets and Scotch if I happen to want it. But I don't happen to want it."

She sat down in an easy-chair and crossed her knees. Durant glimpsed a pair of calves quite as pretty in stockings as they were in the semi-nude photographs in the afternoon papers. She lighted a cigaret and exhaled a cloud of smoke.

"Get it over with, baby," she said.

Her voice had taken on a metallic quality, and her black eyes, that had been gray or languorous as the mood of the moment had indicated, were hard and direct now.

"Get what over with?" he asked.

"The cross-examination, the third degree, or whatever it is you want to know."

Perfect Understanding

"I'm not sure I understand you," he told her.

"Don't stall. Jackson Durant isn't on the make for any stray chippy that flutters into his yard. I'm Mimi Montagne's friend. I'm closer to Tony Gazotti than I ever was to Jim Crelliman. And I'll bet that's no news to you. You're engaged to Sue Leonard, and she broke it off to sign up with Tom Siddall. Siddall's in a jam. You saved Gazotti's life, Tony would do plenty for you. You probably—you look like that kind of a man—would do plenty for Miss Leonard. You'd help Siddall. I may know something about the murder that hasn't come out in the papers. It adds up too smoothly. I'm hardly out of the hands of the police when Tony ribs me up for a date with you."

She puffed again at her cigaret and her eyes ceased to be hard. They became inviting.

"It's not too hard to date me up with you. I've seen you around. If it were any other time than this I'd never give it a thought. I'm a pretty lovely little trick, and don't I know it! No reason in the world why even the great Jackson Durant shouldn't want an hour of my time. Only, it's too pat. What do they call it—a suspicious coincidence? But it doesn't matter. I'll tell you everything I know. Only, I'm the one person at the party that can't tell anything about it."

"What do you mean? You were there."

She shook her head. "I came in after Mimi had gone out on the porch with Siddall."

He stared at her. "The papers don't say that. They say you

Synopsis

Jackson Durant, young lawyer who has alienated the Park avenue set through his spectacular success as "an underworld mouthpiece," has been asked by Sue Leonard, society girl who jilted him, to "save" Thomas Siddall, youthful broker, to whom Sue is now engaged. Siddall, held on a murder charge, had been arrested, gun in hand, when his former sweetheart, Mimi Montagne, a Broadway night club singer, was shot dead on the terrace of a penthouse where Jim Crelliman was "throwing a party." Durant starts his own investigation. Tony Gazotti, grateful because Durant had saved him from the "hot seat" recently, agrees to help the lawyer. Tony introduces Durant to Gertie Waxted, "closest friend" of the murdered Mimi, and the lawyer hopes to get some "important information" from her.

DENIES 107TH BACKS HERRON

Announcement of the indorsement of Mayor John S. Herron's candidacy for the Republican nomination for Mayor by the 107th Field Artillery Veterans' Association was repudiated yesterday by Adam Wehrmann, president. Wehrmann said:

"On last Wednesday evening at Orpheus Hall an indorsement of Mayor Herron's candidacy by the 107th Field Artillery Veterans' Association, of which I am the president, was announced. There has been no such indorsement.

"Under the constitution and by-laws of the association it is not permitted to make any political indorsements."

WIFE STABBED AIDING SON

AMBRIDGE, Pa., Sept. 18.—An aged Meyersdale woman, stabbed, police said, when she went to the aid of her son during an alleged fight with his father, was in serious condition at the home of relatives today at Ambridge. The father was held by police.

Mrs. Mary Burzese, 65, suffered 31 stab wounds about the throat, face and leg, police said, when she ran between her husband, August, 65, and son, Sam, during the alleged argument in the home of relatives, where they had been visiting over the week-end.

Police said the argument was over the ownership of an automobile, claimed by both the father and son.

Independents Back Wheeler in Dormont

Officially indorsed by the Independent Republicans of Dormont, M. A. Wheeler, a resident of the Third District of Dormont, has waged an active campaign for a school directorship in the borough. Wheeler is seeking nomination on the Republican ticket only.

Wheeler advocates an intelligent application of business methods in operating the Dormont school system and believes that a considerable saving may be effected and that a much needed reduction in school tax may eventually be obtained.

Political Signs In Homestead Removed

Political banners, strung on electric light poles throughout the Homestead district, were being removed today by Duquesne Light Company crews, according to officials.

Explaining that the stringing of banners to light poles is a violation of the law, officials said:

TAX CHAIRMAN BACKS HERRON

J. W. Bamford, chairman of the taxation committee of the Building Owners and Managers' Association, today indorsed the candidacy of Mayor John S. Herron to succeed himself, in an address over WCAE.

Bamford said the present Mayor and Council had succeeded in reducing the tax millage 20 per cent in three years. He said the prospects of further reduction would be brighter if "an experienced municipal administrator" were kept in office.

TAMMANY GIRDS FOR PRIMARY

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—(AP.)—Tammany marshalled its forces for a municipal primary tomorrow in which the largest number of Democratic contests in history will be decided. There are 56 interparty contests, led off by a fight for the mayoralty by Mayor John P. O'Brien, organization nominee; Representative Loring M. Black and Assemblyman Jerome J. Ambro.

There are several contests also in Republican ranks.

Jacobson Promises Efficiency Program

Lester Jacobson, seeking the Republican mayoralty nomination, made a final appeal for votes today, pledging efficient business methods in City Hall if elected.

Jacobson said he would endeavor to reduce taxes through the elimination of waste and inflated payrolls, and would abolish rackets. He assailed the control of government by practical political factions.

Vatican Mourns Apostle of Peace

VATICAN CITY, Sept. 18.—(INS.)—Vatican officials and pacifists the world over today mourned Raffaele Cardinal Scapinelli, chancellor to Pope Pius, who died at Forte Dei Marmi at the age of 75.

While special nuncio to Vienna in 1914, Cardinal Scapinelli strove to avert the World War, gaining fame through his repeated appeals to Emperor Francis Joseph to prevent the impending clash.

OFFICER SHOT BY MOTORIST

KANE, Pa., Sept. 18.—(AP.)—A bullet in the arm was an Ohio motorist's answer to State Highway Patrolman Richard Baxter's request to see his registration card and driver's license.

Baxter, 28 years old and a member of the patrol for four years, stopped the automobile near Kane last night to warn the driver about defective lights.

As the motorist alighted at the officer's request to show his cards, he drew a pistol and fired at Baxter, the bullet entering the left arm. The driver jumped into the car and fled with two companions. The machine bore Ohio license plates.

Baxter fired several shots at the speeding machine. The patrolman, whose home is in Wyalusing, Pa., is in a Kane hospital. He is attached to the Smethport barracks.

KARZIS MAKES FINAL PLEA

Louis Karzis, to whom running for mayor is no new thing, and so far not a successful adventure, today made a final plea for votes with the pledge to try to reduce trolley fares, utility rates, equalize and cut taxes and keep municipal expenditures to a minimum.

Mr. Karzis feels that the country has enough trouble, and that "co-operation" will be beneficial in the future.

He is the president of the American Hellenic Society, and has conducted a smiling campaign without any hope of success. He says he has no hard feelings for any of his opponents, and at least has first place on the ballot.

FAVORED RECIPE MAY BRING CASH PRIZE

Favorite recipes are worth money.

In fact, the Sun-Telegraph appreciates the fact that there is cherished in every woman's cookbook a recipe or two for which she is noted among her friends. New acquaintances are always asking her for "that recipe."

So, Madam Reader, to make it possible that all the Sun-Telegraph women readers can learn of these prize recipes, this paper is going to pass them along to its host of friends and new acquaintances. And, best of all, it is going to pay for them.

Cash prizes totaling $15 daily will be paid for the 11 best recipes entered into this contest. Eleven women readers who will submit their favorite recipes to Prudence Penny will share in the daily prize money.

The best recipe submitted each day will receive the first prize of $5. The next 10 best recipes will bring their owners $1 each.

It is readily seen how easy this Prudence Penny contest is going to be. Where is there a woman who doesn't have favorite recipes, one or more dishes she makes just a little different from others and which make for a more delightful lunch or dinner?

Thoroughly expert chefs and dieticians will judge the recipes. Only the prize winning recipes will be printed daily. What a cookbook will be possessed by the Sun-Telegraph readers who clip them from the paper each day.

So send in those interesting favorite recipes. Send them to Prudence Penny, care of the Sun-Telegraph. Watch the Sun-Telegraph each day for winners and details.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at drug stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

POLITICS

Lessons Taught By The Primary Fight

By MARK SHIELDS

Mr. Shields

If there is anything more to be said about the merits or demerits of candidates in the primary campaign which is to be climaxed by tomorrow's election, some other person will have to say it, for I have said—and listened to—enough.

But there are certain lessons to be gained from the experiences of the past few weeks which should be treasured, and which can be utilized in striving for reforms at the earliest opportunity which presents.

There is, for example, the spectacle of the confusion and delay attendant upon securing tax receipts in the days immediately before the last registration day Saturday. Citizens who wished to make themselves eligible to vote were compelled to stand in line in the court house for hours before they could have the opportunity to pay a tax.

Lines extended far down both corridors from the tax windows, which were inadequate to handle the crowds. It is immaterial whether these citizens were independents or members of the organization, though there seems little doubt but what organization adherents had their endeavors to buy tax receipts facilitated. Perhaps if some other group controlled the tax office the situation might be the same, with respect to confusion and the placing upon the citizen of an unfair waste of time.

* * *

Chance to Eliminate This Tax Annoyance

This undesirable condition, this possibility of favoritism, can be cured in the November general election. At that time a constitutional amendment will be before the voters, eliminating the tax qualification as a requisite to voting. It will apply to the whole state.

Whatever the experiences of other communities, the amendment certainly should be given a rousing majority in Allegheny County. It will remove an annoyance, and kill a tax which in the amount returned hardly justifies the cost of collection.

Originally the poll tax was designed to confine voting to the more "respectable," the citizens willing to take time and to expend money to participate in the formation of the government at each election. But the practice had deviated far from the principle. It has become a superlative weapon in the hands of whoever controls the tax collecting machinery.

That is a condition which can be met through means already provided by the Legislature in the offering of the constitutional amendment.

Mr. Pinchot should be urged to include permanent registration in the special session call. The stir about which has attended this registration period should be sufficient warrant for the passage of a permanent registration bill. One passed the last session, but it was so emasculated, was so shot through with unfairness, that Gov. Pinchot vetoed it at the instance of the very people who had sponsored the measure in its original form.

* * *

Permanent System Would Be Fair to All

A sound permanent registration bill would be fair to all citizens. It would work no injustice to any political organization which can win its battles on the level, which is the way any political organization worthy of public esteem should be able to win. The difficulty is that the political machines of this community do now, and always have, asked that they have wherever possible an "edge," which deprives the election of even the air of sportsmanship.

Another worthwhile measure would compel a candidate for office to put up a money forfeit before he entered himself as a candidate. The sum should not be large, but it should be sufficient to make fly-by-night candidates, with no hope of success, hesitate before placing their names before the people.

The candidate who received a certain percentage of the vote, not necessarily great, but large enough to remove him from the category of ridiculous aspirants for office, would get his money back, whether he won or not.

The effect of such legislation would be to confine the ballot to candidates with at least an outside chance of success, would eliminate from the lists men or women seeking nothing but notoriety or advertising for private gain. One needs look no farther than the City Council or jury commissioner lists on tomorrow's ballot to realize the advantage of such legislation.

* * *

Number of Candidates Confusing to Voters

There are candidates entered who have no justification whatever for running. They have no hope of winning, and have no valid reason for suggesting that they should win.

What they do accomplish, is a confusion of the voters through a multiplicity of candidates which penalizes really worthy men by a division of the vote, and more often than not results in advantage for men who in a contest with their peers only would not finish in front.

A law of this nature would not be unfair. It works in England with satisfactory results, and it would work here, with advantage to bona fide candidates and the public.

VETS' SUNDAY SHOW ARRESTS THREATENED

Wilkinsburg Burgess Promises Action In Case

Wilkinsburg officials today expected to carry on their fight against Sunday shows for the benefit of veterans by filing information against the organizers and managers of last night's show—if they get the information.

The men will be charged with violation of the blue laws, if all present plans materialize.

Acting Burgess John H. Rhodes—Republican candidate for election to that office—said today that he hasn't the necessary information yet, but expects to get it.

When he gets it, there will be action, he promises.

The show was staged at the Rowland Theater last night, in direct violation of Rhodes' order, for the benefit of the Wilkinsburg Veterans of Foreign Wars. The house was packed.

Chairman of the benefit show committee is William P. Yocum, rival Republican candidate for Burgess. His colleague, George D. Stevens, chairman of the ex-service men's committee, insists that Rhodes, with the Ministerial Association of Wilkinsburg, is playing politics.

Some of the vets have promised that, if their show is stopped and its managers molested, informations will be filed against all Wilkinsburg merchants selling articles on Sunday in violation of the blue laws.

FIRST GRIDIRON DEATH HERE

The county's first football fatality of the season occurred yesterday with the death in the Homestead Hospital of Robert Forden, 19, of 311 Renova street, from a fractured vertebrae.

He was hurt in a game in Locust Grove between the C. T. Dwyer Club, of which he was a member, and the Filo Club, of Homeville. Forden was injured in making a tackle, a morgue report said.

Taken from the field, he died without regaining consciousness. It was his first game of the season.

GUNMAN KILLS AGED WOMAN

International News Service.

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 18.—While her husband looked on helplessly as a bandit pressed a gun into his side, Mrs. Anna Sturski, 60, was struck and killed by one of two robbers who invaded the aged couple's confectionery today.

When she screamed as the bandit flashed the gun, the intruder struck her across the face. She fell against a stove, suffered a hemorrhage of the brain and died within a few minutes.

Her husband, Victor, 65, was unable to interfere, as the second bandit kept a gun pressed into his ribs. The bandits fled with $50, which they scooped up from a cash drawer.

The New Stock Price Board With Remote Electrical Control

THE OLD AND THE NEW: THE CHALKED-PRICE BOARD AND THE ELECTRICALLY OPERATED ONE REPLACING IT TODAY . . . FOUR BROKERAGE FIRMS HAVE IT

Electric Stock Quotation Boards Replace 'Boys With Chalk' Here

'Teleregister' Keeps Abreast High Speed Tickers

Board boys—those young men who post prices by hand in brokerage offices—are going into "oblivion." About 16 of them in four brokerage houses in the city put up their chalk today.

Electric stock quotation boards are taking their place. They started operation today in the offices of Moore, Leonard & Lynch; Kay, Richards & Co., and in two offices of A. E. Masten & Co. Installations for several other stock firms will follow.

W. J. McMoil, general manager and partner in Moore, Leonard & Lynch, said of the passing of the chalk board:

"It was a training school for customers' men. Thirty-two years ago I started in the business as a board boy learning from the ground up. Now the board boy is passing into oblivion."

Quotations are shown with white and orange numerals. The numerals are printed on small revolving drums, the orange numbers representing fractions in eighths, "1" for ⅛, "2" for ¼, and so forth.

The printed cards show the stock symbols, dividend and par value information, the year's high and low prices. The Moore, Leonard and Lynch board, one of the largest in the country, displays a selection of 490 stocks.

RELIEF RAISED TO $1.10 HERE

The state relief board's allocations to Allegheny County for September makes a new weekly food allowance of about $1.10 per capita, Director George P. Mills said yesterday. This figure will run through September, he said.

The new rate represents an increase of about 20 cents per week per person.

The county board has urged the increase since July, when it was found that the former rate of 90 cents was insufficient due to the increased cost of food.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

SANTA MONICA, Cal., Sept. 18.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph.

Will Rogers

Looks like my single-handed crusade to keep us out of Cuba hasn't been very successful. Now we got to go in to protect Americans, who would have needed no protection, had we had no diplomacy, or battleships to get us in wrong in the first place.

We are just getting ready to trade lives for sugar. It would be better if we all learned to drink it black. Yours, WILL.

AIRPLANE FAN INJURES MAN

Paul Bovard, 26, of 5701 Munhall road, Squirrel Hill, was in Homestead Hospital today, his hip and head fractured by an airplane propeller at Bettis Field yesterday.

The accident occurred while Bovard was spinning the propeller of a plane. In the cockpit at the controls was Bobby Pyper, 16-year-old student flier.

It was reported Pyper failed to turn off the ignition. The motor started and Bovard was knocked to the ground.

Antilles Pearl Has Again Popped Off the String

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

Cuba has had three presidents, two revolutions and a series of progressive elections in one short month under their recovery act.

The Platt amendment gives us the privilege of poking our nose into the hornet's garage.

Any time there is trouble in Cuba we are entitled to our share.

BAILEY GUARDED IN KIDNAP TRIAL

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 18.—(AP.)—In a federal courtroom filled with armed guards, the first panel of 12 jurors was called today to be examined for service in the kidnaping trial of Harvey Bailey and 11 others accused of participating in the abduction of Charles F. Urschel, Oklahoma City oil millionaire.

The chief defendants, Bailey, Albert Bates, R. G. Shannon, his wife and his son, Armon, were kept under heavy guard in an iron-barred "bull pen" on the floor below the federal tower courtroom until the prospective jurors filled the box.

Bailey and Bates, handcuffed together, were brought in as Judge Edgar S. Vaught asked the usual questions of all the jurors to determine their fitness, willingness and qualifications to serve.

EDWARDSVILLE, Ill., Sept. 18.—(INS.)—With the federal government keeping an eye on the proceedings, the Luer kidnaping trial was resumer in Circuit Court here today. Although federal agents played a leading part in rounding up the five men and a woman charged with the abduction of August Luer, 77-year-old Alton banker, the government has entrusted the prosecution to the state.

Letters Fail to Show Suicide Motive in Bridge Tragedy

What prompted pretty Stella Pietras, 20, of Grover street, McKeesport, to end her life with a leap over the south end of the Liberty Bridge yesterday was still puzzling police today.

Convinced her death was a suicide, County Detective Peter Connors released a man whose identity was not revealed, who had been taken into custody by South Side police when it was reported he had acted in a suspicious manner shortly following the girl's leap.

Tunnel police, summoned by the only witness, Charles Thomas, of Montecello street, found the girl on the railroad tracks 125 feet under the bridge. She died en route to Mercy Hospital.

LETTERS IN POCKET

Letters in her pocketbook, which the girl tossed on the bridge before she climbed over the railing, gave detectives a clue to her identity, but offered them nothing to establish a motive.

Alexander Peitras, her father, who identified her body at the Morgue last night, said he knew of no reason that would have prompted her to take her life. Nor did Stanley Trebeck, a cousin, with whom Miss Pietras made her home.

Miss Pietras, Trebeck said, left his home yesterday morning at 10:30 to attend church. It was not learned whether she attended.

TELLS OF CALL

Trebeck said that at 3 p. m. John Hoblak, of 506 Cochran avenue, Duquesne, called and said he wished to make a date with the girl. Trebeck told him that she was dead.

Hoblak was not her suitor, Trebeck said, and had kept only occasional dates with her. Hoblak, who is a member of the Reforestation Corps, stationed at North Park, had not seen Miss Pietras for two months, Trebeck explained.

SLEEP MALADY TOLL 153

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 18.—(AP.)—The encephalitis epidemic continued to decline today with only three deaths and 13 new cases reported since yesterday morning.

The death total today was 153, and the total number of cases 859, indicating, health officials said, that the malady is spreading much less rapidly than in August and earlier this month.

Dr. Edward Carl Rosenow, of the Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minn., reported in a message yesterday that he was progressing in his research with materials taken from sleeping sickness patients on a visit here.

He stated that cultures made from materials taken from St. Louis patients agglutinated with the serum for encephalitis lethargica. Agglutination is the basis of bacteriological tests in determining the fitness of a serum to combat a given disease.

FARLEY CITES HUGE SAVINGS

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—(AP.)—Postmaster General James A. Farley said today that the day-to-day power of supervision over governmental spending given to the director of the budget by President Roosevelt, has resulted in a saving of "almost 500 million dollars" to taxpayers since July 1, in comparison with the same period a year ago.

Farley, speaking before the annual meeting of the Controllers' Institute of America, expressed the belief that the principal cause for the almost insupportable" increase in federal expenditures during the last 20 years was a lack of financial planning and financial leadership.

Farley declared the new system's effect on the expenditures of the Postoffice Department alone will result in that department living within its budget this year for the first time since 1919.

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh Society Happenings

Many Pittsburgh people have returned from Beaver, where they attended a most interesting wedding, that of Emma Streat Hawkins, daughter of Mrs. Frank B. Hawkins and the late Capt. Frank B. Hawkins, United States Army, to Lieut. Samuel Marion Pickering, United States Army.

The marriage took place at the home of the bride's uncle and aunt, the Robert Weyand Darraghs, of College avenue, Beaver, Pa., Friday evening at 8 o'clock.

The bride is a granddaughter of the late Col. and Mrs. Alexander L. Hawkins and of the late Col. and Mrs. James B. R. Streator, of Washington, Pa. She is a niece of Col. Clyde E. Hawkins, United States Army, retired, of San Antonio, Tex.

Wears Satin

The bride, who was given in marriage by her uncle, Charles W. Erickson, wore a simple gown of ivory satin, made in the princess mode, with tight-fitting sleeves, a V-neckline and a long court train.

A flaring three-tiered cape-veil of ivory tulle cascaded over the court train of the gown. And the bride had a nose veil of tulle, too. She carried white orchids and lilies of the valley.

Chicagoan Best Man

Her only attendant, Elizabeth G. Darragh of Beaver, her cousin, wore copenhagen blue mousseline de soie in the princess mode, having tiny cape sleeves, a v-neckline, and a skirt flared below the knees. She carried Briarcliff pink roses and blue delphinium.

Alexander L. H. Darragh, of Chicago, cousin of the bride, was best man. The Rev. C. Ronald Garmey, associate minister of the Calvary Episcopal Church, Pittsburgh, was the officiant, and Mrs. John W. Hacker, of Beaver, played the wedding march.

A reception in the Darragh home followed the ceremony. After October 1 the bride and bridegroom will be at home in Norfolk, Va., after an eastern wedding trip.

The bride is a graduate of Goucher College, and studied for the past two years at the Detroit Art Academy and the Chicago Art Institute. The bridegroom is a graduate of the United States Naval Academy and the United States Naval Air School at Pensacola, Fla.

Good Sign of Better Times:

Serving Luncheon

The Woman's Exchange on Penn avenue opens its lunch room tomorrow with luncheon from 11:30 to 2 and tea from 2 to 5 o'clock.

Members of the smart set after a bit of shopping often stop in for tea, and help a most worthy philanthropy at the same time. Really philanthropy isn't the right word.

* * *

Now that sunshiny days are here again, everyone can become much more animated about events of all sorts in the social realm. And particularly about the Fox Chapel Fireside Market to be held Wednesday at the Pittsburgh Field Club by the Fox Chapel Garden Club.

Theyre'll be a flower show in conjunction with the market, with prizes to be awarded to the best exhibits in the market and garden groups.

The judges will be Mrs. Adolph Dudley, Mrs. Lewis A. Richards and Miss Eleanor Gillespie.

Another private school opening this month is the Maxada School, only primary school in the city. Here kindergarten and the first four grades are taught. School begins at 9 o'clock and closes at 2:30 with luncheon served at the school.

Bradford Woods Juniors' Cabaret Dance Saturday

Some especially effective decorations and appointments have been planned for the cabaret dance to be given Saturday night at Brooker's Grove by the civic committee of the Bradford Woods Junior Club.

Raymond Marter will be master of ceremonies and will introduce Dorothy Dent, torch singer; Margaret Moore, vocalist; two dance choruses by club members and a trio composed of William E. Marter, Max Kehew and Charles Roberts.

Gossipy Chat

By NANCY JANE

A crow is the favorite pet of post-debutante Bertha Brooks, daughter of Congressman and Mrs. Twing Brooks, of Sewickley. And the crow, given to her when it was a baby, is so tame that it follows her around like a dog, eats from her hand, sits on her knee.

Miss Brooks

The crow can not talk, but it does mimic the expression of people's voices. It has just one bad habit—it takes things, particularly ash trays, and hides them under leaves. It also hides its food.

Although it hasn't a name, the crow understands when it's called. It will even fly down from a nice spot in a tree. And it is very fond of having its head scratched.

The very first directory of Pittsburgh wasn't that published in 1850 by Samuel Fahnestock, we learn, but by James McKee Riddle, in 1815. And one of the original 1815 copies may be seen at Carnegie Institute.

Did you know that in races stipulating that the rider and his saddles shall weigh so much, that the lighter riders "lead out" their saddles to bring the ensemble to the correct number of pounds?

A plucky young rider is petite, blonde Eveleyn Thompson, of Uniontown. After a bad spill at the United States Cavalry races at Dorseyville Saturday, she came in second in a succeeding race. Her spill, by the way, took place just after a race was over.

Other Juniors to Help With President's Day Program in Ingram

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

When the Ingram Junior Woman's Club has its president's day on October 23, two other junior organizations will furnish part of the program. Mrs. W. G. Bothwell, of the Wilkinsburg Club, will play piano solos and the Crafton Choral will sing. In addition, the literary-dramatic committee of the hostess club will present a play.

Judge Ralph H. Smith will address the club at its opening meeting next Monday. During the year the girls will do considerable philanthropic work, including scrapbook making and contributions of various kinds and at different meetings they will hear talks by Mrs. Marie K. Reamer, of Kaufmann's; Miss Janet Forbes, of the Rieck-McJunkin Company, Mrs. Laura Holland MacDonald, of the Girl Scouts, and Mrs. C. C. Taylor, of the State Federation. The fifth birthday celebration in June is the year's most important event.

The Zelienople Travelers' Club, which opened its season last week, will begin a series of programs on Mexico next Monday. In the spring the members will take up miscellaneous topics. Mrs. Henry J. Kloffensteen is the new executive.

The president, Mrs. E. H. Anderson, and other officers of the Turtle Creek Woman's Club will meet members and guests in the Y. W. C. A., on Friday night to inaugurate another season. Adult education will be discussed at the next meeting. After that there's a book review, then a talk by Attorney Lois D. McBride, a play, a tea for the club juniors, an anniversary celebration, the club musicale and addresses by Miss Ethel Gibson, of Pittsburgh District Dairy Council, and by Miss Esther Caldwell, who will talk about "China."

Early History of Fort To Be Enacted for D. A. R.

A presentation of episodes pertaining to the early history of Fort Duquesne will be given at the meeting of Pittsburgh Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, Friday, September 29, in the Schenley Hotel. The Henry Clay Frick and Molly Pitcher Units of the Sons and Daughters of the United States of Ar Clubs, both from Halls Grove School, will give the presentation and a quartet from the Pennsylvania Association for the Blind will sing.

The chapter's annual card party on October 2 is a benefit for its 27 Sons and Daughters clubs.

Mission Society to Hear Mrs. Agnes B. Snively

Mrs. Agnes B. Snively, who recently returned from the South, will describe her work among the Negroes at the quarterly meeting of the Women's Home Missionary Society of the Pittsburgh Presbytery on Wednesday in the Point Breeze Presbyterian Church.

Card Party to Be Held By Fort Pitt Chapter

Fort Pitt Chapter No. 130, Order of Eastern Star, will hold a card party at Moose Temple tomorrow evening following a short business meeting. Mrs. Marie Still and Mrs. Margaret Roolf are in charge of the party.

Minister and Bride Guests at Reception

A reception was given Friday evening at 8 o'clock in the Christ M. E. Church in honor of the assistant pastor, the Rev. Francis E. Kerns and Mrs. Kerns. They have just returned from their wedding trip. Mrs. Kearns was Miss Alice Thompson, of Peterboro, N. H., before her marriage there on September 1.

The bride has been associated with missionary work in Pittsburgh for some time. Sharing honors with Rev. and Mrs. Kerns was Miss Carry N. Dixon, of Perth Amboy, N. J., deaconess of the church.

Ambridge Junior Club Opens Year On Thursday

The club season for the Ambridge Junior Women's Club will open officially Thursday evening in the Laughlin Memorial Library.

It will be a reception for new members. On the program are a playlet, "As Bridge is Played," and violin selections by Lydia Yacavony. The remainder of the evening will be spent at bridge.

Plans are being made for the first in a series of dances to be held September 29 with Miss Katherine McKeever as general chairman.

The Ambridge Juniors will attend the Beaver County junior rally in Rochester, September 27.

TWO TYPES OF FALL COATS OFFER MANY SMART CHOICES

GOING AWAY on a cruise? To the World's Fair? Motoring? You'll need a new topcoat to slip on when a chilly breeze springs up en route . . . . and for general fall wear later. You have two major choices concerning your coat this season. Consider first the good old reliable coat classic. It's a comfortable and practical topcoat — good for most daytime purposes because it's sturdy and warm.

* * *

ONLY THIS year it looks as if it were born for football games, motoring and flying. It's so very swagger, so very full, so smartly striped. Some are topped by huge fur collars. For them, fancy wool fabrics are conspicuous. Diagonal stripes, fancy tweeds, flecked woolens, fancy checks of all sizes, polo cloths and good old classic tweeds are a few of the fabric novelties you need to go far to beat for sports wear.

* * *

CONSIDER NEXT the dressmaker type of sports coat. It's more lavishly furred. It means, briefly, a more townish type. Where the other was born to the country, this type smacks of the city. It has an inconspicuous hemline . . . this kind of coat is not generally flared. It follows the usual formal daytime coat silhouette, only the fabrics and furs differ. It's the fur that monopolizes all the attention. Nine times out of ten, it has a very large fur collar. Fur, as a matter of fact, has never been used so lavishly for sports wear.

* * *

IT IS BEING used more and more to line coats and suit coats. One very good designer offers the most unusual complement to her sports coats. She shows a polo cloth lined and trimmed with flat nutria. With the coat comes a vest of matching fur, good on those days you swing down the street with your coat flying open, your hands pushed into huge pockets.

* * *

YOU MIGHT track down the coat sketched on the left, in natural polo cloth trimmed in beaver, to wear with a very dark beaver woolen dress if you crave a very smart town costume. Knot the brightest orange kerchief you can find about your neck. Or, to dramatize the outfit more, try an impudent red-and-green dotted scarf and hat set with it. We've seen the combination worked out—it is very chic when the colors are put together carefully.

* * *

THE OTHER coat, on the right, which we call the classic type in the first paragraph, offers limitless possibilities. If you're dying for the utterly last word, pick out the predominating color in the check, match it to a few yards of plain woolen and take the material to your favorite hatmaker. He'll cut a little fatigue cap out of it and the remainder will go to make a very straight skirt to show beneath the hem of the coat. This particular model is collared in raccoon, but others come with astrakan, long-haired lynx, beaver and squirrel.

Richmond Girl And Latrobe Man Wed

Announcement is made of the marriage at 8:30 o'clock Tuesday morning, in St. Benedict's Church, Richmond, Va., of Miss Mary Ellen Thurston, granddaughter of Mrs. James F. Thurston, of Richmond, to Victor Bernard Stader, Jr., of Latrobe.

Officiating was the pastor, the Rev. Cornelius Diehl. Miss Mary A. Mathewson played the organ, and Miss Winifred La Prade, the violin.

Miss Jane Thurston was her sister's maid of honor, and wore pink organza trimmed with white and carried pink rosebuds. Joey Hines, nephew of the bridegroom, was ringbearer.

The best man was Donald E. Stader, brother of the bridegroom, and ushers were Edward Seubert, Otho Dunlap and Cyrus Starr, of Latrobe.

The wedding breakfast was served in the Thurston home. After a wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Stader, Jr., will be at home in Latrobe.

Miss Klee Has Home Wedding Ceremony

Announcement is just being made of the marriage on August 29 of Miss Helene Klee and William Mandler. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Klee, of Melvin street, and the bridegroom is a son of Mrs. Sophia Mandler, also of Pittsburgh.

The ceremony took place at 3 o'clock that afternoon in the home of the bride, with Rabbi Benjamin Lichter officiating, before an embankment of cibotium ferns and palms.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a period gown of ivory satin, made with a high neckline. Her veil of tulle cascaded from a cap of rose point lace caught with orange blossoms. She carried Johanna Hill roses and orchids showered with lilies of the valley.

Miss Bess Stern, maid of honor, wore gray lace and carried pink tea roses. Mrs. David E. Hartstein, as her sister's matron of honor, wore eggshell satin and carried tea roses. Miss Marjorie Klee, another sister, was junior bridesmaid, in colonial blue taffeta. She carried tea roses.

The bride's mother wore fawn colored chiffon and lace and the bridegroom's mother chose black crepe and lace. Both wore corsages of tea roses. Edward Witt was best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Mandler left by motor for Chicago. They will make their home in Melvin street.

SPORT COMMENT

By James J. Long

Hubbell-Whitehill Duel. Southpaw Opener Unusual. Shibe Park Indian Hoodoo. Evers Recalled By Ryan. Dunlap Confounds Critics. Tiny Alters Pop's Style.

ONLY ONE SERIES STARTED BY LEFTIES

If Manager Joe Cronin, of the Senators, goes through with his reported plan to put Earl Whitehill on the mound against Carl Hubbell, a certain choice for the Giants, in the opening game of the world series at the Polo Grounds in New York two weeks from tomorrow, it will be the first time in 15 years and only the second time in the history of the modern post-season classic that the derby has started with a duel of left-hand hurlers. On several occasions one club has opened with a southpaw, such as Eddie Plank, Nick Altrock and Ed Killian, but the only previous series in which both teams used forkhanders to start the first game was that of 1918, when Babe Ruth pitched the Red Sox to a 1-to-0 victory over Hippo Vaughn and the Cubs.

Earl Whitehill

In 16 other games, later in the world series competition, left-handers were starting opponents, and the National Leaguers did not show to advantage, as in all that string of southpaw clashes the senior loop won only twice. Slim Sallee, of the Reds, beat Claude Williams, of the Black Sox, 4 to 2, in the second game of the 1919 series, and Bill Hallahan, of the Cardinals, won over Rube Walberg and the A's, 5 to 0, in the third game of the 1930 stakes.

Hubbell and Whitehill are the outstanding left-handers of 1933. Hubbell, rated the best pitcher in baseball today, has won 22 games and lost 11, while Whitehill has won 21 and lost seven.

SHIBE PARK RECORD JINX TO INDIANS

One thing that Walter Johnson has not been able to do since he supplanted Roger Peckinpaugh in the driver's seat for the Cleveland club is to chase away a strange jinx of which the team has long been a victim at Shibe Park in Philadelphia. You've heard of many a club that found it very difficult to win ball games on the grounds of a particular rival, like the Dodgers at Wrigley Field in Chicago, or the Reds of a few years ago in St. Louis, for instance, but at the home of the A's the Indians appear to have smashed all records for being tossed repeatedly by a persistent hoodoo.

When they concluded their final Quakertown visit of the season recently, with four straight defeats, the Johnsons carried away the sorry record of having won only one game out of 11 played at Shibe Park this year. And that's only a small part of the story, for this was the third year in the last four that the Indians scored only a single victory at that field in an entire season.

TERRY, LIKE M'GRAW, SEEKS JEWISH STAR

During his three decades as manager of the Giants, the hunt for a Jewish ball player who would develop into a big league star became something of an obsession with John McGraw. He thought he had his man in Moe Solomon, but the latter could not make the grade. Jake Levy, a pitcher, was another disappointment. Andy Cohen was thought to be the answer, but he lost his speed. Harry Rosenberg also failed. So did several others.

Bill Terry has started in where McGraw left off, and still is hopeful that Outfielder Phil Weintraub may turn out to be the player he wants. As a fielder, Weintraub needs polish. But that wallop into the right field stand here recently showed that Phil carries a punch. He has plenty of speed, too, and Terry has not yet given up on him. The irony of it all is that while the New York club was scouring the remainder of the country for a Jewish prospect, a real prize right under its nose in the big city was overlooked. Jean Dubuc got him when he gumshoed into New York and signed Hank Greenberg for the Detroit club. Greenberg is a .300 hitter, has run Harry Davis out of the first base job and looks like a coming star.

RYAN PLAYS BALL WITH SPIRIT OF EVERS

The extent to which fighting spirit has made Blondy Ryan a winning factor for the Giants in spite of his so-called weak-

German Athletes Win in Paris

PARIS, Sept. 18.—(AP.)—There was a tense moment in Colombes Stadium yesterday as German athletes attending the annual track meet between the two countries raised their arms in the Nazi salute.

Ten thousand Frenchmen witnessed the gesture for the first time in Paris. Germany won the meet, 83 to 68.

PIRATES CARD DOUBLE BILL TOMORROW

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Bringing forward the game scheduled for Thursday, the Pirates and Phillies will play another doubleheader at Forbes Field tomorrow on top of the dual engagement today.

On Wednesday, the home season ends with the playoff of a postponed game with the Dodgers. Then the Pirates will hie themselves away to conclude the campaign in St. Louis and Cincinnati.

Boss Gibson would like to try out some of his promising rookies, but in view of the stiff battle on tap concerning second place he does not wish to take long risks. Outfielder Nick Etten, of Davenport, Ia., of the Mississippi Valley League, was due to report to the Pirates today.

Walter Berger, star outfielder of the Boston Braves, who was left in Pittsburgh when his club departed for Cincinnati, was reported improved today. Berger, quartered at the Schenley Hotel, is suffering with grip. He was unable to play in the doubleheader of Saturday.

LOCAL VARSITIES TAKE SHAPE

By JESS CARVER

Papa Pittsburgh's three varsity football squads have reached the point in their training activities where it is possible to discern first eleven lineup probabilities — in some cases even certainties.

The Dukes, with one game already in, have the edge on Pitt and Tech. Coach Elmer Layden's lads came through their inaugural against the rough and ready Waynesburg Wolfpack last Friday night in satisfactory manner. There remains a lot of polishing and smoothing to be done, but for a first game the Dukes performed in creditable fashion.

Things are not going so well out at Pitt as far as two or three of the first stringers are concerned. Indeed, unless there is a sudden reversal of form by some of the boys, they'll find themselves listed as former first-string men.

Howard Harpster still is working on his backfield problem at Tech. The line, under the skillful tutelage of Don Lovewell, is rounding into great shape and promises to form an excellent aid to the eventual backfield setup.

Heavy work will continue for both the Panthers and Tartans this week, with the Dukes being slated for some stiff workouts as the coaches prep the team for the game with West Virginia Wesleyan Friday night.

The Dukes yesterday announced that Johnny Napoleon, former Penn State ring star, intercollegiate 115-pound champion, had been signed as boxing coach, supplanting Joe Miller, of Wilkinsburgh, and another former Penn Stater.

Napoleon was placed on Penn State all-time boxing team by Coach Leo Houck. He's to study law at Duquesne for the next four years.

A. M. A. MEETING TONIGHT

NELSON ENTERS HEARST SWIM

Universal Service.

CHICAGO, Sept. 18.—Two of the greatest marathon swimmers in this country, Marvin Nelson, Fort Dodge, Ia., and George Blagden, Memphis, Tenn., are among the latest entries in the first annual William Randolph Hearst-Herald and Examiner 15-mile swim marathon that is to be staged here Sunday, October 1.

The event, first of its kind ever held on Lake Michigan will be the feature of William Randolph Hearst Day at a Century of Progress.

Marvin Nelson was the young giant who won the Canadian National Exhibition 15-mile swim marathon in Toronto several weeks ago. George Blagden is the Southerner who won the same event at Toronto last year.

Coast Girl Wins In Hearst Regatta

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 18.—(Universal.)—Loretta Turnbull, masterfully driving her Sunkist Kid through two torrid heats in a field of 11 Class C hydroplane pilots seeking possession of the Hearst perpetual trophy won the major prize of the regatta yesterday at Lake Los Angeles.

Miss Turnbull, who hails from Monrovia, sped to victory in the first heat of the race and then returned to fight off a desperate challenge by Martin Martin in the second heat to win by a close margin.

LEADERS KEEP UP WINNING STREAKS

Associated Press.

The New York Giants and Washington Senators stood at the threshold of baseball's throne room today, ready to step over at a moment's notice and accept the crowns as 1933 champions of the two major leagues.

Each had disposed of all but one rival and the schedule today made it possible for both to clinch the flags.

Of the two, the Giants were a trifle closer to a certainty. By defeating the St. Louis Cardinals, 4 to 3, yesterday, they eliminated the Chicago Cubs, recently considered as their most dangerous rivals. Two more decisions were needed to drop the Pittsburgh Pirates out of the race and the Buccaneers were scheduled for a doubleheader against the Phillies today while the Giants played their second game at St. Louis.

GIANTS ABOUT "IN"

Assuming a Giant victory and an even break for the Pirates, Pittsburgh could win all the nine games it would have left and the Giants could drop their last 10 and still the clubs would finish with this standing:

	Won.	Lost.	Pct.
New York	89	63	.586
Pittsburgh	90	64	.584

The Senators, nine and one-half games ahead of the New York Yankees and with 10 games to go against 13 for their rivals, needed three decisions to clinch the American League pennant. All three were on the program today with Washington playing the St. Louis Browns and the Yanks entertaining the Chicago White Sox in a doubleheader. Given a double defeat today and a Washington triumph, the closest the Yanks could come would be this:

	Won.	Lost.	Pct.
Washington	96	56	.632
New York	94	55	.631

The Senators helped their cause along yesterday by defeating the Detroit Tigers, 4 to 3. The Yankees cut the Washington margin a trifle by taking two games from the Cleveland Indians, 3 to 2 and 6 to 1. Babe Ruth whacked a homer in each contest to bring his season's total to 30.

CUBS WIN PAIR

Chicago's Cubs also won a double-header, beating Brooklyn twice by 6-5 scores, but the one Giant victory automatically eliminated them from the pennant race.

The Cincinnati Reds threatened to climb out of the National League cellar as they took two games from the Boston Braves, 5-2 and 6-0, to land only a point behind the idle Phillies.

KLUG PIGEON WINS RACE

A bird to the loft of J. Klug, of the East Street Homing Club, finished with the best average for the race from Xenia, O., staged yesterday by the Pittsburgh Racing Pigeon Concourse. The Klug bird's average was 1215.85.

Garfield Booters Win in Opener

Garfield United got off to an auspicious start in the Allegheny Valley Soccer League yesterday, traveling to Renton to defeat the upriver eleven, 4 to 3.

Other games in the league found Harwick defeating Newfield, 4 to 2, and the Valley Athletics nosing out Harmarville, 2 to 1.

UPSETS MARK FIRST SCHOOL GRID FRAYS

AA TEAMS FIND GOING ROUGH IN OPENERS

By JULIUS LEVIN

Scholastic football teams of Western Pennsylvania apparently do not intend to wait until the season is well under way before giving their supporters comething to talk about, judging from the results of opening contests played last weekend.

While most of the favorites managed to come through with victories, many of them by comfortable margins, quite a few surprices were handed the fans in the way of upsets.

DRESHAR GETS BAD START

Two contests played on Friday furnished the fans with food for thought, Tarentum High School, a class A school making its first start under the guidance of Johnny Dreshar, former Carnegie Tech star, bowed to an aggresive alumni aggregation, 6-0, while Monessen High School, one of the 12 members of the Class AA combine, had its hands full defeating a class B eleven from Carmichaels, 7-0.

Saturday's contests likewise provided some upsets of major importance. Glassport, last year co-champion in the class B division, started the fireworks by holding McKeesport, co-champion in class AA, to a scoreless deadlock at McKeesport, quite an achievement for Roy Hickes' eleven. The Tubers, making their first start under the coaching of Bill Clees, who has replaced Bill Sullivan, scored a 20-0 victory over the Glassporters in 1932.

PITCAIRN SHOWS CLASS

Pitcairn, making its first appearance as a class A school, held Turtle Creek Union, a class AA school, to a 13-7 score. Ben Haldy, successor to Foxy Miller at Turtle Creek Union, may find the going rough in the class AA race this fall.

Mapletown, a class B school, surprised Waynesburg, a class A member, by scoring a 19-0 victory, while Trinity upset the dope by counting a 13-12 victory over Uniontown. It was the second successive, close decision dropped by Pop Everhart's boys, who bowed before Scott High School the previous week-end, 6-0.

Another class A school to feel the wrath of a class B opponent was Scottdale, which lost to Fayette City, 13-7.

Jeannette, co-champion in the double A group, and Ambridge standard-bearer in the class A fight in 1932, both continued their winning streaks in impressive manners. Jeannette, coached by Markley Barnes, recorded its tenth straight triumph by swamping Sewickley ownship, 33-0, while Ambridge duplicated the feat by crushing Monaca, 47-0. Both teams were undefeated in nine games in 1932.

CRAFTON NOSED OUT

Coraopolis got revenge for a 13-7 defeat in 1932 by scoring a 14-13 victory over Pop Wenrich's Crafton eleven at Coraopolis.

Donora, winner of the Monongahela Valley Big Five title last season, received a jolt in its opening battle by being held to a 6-6 draw by Redstone Township. Jimmy Russell, Dragon coach, will have plenty to say to the boys before Glassport is met in the next game.

Rankin High School sounded a warning to Homestead, which school is met in a night duel Friday, by swamping Follansbee, W. Va., 21-7. Homestead showed a lot of promise in its one-sided victory over Brentwood Friday night.

What Football Signals Mean

LLOYD YODER, FORMER CARNEGIE TECH STAR, DEMONSTRATES OFFICIALS' CODE

Here's the code adopted by football officials on the Pacific Coast to inform spectators on what is going on upon the field, demonstrated by Lloyd Yoder, former Carnegie Tech star, who is a radio announcer and football official out there. Salute in center picture means unnecessary roughness, penalty 15 or 25 yards. Left strip, top to bottom—Forward pass interference, ball to opponent at point of foul; penalty refused; offside, 5 yards; player in motion, 5 yards; holding, 15 yards. Right strip—Score (hands directly overhead, touchdown; bringing hands together, safety); flying block or tackle, 5 yards; illegal pass, 5 yards; crawling, 5 yards. These are International News Photograph Service pictures. Yoder was one of Tech's greatest players.

Ted Yarosz vs. Vince Dundee, 10 rounds, and Rocky Stone vs. Jackie Cohen, Johnny Toomey vs. Maxie Fisher, Eddie Durina vs. Frankie Corsi, Nick Abate vs. Joe Franko, Mickey Bottone vs. Joe Kukal and Al Diamond vs. Stanley Doman, 5 rounds each, Newark, N. J.

Jack Sharkey vs. King Levinsky, 10 rounds; Tony Cancella vs. Dick Daniels, 8 rounds; Bob Moody vs. Larry Johnson, 6 rounds, and Johnny Fitzpatrick vs. Leo Rodak, 4 rounds, Comiskey Park, Chicago.

Frankie Carlton vs. Stanley Kanenberg, 8 rounds, Englewood, N. J.

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 18.—(AP.)—The muddled middleweight championship situation is expected to be made clearer tonight when two of the foremost contenders for the disputed world title, Vince Dundee, Belleville (N. J.) veteran, and Ted Yarosz, brilliant Pittsburgh youngster, meet for the second time.

Yarosz, who has bounded into prominence on the crest of a sensational winning streak, surprised followers of the game by giving the clever Dundee, for several years known as the "uncrowned champion," a real beating in Pittsburgh recently.

Yarosz is a 7-to-5 favorite to win tonight.

SHARKEY FACES LEVINSKY

CHICAGO, Sept. 18.—(AP.)—Jack Sharkey, out to win the heavyweight championship of the world again, and King Levinsky, who discovered it more profitable pushing leather than fish, will toss punches at each other tonight at Comiskey Park after a three-day delay.

Originally scheduled for last Friday, the match was cancelled until this evening because of inclement weather much to the glee of Promoter Sammy Wolff, who had an eye on the boxoffice receipts.

Public opinion regarding the winner hasn't changed with the Boston boxer still a 9-to-5 favorite to win. It will be Sharkey's ability and experience against the wild dynamite-packed punch with which the Kingfish has won so many fights.

British Net Star Loses on Coast

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 18.—(AP.)—One foreign star was dropped by the wayside in the Pacific Southwest tennis championship yesterday as Fred Perry, national champion and defender, led the way through the first bracket of the men's singles.

E. R. Avery, of Scotland, was eliminated by Donald Budge, the San Francisco school boy, 7-5, 6-2.

Names in the Sports News

HENRI LABORDE, of Stanford, tossed the discus 156 feet, 1¼ inches in an exhibition at Paris yesterday as France defeated Germany, 83 to 68, in a track and field meet.

ZANESVILLE won the Middle Atlantic League pennant when it defeated WHEELING, 7 to 2, in the final game of their playoff series Saturday night.

GIL CUNNINGHAM was killed in a crash as CHARLES WIGGINS, of Indianapolis, won the 100-mile race for the national Negro auto racing championship at Chicago yesterday.

LUIGI BECCALI, of Italy, set a world record of 3:49 for the 1,500-meter run as Italy beat Great Britain, 85-66, in a track meet at Milan.

TED WIGET, 19, of Stanford, yesterday at San Francisco, won the annual swim across the Golden Gate for the second consecutive time.

TOMMY LOUGHRAN, heavyweight boxer, was threatened with injury if he does not pay $10,000 before his bout with JACK SHARKEY in Philadelphia on September 27, his manager, JOE SMITH, declared today, saying the threat came in a mysterious telephone call.

TOBY LYONS, of North East, Pa., won the Crawford County amateur gold title yesterday at Meadville, defeating WALTER S. CRITCHLOW in the final round of the annual tournament, 4 and 3.

After being beaten by HANS NUESSLEIN, of Germany, for the singles title, BILL TILDEN paired with BRUCE BARNES yesterday to win from NUESSLEIN and ROMAN KAJUCH, 7-5, 6-1, 6-2, in the doubles final of a pro tennis tourney at Berlin.

HANS NUESSLEIN, German professional tennis star, defeated BILL TILDEN, 1-6, 6-4, 7-5, 6-3, in the final round of a professional tournament at Berlin yesterday.

JUNK WALTERS, Seattle pitcher, played every position on the team as Seattle lost to Sacramento in a Pacific Coast League baseball game at Seattle yesterday.

BILLY WINN, of Kansas City, set a new track record of 14:33 4-5 in the qualifying heat and then won the 15-mile feature auto race at the Reading races yesterday.

JACK KRONER, a third baseman, and JOHN KERDOCK, a pitcher, have been signed by the Philadelphia National League club and will report to MANAGER BURT SHOTTON next spring.

CITY LEAGUERS CLASH

The Books and Dormont meet in the fourth game of their playoff series for the City League championship at Olympia Park at 5:45 this evening. Kimer Knetzer likely will oppose Bimmy Steele on the mound.

YAROSZ FIGHT ON AIR

The Ted Yarosz-Vince Dundee return bout in Newark, N. J., tonight will be broadcast by WWSW through a telegraphic description from the ringside.

BASEBALL COMEDY

By NICK ALTROCK

Nick Altrock

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—Well, I guess I will beat the other experts to it and get off a few world series predictions. And, as the guy says that introduced Amos and Andy, heretheyare:

1. Jimmy Walker won't throw out the first ball at the Polo Grounds.

2. If Whitehill pitches against Hubbell, the game's liable to go 19 innings.

3. There won't be any ladies' day when the gals get in free.

4. Judge Landis won't get sore if 196 cameramen take his picture.

5. There won't be any Master Mind on either bench and even Roosevelt's Brain Trust will have to pay to get in.

PRO ELEVEN ON EDGE

The Pittsburgh Pirates, who will open the National Football League season at Forbes Field Wednesday night under the lights, will be given a strenuous workout today by Coach Jap Douds and a tapering off drill tomorrow.

The Pirates' opening test, against the formidable New York Giants, is about as tough a setup as could be arranaged. Boasting such star performers as Harry Newman, former Michigan star; Ken Strong, N. Y. U. luminary of a few years ago, and Reb Russell, who starred at fullback for Nebraska and Northwestern, the Giants are pre-season favorites to cop the league title.

Play in the circuit got under way yesterday with the Boston Redskins tossing a bombshell into the ranks of the Green Bay Packers by holding the former champions to a 7-7 tie. Rip Collins and Jim MacMurdo, former Pitt stars, and Cliff Battle, of West Virginia Wesleyan fame, starred in the game.

In other contests, the Giants crushed the Paterson (N. J.) Hawks, 20-0, and Portsmouth beat Cincinnati, 14-0. The Chicago Cardinals defeated the Freeport (Ill.) eleven, 29 to 6, in an exhibition tilt.

Several local sandlot elevens opened their campaigns, the Goslins beating North Braddock, 13 to 6; St. Rosalia Preps upsetting Millvale, 14 to 0; Sto-Rox beating the Bloomfield Civics, 6 to 0, and Rox Rangers walloping the Soho Oakleaefs, 26 to 0.

Lou Magnolia Buried, Famous Referee

Lou Magnolia

Magnolia, a former boxer and wrestler, gained fame several years ago as a leading referee and handled many important assignments. He also acted as a promoter for a time.

Cancer of the throat was the cause of his death.

MUSHERS TO CLASH

The Duquesne Heights Council mushball team, winner of the first-half championship of the Junior Order of United American Mechanics League, will meet the Sheraden Council nine, second-half winners, in the first of a three-game series tomorrow evening at 6:30 o'clock on the Wabash playgrounds, West End.

LOCAL SANDLOT CHAMPS FACE TEST TODAY

By TOM BIRKS

The Immaculate Heart nine, representing the Greater Pittsburgh district in the National Baseball Federation title elimination series here, meets the hard-hitting Flint (Mich.) aggregation in the third round of the tournament at Greenlee Field this evening, with play scheduled for 5 o'clock.

The Pittsburghers kept their undefeated record intact in the tourney yesterday by handing Johnstown its first defeat in a weird game at Greenlee Field, by a 10-to-9 score.

FLINT WINS

Flint entered the third round by walloping Youngstown, 16 to 1.

Other second games found Dayton defeating Dearborn, 11 to 3; Pontiac beating Waterbury, 2 to 1; Cleveland favored to win the tourney, eliminating Newcomerstown 5 to 2, and Fort Wayne downing Detroit, 14 to 7.

Hoffmann, of Immaculate Heart, who pitched a sensational shutout victory over Newcomerstown on Saturday, was the hero in yesterday's win. With the bases loaded in the ninth inning and two men out, Manager Joe Dobbs sent Hoffmann to the mound. Andrews was at bat for the Johnnies. He had collected two hits off Gomski and Anderson, but he popped up for the final out.

GOMSKI CHASED

Gomski started for the Pittsburghers and looked great for three innings. Swede Anderson took up the burden in the fifth and lasted until the ninth.

Poor base running on the part of the Johnstown team lost them the game, and the crowd certainly got more laughs than thrills, at least until the ninth inning.

Waterbury, Detroit and Newcomerstown, having lost two straight games, are out of the tourney.

BEAVER IN FINAL

The Paul Jones nine, of Beaver, has attained the final round of the junior elimination baseball series. The Jones team scored a double win Saturday over the Rosatis, of Washington, Pa., at Beaver, winning 9 to 4 and 9 to 0.

Fight Results

SPORT VIGNETTES

In addition to putting the goal posts back on the goal line, adopting the new collegiate ruling which brings the ball in 10 yards from the sidelines any time it is declared dead within that territory and permitting forward passing from any point behind the scrimmage line, the National Professional League, which makes its Pittsburgh bow at Forbes Field Wednesday night with Art Rooney's Pittsburgh Pirates playing the New York Giants, will stick to the old rule of 25-yard penalties for clipping instead of going along with the colleges in reducing them to 15 yards.

Art Rooney

Rooney today outlined his plans for the season . . . He said he has told his coach, Forrest (Jap) Douds, former W. & J. star lineman, he doesn't want to interfere in the handling of the squad, but insists upon just one point and that is that the public be given a good brand of football, full of thrills . . . "I don't care if we lose every game," he said, "just so the fans get a run for their money . . . I want my team to take chances, to play a smart running and kicking and passing game and keep away from a monotonous close line-smashing attack . . . We have some fast backfield men and if they are properly handled and shaken loose I think we can assure the fans some sparkling performances."

Harry Jacoby, who boxed around here this summer, now is back in his home town, Newark, N. J., where he is continuing his winning ways . . . He recently defeated Al Diamond, who was seen on the Dundee-Yarosz card at Forbes Field, scoring three knockdowns in the six-round battle . . . He is fighting under his real name, Harry Jacobs . . . This baseball season will go down in history as the Year of the New Deal, which saw the highly-touted Yankees go to seed and the little-thought-of Giants come from nowhere to the National League pennant . . . A complete change of fortunes for the two New York teams.

A genuine upset of the dope for the local fans would be a defeat for Ted Yarosz in his return bout with Vince Dundee at Newark, N. J., tonight . . . Lou Magnolia, who died last Saturday, was a good referee, but he got himself in wrong with his arbitrary actions and was allowed to fade from the picture just when it seemed he would take his place as the ace of the arbiters of the ring . . . He handled several of our leading heavyweight matches.—HARRY KECK.

HARVARD PLAY DRAW MADE

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

Ralph Bald, Mt. Lebanon ace, heads the seeded quartet in a draw of 36 entries from 19 schools in the eleventh annual Harvard Cup net tourney, carrying with it this year official title of interscholastic singles championship of Allegheny County. Bald, mainstay of the Rockwood Tennis Club and junior champion of Western Pennsylvania, was runner-up to Bob Madden, of Schenley, in last year's tournament.

Listed second to Bald is Bob Burnett, of Wilkinsburg, who attained the semi-finals and pushed Madden hard a year ago, while, at No. 3, comes Bill Miller, Allderdice contender, who grabbed a set from Madden in the same competition.

Jimmy Arensberg, driving Shady Sider, rates fourth, while such talented youngsters as Ken Ritenour, Allerton Miller, Keller Pollock, Ray McColligan, Bob Merchant, Dud Weiss, Floyd Schake, Don Borland, Laurent Blatt and Bernard Greenberg were omitted from the select group—excellent indication of the unusual strength of the field.

Cup play began this afternoon on the University of Pittsburgh courts, with the scene shifting thereafter consecutively to Shady Side Academy, Arnold School and the P. A. A. The pairings:

FIRST ROUND

Upper half—Ralph Logan, Allegheny, vs. William A. Weber, Duke Prep; S. K. Pollock, Arnold, vs. J. Robb Wilson, Central Catholic.

SECOND ROUND

First round—Irvin Goodman and W. G. Costin, Jr., defeated W. N. James and R. F. Mehl, 6-1, 6-1.

Second round—W. Russell Unger and Neal O. Rumsey defeated Ted Rosenthal and H. H. Schenk, 6-1, 6-3; Jack Redmond and Arthur J. Glaser defeated Irvin Goodman and W. G. Costin, Jr., 6-2, 3-6, 6-4; Stan McCaskey and Charles R. Maile, Jr., defeated H. M. Rinehart and Austin Famariss, 6-3, 6-3; Robert T. Lampus and Crosby Leyda defeated E. A. Knoche and Carlton E. Hughes, 7-5, 10-8.

The McBride Park tennis tournament, postponed from last week, was resumed yesterday when 10 matches were run off. Hilda Johnson reached the final bracket in the women's division and will meet the winner of the Loretto Johnson-Elizabeth Mooney match.

ARKLE WINS TITLE

JOHNSTOWN, Sept. 17.—B. F. Arkle, Wheeling ace and 1932 Western Pennsylvania premier, captured the men's single honors of the initial annual Allegheny Mountains net tourney before a large gallery at the Westmont Tennis Club yesterday afternoon, beating Dave Devlin, 6-2, 6-2, 6-4.

Miriam Sullivan, P. A. A. star, carried off women's singles laurels and in so doing overcame a perennial rival in Rose Straub, Johnstown luminary, 6-1, 7-5. The men's doubles victory went to Arkle and Paul Sullivan, who defeated Devlin and Junior Kunkle, 5-7, 6-1, 4-6, 6-3, 6-3, and the mixed dual decision was speedily annexed by Miss Straub and Devlin over the Sullivans, 6-2, 6-0.

Long's Sport Comment

Johnny Evers

Veteran baseball followers see in Bill Terry's hustling shortstop a man who plays ball with the spirit of the pugnacious Irishman who helped Frank Chance to win pennants and world titles.

Picked up by Frank Selee while the latter was managing the Chicago club in 1902, Evers was a frail little chap, but a natural born ball player with the flame of a winner. He quickly developed into one of the brainiest and scrappiest infielders in baseball, a real spark plug, whose fiery spirit played a tremendous part in the making of the great championship team that in 1906 set an all-time major league record yet to be equaled by winning 116 games.

ONLY TWO DOUBLE WINS IN AMERICAN GOLF

Johnny Goodman need not feel that he has begun to slip already because he failed to follow up his capture of the United States open golf championship earlier in the year by winning the national amateur title in Cincinnati last week. Johnny has plenty of company in his fall down on that double undertaking.

For it's a feat that has been achieved only twice in the history of American golf. The only men ever to win the United States amateur and open championships in the same year were Chick Evans, in 1916, and Bobby Jones, in 1930.

It was just another example of the contrariness of golf that Goodman, the perfect player, should fail to get past the first round, and that the championship in the end should go to George T. Dunlap, Jr., in whose game some of the experts were picking flaws from the start of the tournament. They said that no one with a swing like Dunlap's could be a first-class golfer; that George was too short all the way around—off the tees, with his irons, with his putts. Dunlap may do things in unorthodox fashion, but there he is, on the amateur throne. What counts in golf, as in anything else, is not the style you use, but the results you get.

THORNHILL TO SHAKE UP WARNER SYSTEM

In his last two years as a star tackle at Pitt, 1915-16, Tiny Thornhill received a thorough schooling in the Pop Warner system of football, and he has been teaching it since as a coach, first at Centre, and in later years as an assistant to Pop himself at Stanford. But now that he has succeeded his tutor as Stanford's head coach, Thornhill is tossing out some of the oldest details of the Warner styles, details to which Pop always has most rigidly adhered.

Tiny Thornhill

For one thing, Thornhill's team will use an optional forward pass, the ball going to any one of three or four men, Warner's spot pass, always to a certain place and to a certain man, was in vogue at Stanford for a decade. Too, the center is going to snap the ball back in the speedy spiral-pass fashion, not in the old end-over-end way. It's a small detail, but Tiny believes it is going to help. One feature that Thornhill will retain is the old "Formation A," of unbalanced line and two wing backs. With this formation, earlier Stanford teams enjoyed their greatest successes, and it will be used widely under Thornhill. In his first year, Tiny must combat the bugaboo of many inexperienced men. His squad will be three deep, but always there will be five or six sophomores in the lineup. Only 12 lettermen, including five regulars, will be available.

Akron Pilot Wins In Sharon Race

SHARON, Pa., Sept. 16.—Jerry Berry, Akron, continued his winning streak at Sharon Speedway yesterday, when he won the feature 25-mile auto race. Berry was in third place until Bill Barr, Carey, O., crashed through the fence after a wheel left his car on the upper curve, and Dob Snyder, Kent, O., was forced to the pits. Barr escaped with a head cut and bruises. Gus Pletz, Beaver Falls, finished second; Joe Catone, Struthers, O., was third and Snyder managed to gain fourth. The time was 23.41.

Skinny Allen, Greenville; Leo Kosorich, Sharon, and Clyde Cramer, Youngstown, were unhurt as their cars crashed after bad skids.

PITTSBURGH BUYER'S GUIDE AND BUSINESS REVIEW

TIN FEATURES DULL METAL MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—(AP.)—Tin rallied approximately 2¼ cents per pound during the week as a result principally of sharp advances in sterling exchange. Consumers showed no disposition to pay the higher prices, however, and the moderate volume of business that had been in evidence previously tapered off. The trade was closely watching foreign exchange rates and Washington developments for possible indications of inflation.

Domestic copper prices remained unchanged at the basis of 9 cents for electrolytic on a very limited turnover as the trade continued to await the outcome of conferences between producers and smelters over differences in the proposed copper code. Foreign buying, however, broadened moderately as export quotations advanced in sympathy with weakness in the dollar.

The domestic statistical situation showed further improvement in August, when refined copper stocks were reduced by about 23,500 tons, according to trade reports, but the reduction was said to have been smaller than expectations.

Although a diversified demand for lead continued at the unchanged basis of 4.50 cents, New York business slackened considerably following recent weeks of activity. Consumers were said to have supplied the remainder of their September and part of their October needs. An advance at London created a rather more optimistic tone here.

Zinc remained dull with prices unchanged. Selling pressure, which had recently been in evidence, disappeared and while some of the larger sellers were holding asking prices above recent levels, there was still sufficient metal offering to supply the limited demand at the previous basis.

A further reduction of about 4 points in steel operations reflected expiring contracts on books and a decrease in new orders. The heavy industries were still slow in making awards. While finished prices were unchanged, with the exception of a few readjustments, the scrap market developed an easier tone. Pig iron was quiet and unchanged.

STEEL BACKLOG DIMINISHING

CLEVELAND, Sept. 18.—(AP.)—Unless there is a reversal of the unbalanced market situation within the next 10 days, the magazine Steel said today, steel mills will enter the next quarter practically devoid of orders. The review said:

"Either for current requirements or for stocking, consumers of steel continue to specify fully against expiring third quarter contracts, but with equal unanimity they are refraining from any commitments for the fourth quarter.

"These specifications were broad enough to restrict the decline in steel production last week to one point, leaving the national average 41 per cent. In fact, operations were stepped up in four districts and held stationary in four.

"But this unbalanced market situation is rapidly draining backlogs away, and unless there is a reversal in the next 10 days, the mills will enter the last quarter practically devoid of orders, with a consequent further break in activity. Sentiment weakened perceptibly last week.

"For this stalemate, the confused situation arising from the new steel code is partly responsible. An expected clarification failed last week when important eastern mills withdraw their official fourth quarter quotations on bars, plates and shapes, and further delay was encountered in filing new schedules on other products, and in agreeing upon an allowance for trucking."

Reichsbank Report.

BERLIN, Sept. 18.—The Reichsbank statement as of September 15, shows the following changes in reichsmarks: Gold and bullion increased 12,624,000; reserve in foreign currencies decreased 12,217,000; bills of exchange and cheques decreased 63,028,000; silver and other coins increased 21,256,000; notes on other banks increased 3,894,000; advances decreased 1,800,000; investments decreased 241,000; other assets decreased 78,000; notes in circulation decreased 36,687,000; other maturing obligations increased 11,183,000; other liabilities decreased 14,026,000. Total gold holdings, 338,066,000. Note coverage, 11.7 per cent. Rate of discount, 4 per cent.

Inflation Possibilities Hold Speculative Attention

Inflation possibilities continued to hold the attention of speculative contingents. With a conference of delegates from the cotton states getting under way in Washington, comprised largely of Senators and Representatives from those areas, it was evident that recent pressure on President Roosevelt to use various of the means placed in his hands by the last Congress was to be increased. Senator Thomas, of Oklahoma, leading inflationist in the national legislature, advocates sharp increase in the open market activities of the Federal Reserve, among other things.

The action of the Baltimore & Ohio in deciding to take up its October 1, maturity of $5,000,000 Cleveland, Lorain and Wheeling first 5s for cash is the first concrete illustration of the effect of improved traffic on earnings. Late in July the road made a formal offer to holders of that issue to refund such bonds to the extent of 40 per cent in cash, calling for an outlay of $2,000,000 and the balance in three-year 5½ per cent secured notes of the parent company. In view of the dire position of the carriers only a few short months ago, this development, naturally, is viewed as significant.

Although the September 1 total showed a decrease of 3,175 in the number of Steel Common holders as compared with June1. The downward tendency which started with the annual meeting record date, march 18, last, was reversed in august. The total on August 1 was 186,279 and there was an increase in number of holdings during the month of 115, bringing the September 1 figure to 186,394. A similar condition existed in the preferred stock. At the end of July, the number of preferred holders was 62,855 but by the time of the dividend stock of record date at the end of August, the total had risen 97 to 62,952.

The Trade-in-Barron's weekly says, in part: "The understanding at the Capitol is that by mid-week the President will be in consultation with the leading inflationists of whom he expects definate programs. At least two of his leading impartial economic advisers will be at that time tending their views. Tangibly discounting the strongly-running sentiment toward inflation are the gains last week of over 10 cents a bushel for wheat and 18 cents for sterling exchange. Inflation therefore, seems at the moment to be more imminent than at any time since dictatorial powers were conferred upon the President by Congress. In the opinion of the biggest capitalists and market operators. The prospect of inflation makes less desirable than ever the retention of cash. Inflation, now on the horizon, must simply intensify the extreme money ease and conceivably might warrent a yield of 3 per cent or less for seasoned dividend-paying equities."

Grain men of the nation in annual convention at Chicago today were urged in an address prepared for delivery by President Peter B. Carey of the Chicago Board of Trade to do their "utmost as grain men and as citizens to aid the Washington administration in its struggle to bring back better times."

Addressing the Grain and Feed Dealers National Association, President Carey said: "I cannot help but maintain an optimistic outlook for the future of business in general, including agriculture and the grain trade. Grain prices have more than doubled their lows of the year, and have enhanced the feeling of hopefulness."

Sugar Market.

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—Raw sugar was firm early today and while Philippine sugars were unchanged at 3.60c, Cuban varieties advanced 5 points to the basis of 3.65c. Refiners were showing more interest with sales confirmed of 18,000 bags of Philippines for September-October and 20,500 bags for October-November shipment at 3.60c and 25,000 bags of Cuban now loading at 3.65c.

Futures opened at advances of 2 to 4 points. December contracts after selling at 1.62c, reacted to 1.60c while March sold off from 1.70 to 1.68c. The midday market was within a point of the best or from 2 to 3 points net higher.

No change was reported in the refined market.

STORES PUSH NEW CREDIT PROGRAM

In accordance with similar activity all over the country, Pittsburgh firms have been issuing general notices with their letters stating that paying bills promptly helps the national recovery program.

Since every charge customer is a member of the credit circle, payment by the customer, the firms contend, affects a large number of people. The retailer when paid can pay the wholesaler. The wholesaler pays the manufacturer and he in turn pays for his raw material and labor. Consequently the payments help the NRA.

Although the stores have put the President's program into operation and are fulfilling the requirements in every way, they cannot, a local official stated, succeed unless the customers cooperate in making the recovery real. Their new slogan is:

"Let's All Do Our Part! Prompt payment on your part will help us do our part."

DEATH TAKES BANKER SISSON

Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—Francis H. Sisson, 62, vice president of the Guaranty Trust Company and recent president of the American Bankers' Association, died at his home here yesterday.

His frequent addresses and writings on banking made him widely known. He believed the nation's banks are strong and advocated intelligent advertising to restore public confidence. He predicted several months ago that business would continue its upturn if artificial correctives were avoided.

His first interests after graduation from Knox College and Harvard University were publishing and advertising. In recognition of his services during the World War, he was made a chevalier of the Order of the Crown of Belgium by King Albert.

He was president of the Sleepy Hollow Country Club and member of the Metropolitan, University, Harvard, Bankers and Advertising clubs.

Sharp Price Advances Presnt Problem To Merchants.

—By GEORGE H. SNYDER—

SKYROCKETING PRICES—inevitable before the end of the year—are presenting difficult problems to retail merchants and, incidentally, to the NRA program.

Products affected by processing taxes, such as cotton goods, will show the greatest rises as a result of higher costs for raw materials as well as the increased manufacturing costs caused by the adoption of codes.

Of course higher prices will mean speculative profits on inventories but where the advances will be the greatest, the possibility that consumers may not be able to buy, offers a serious threat to the volume of retail sales as well as to manufacturing operations and finally to employment.

The expansion in purchasing power must be substantial in order to keep pace with the rising prices for most of the articles which are necessary to the average person.

* * *

Cotton Goods Offer Example

COTTON GOODS provide an outstanding example of soaring prices. Much of this increase has not yet been reflected in retail prices since merchants still are selling old stocks. Even up to the present time the gain in wholesale prices has been substantial.

A trade publication reports that since March the price of unbleached sheeting has increased 135 per cent. Cotton socks are up 100 per cent, blue cambray work shirts up 90 per cent, union suits up 72 per cent, cotton prints up 78 per cent and men's leather sole work shoes up 52 per cent.

* * *

Price Advances On Heavier Wear

THESE PRICE advances have been the greatest on articles of particular importance to the working man. They have been greatest on goods which have a high cotton content such as prints, denims, work socks and overalls. They are lighter on finer goods where the cotton content is light and the processing tax bears a smaller proportion to the total cost. Price advances are relatively small on voiles and sheers.

The great problm of the merchants today is to keep their prices from rising so fast that buying by consumers will be impossible.

Manufacturing Output 16% Above 1932

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—(AP.)—Manufacturing production in the United States in the first seven months of 1933 averaged 16 per cent higher than in 1932, it is shown in an analysis of Federal Reserve Board indices by the National Industrial Conference Board.

March, 1933, saw the low point in manufacturing. A 77 per cent recovery in the next four months brought production close to the average of the three-year period, 1923 to 1925, the report showed.

At the beginning of 1930, iron and steel, textiles, paper and printing, leather, rubber tires and tubes, petroleum refining and cement were at a production level above that of 1923 to 1925. Automobiles and food products were within 3 per cent of that level.

Subsequently the most conspicuous falling off was in the iron and steel industry, which last March produced only 22 per cent of its 1923-25 output, and the automobile industry, which in October, 1932, produced only 16 per cent and last March only 27 per cent of its 1923-25 output.

In July, 1933, the iron and steel industry had risen to 100 per cent and the automobile industry to 70 per cent of the 1923-25 average output.

Apart from petroleum refining, which throughout the last three years has stood considerably above the 1923-25 lever, the highest production last March was in the food and leather industries, each of which stood at 84 per cent of the 1923-25 level. Last July the manufacture of foods was at the 1923-25 level, while leather manufacturing exceeded that level by 14 per cent.

Production in textiles, which registered its low point in May, 1932, had by June, 1933, reached a point 33 per cent above its 1923-25 average. In July it fell off slightly.

The contrast between production of automobiles and that of rubber tires and tubes is interesting, the board said. In the latter where the replacement demand is more constant, the level of production follows closely the general average, while automobile production shows wide variations.

When automobile production in October, 1932, was only 16 per cent of the 1923-25 average, production in rubber tires and tubes was 68 per cent, as compared with a general average of 66 per cent for manufacturing.

Tires and tubes in June, 1933, show a production of 15 per cent above the 1923-25 level, compared with 34 per cent below for automobiles and 9 per cent below for manufacturing generally.

Silver Advances To 40 1-8 Cents An Ounce

NEW YOR, Sept. 18.—(AP.)—The spot silver market had one of the sharpest advances of the year today, rising 1⅜ cents to 40⅛ cents an ounce. On the Commodity Exchange, Inc., silver futures were up from ¾ to 1-cent an ounce in heavy trading.

At today's level, spot metal was only a shade under the year's high of 40⅜ cents, established on July 18. That price stands as the highest since, May, 1930.

DOLLAR'S GOLD VALUE DROPS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—(AP.)—With the time limit for filing returns by gold hoarders expiring at midnight tomorrow, the Treasury announced today it would entertain requests for extensions from individuals unable to comply because of circumstance beyond their control.

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—(AP.)—The American dollar, in terms of leading European gold currencies, today slumped to its lowest level in foreign exchange history.

As measured by the French franc, the United States monetary unit was valued at approximately 65 cents, compared with 67 cents Saturday. Other exchanges, particularly the British pound sterling, were strong. Dealers said the growing belief abroad that currency inflation was imminent in America was responsible for the further weakness of the dollar.

French francs, at 6.03 cents, were .17 of a cent above their Saturday's closing rate. The British pound sterling soared 9½ cents to $4.18½ for cables, Dutch guilders gained 1.70 cents at 61.10 cents, Swiss francs were up .85 of a cent at 29.85 cents and Belgian belgas advanced ½ cent to 21.50 cents. German marks spurted more than a cent to 36.90 cents and the Scandinavians, Canadian dollars and Far Eastern funds were firm.

Rubber Market.

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—Crude rubber futures opened strong, 15 to 56 points higher. September, 7.45c bid; December, 7.85@7.95c; January, 8.12@8.18c; March, 8.45@8.60c.

LIVERPOOL, Sept. 18.—The market was due 3/4d higher; opened ⅝ to ¾d up, and at 12:15 p. m. was un ⅝ to ½d.

At 2:15 p. m. the market was unchanged to ¼d higher, based on sterling at $4.76½.

BONDS REFLECT INFLATION RUMORS

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—(AP.)—The bond market had its better moments during the past week, but it finished on a note of uncertainty with price trends generally obscured by irregularities.

After Monday, trading volume picked up quite noticeably, although activity was centered principally in secondary issues which, as usual, were inclined to follow stocks rather closely. Although there were a number of advances among the sepcialties, net changes, as a whole, were small and unimportant.

United States government securities, after maintaining a relatively firm tone for several weeks on the apparent assumption that the Treasury's borrowing would continue at an abnormally low rate of interest, turned a little soft as the week ended.

GILT-EDGE LIST SOFT

The easier tone in the government section was attributed partly to fresh rumors or currency inflation, accompanied by the sharp decline, of the American dollar in foreign exchange markets, and uncertainties as to the government's future fiscal policy.

Apparently reflecting the same influences, prime corporate investment issues were none too buoyant. The majority of these were barely steady most of the time. Public utility loans were under some pressure as doubts began to appear as to whether, under the administration's recovery program, coupled with higher taxes and lower rates, earnings could be held around their recent levels.

FOREIGN "GOLDS" UP

Coincident with the further slump of the dollar, bonds of some of the countries still on the gold standard moved up several points to new high levels for the past year or more. The best of these advances were recorded by dollar loans of Dutch East Indies, France and Switzerland. Renewed purchases here of such maturities at prices ranging from $1400 to more than $1450 per $1,000 par value bond was interpreted as a "capital flight." In other words, dollars, it is believed, are being transferred into gold currencies by the simple means of buying the bonds here and selling them abroad. Under the existing governmental restrictions, dollars cannot be changed into foreign currencies except for commercial or other so-called legitimate purposes. The majority of the foreign gold bonds carry coupons ranging from 5½ to 7½ per cent.

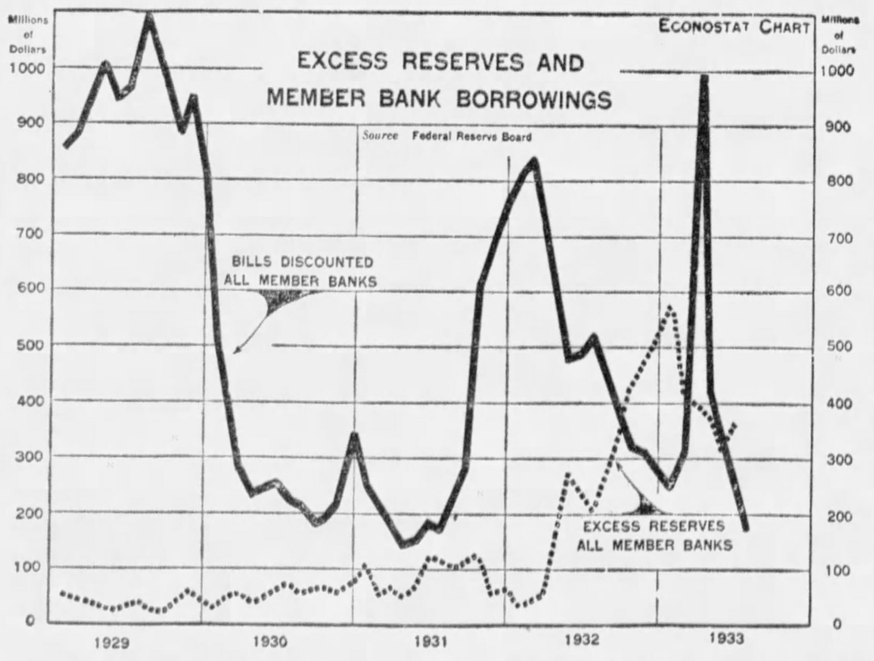
Banks in Position to Expand Credit to Tune of Five Billion



BY JOSEPH STAGG LAWRENCE

Editor, The Econostat

This is the first of a series of five charts and articles on the question which today is agitating the NRA authorities, businessmen and all the bankers of the country.

It is claimed that business has made substantial strides on the road to recovery and that further progress would be possible were it not for the attitude taken by bankers. It is claimed that the progress of business today and the prospects normally justify a more liberal attitude on the part of the banker.

In the face of this need for credit and the opportunity for the banker to do his country a service and earn additional profits for his bank he insists upon standing on the side line refusing, through excessive caution, to do anything to help the cause of recovery. At least that is the claim of the critics of the bankers.

The bankers have not permitted this argument to go by default. They claim that their first obligation is toward their depositors. It is the money of their depositors which is used to make loans. If a bank makes unwise loans, that is to say, loans which are not repaid, the loss falls first upon the bank and if the bank's capital is exhausted, then upon the depositors.

It will give the depositors scant satisfaction, claim the bankers, to know that their money has been lost in a meritorious cause; that the failure to repay depositors' funds loaned to NRA borrowers should not be held against the bankers. The bankers claim that such an argument would not get them to first base with their depositors. They must be extremely careful, therefore, to make only such loans as are likely to be repaid. It is for this reason, and this alone, that they are so cautious.

The accompanying chart presents one set of the facts which has some bearing on this debate between the banker and the NRA supporter. The solid line represents the total of borrowings of member banks from Federal Reserve Banks. It may be called the line of bank embarrassment.

The dotted line shows the surplus reserves which member banks could use if they wished or had the proper opportunities in making loans. At the time of writing this surplus exceeds $350-million. Experience shows that one dollar of reserves is capable of supporting about fifteen dollars of deposits. Consequently, this excess represents a possible credit expansion of more than $5-billion.

It would seem, therefore, that if the banks had the necessary confidence in the capacity of their borrowers to repay, they, in turn, have ample means to make the loans.

STOCKS, AFTER RISING, TURN IRREGULAR

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—(AP.)—Stocks and staples cut crazy quilt patterns today as prices shuffled about irregularly despite the inflationary implications of another sharp slump in international dollar rates.

Diverse currents tossed leading shares about indiscriminately after a brisk upward movement in the first hour which was led by mining and oil issues. Although the petroleum group maintained most of its advances, the metal equities shaded their early gains. The utilities generally were soft and the rails were subjected to some pressure at one time. The American monetary unit dropped to about 65 cents in terms of the French gold franc and was off nearly 10 cents in relation to the British pound sterling. While cotton got up around $1.50 a bale, grains turned hesitant after wheat opened a cent a bushel higher. Other commodities were mixed. Bonds were a trifle nervous.

Shares of Homestake Mining spurted some 10 points and United States Smelting jumped around 4, but later relinquished part of this advance. American Smelting, McIntyre Porcupine, Dome and International Nickel were up fractionally to more than a point. American Can and Allied Chemical stepped up 2 or more and Standard Oils of New Jersey and California, Continental and Seaboard advanced a point. The alcohols did little. United States Steel was heavy, losing some 2 points, and issues off more than a point included American Telephone, Du Pont, Western Union, General Motors, Liggett & Myers, Bethlehem Steel, Consolidated Gas, Union Pacific, Public Service of New Jersey and North American.

Although brokerage opinion continued highly bullish, important operators seemingly were in no rush to crowd the bidding for the more speculative issues. Gossip concerning some important, but mysterious, news which might be expected this week was heard in the street. The public, however, still appeared somewhat diffident and most of the early trading was accounted for by floor professionals who were inclined to drag down modest profits.

Notwithstanding protestations from abroad that France has no intention of renouncing the gold standard, financial observers were watching this situation rather closely. Some bankers, however, feel that the probability of the French divorcing the gold base in the near future is quite remote.

Renewed interest in some of the oil stocks was attributed partly to the expectation that Secretary Ickes will announce a comprehensive price-fixing schedule for the industry within the next few days and that the new rates will be considerably above those now posted.

ACTIVE BUYING LIFTS COTTON

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—Cotton futures opened firm, 18-24 higher on active general buying, higher Liverpool cables, the advance in foreign exchange and further predictions of inflation. October, 9.73; December, 9.98; January, 10.07; March, 10.26; May, 10.44; July, 10.63.

December contracts sold up to 10.15 and May to 10.58 or about 36 to 41 points net higher. Realizing increased at these figures, and there were setbacks of 5 or 6 points from the best but the market showed net gains of 30 to 34 points at the end of the first half hour.

After net gains of about 37 to 41 points, realizing increased somewhat. Volume slackened slightly. The market was steady at midday with prices 35 to 37 points net higher.

LIVERPOOL, Sept. 18.—Cotton, 17,000 bales, including 10,900 American. Spot moderate business done; prices 6 points higher. Quotations in pence: American strict good middling, 6.29; good middling, 5.99; strict middling, 5.69; middling, 5.54; strict low middling, 5.39; low middling, 5.19; strict good ordinary, 4.99; good ordinary, 4.69. Futures closed steady. October, 5.40; December, 5.42; January, 5.44; March, 5.48; May, 5.52; July, 5.56.

Labor Day Reduces Week's Coal Output

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—(AP.)—Production of bituminous coal declined sharply the week ended September 9, but the slump is attributed by the Bureau of Mines to Labor Day observance.

The bureau estimates the total output at 6,510,000 net tons, a decrease of 1,500,000 tons, or 18.7 per cent from the output in the preceding week. Production in the holiday week in 1932 amounted to 5,304,000 tons, and in 1931, 6,855,000 tons.

CORPORATE EARNINGS

Federal Mining and Smelting Company report for the quarter ended July 31 shows profit of $139,195 before depreciation, depletion, taxes and year-end writeoffs, compared with loss of $51,303 in the preceding quarter and loss of $131,896 in the quarter ended July 31, 1932.

LARGER RETAIL SALES REFLECT ADDED FAITH

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

Mr. Rukeyser

There has been a distinct lifting in the volume of buying since the first quarter of the year. Consumers respond to special appeals and aggressive advertising. The chief barrier to a still larger volume is the limitation on the purchasing power of the people, which through higher farm prices and re-employment of part of the unemployed is above the low point for the year.

Tom May, head of the local unit of the May Department Stores Company, indicated that he would be pleased if the present improvement is retained. There was a distinct pickup in the latter part of last week, and the trend has been better since the middle of August.

There was a letdown in the first fortnight in August when the new state sales tax went into effect. Mr. May indicated that late in July there was an immense spurt in consumer buying to get in under the wire before the sales tax. The response to the appeal to save 2½ per cent was astonishingly large, he added.

LARGER IN EAST

Mr. May said that the percentage pickup in retail sales had been larger in the eastern stores than here. He indicated that the gains were especially sharp in such sections as Cleveland and Akron, in spite of the handicap of closed banks.

As head of the merchants' association, Herbert Bennett, president of Barker Brothers, gave me a sketch of the changing chart of consumer demand in the Southwest. Mr. Bennett indicated that figures for his own store were barometric of what took place in the whole community.

In the first quarter, the store got off to a wretched start, with sales down 39 per cent from a year ago. Then there was gradual improvement, and, in spite of the poor first quarter, sales to date are now only 12 per cent lower than a year ago.

Mr. Bennett expressed confidence that the present improvement would be sufficient to make the total sales for the year equal those of 1932 when the volume reached $3,000,000, compared with about $16,000,000 in the peak year for house furnishings out here—1927.

MAKING PROFITS

But from a profits standpoint, the story is a little more cheerful. The company got out of the red in June, and has been operating in the black ever since. A more satisfactory profits showing hinges not only on handling a larger volume of units, but also in getting the unit price up.

Mr. Bennett told me:

"Ordinarily the house furnishing business depends on new construction, which has been at a low ebb here and elsewhere. Accordingly, a huge pent-up demand for furniture has developed. The recent improvement has come primarily from two sources.

"First, people of means, who held off purchases because of the prevailing uncertainty and because of the continuous down trend of prices, were satisfied that prices would go no lower. Hence they resumed buying.

"Secondly, all through the depression large numbers of workingmen have been engaged in service jobs, such as elevator operators, and janitors. They were earning within 10 or 20 per cent of the peak, but until recently were afraid to spend their money normally on account of the unfavorable economic situation.

"Now with the trend reversed and with additional men returning to work, they are less apprehensive of losing their jobs and hence are more willing to buy what they need."

Home Loan Issues Trading Reinstated

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—(AP.)—The new real estate securities exchange has resumed trading in the government's Home Owners' Loan Corporation bonds and interim certificates on a "when issued" basis.

The bid price today was around 90 compared with an initial price of 85 a few weeks ago and a high of 92½. Activity in the issues is light, traders say, because of the small volume thus far announced.

Trading in the securities was suspended by the exchange early this month pending clarification of their status by Washington, but dealings have since been resumed.

Pennsylvania Oil Supplies Decline

OIL CITY, Pa., Sept. 18.—(AP.)—The Derrick says stocks of Pennsylvania grade crude oil held by major pipe line companies decreased 82,233 barrels during August to 2,429,211 barrels.

The stocks have decreased steadily since March.

PIONEER DIES AT FREEPORT

Michael C. Kerr, one of the oldest residents of Freeport, Pa., died this morning at his home, 319 Fifth street, Freeport, after an illness of four months. Mr. Kerr was the founder of the Kerr Coal Company, of Freeport, and a member of the firm at the time of death. He was born in County Donegal, Ireland, and came to this country 54 years ago and located in Freeport where he has lived ever since.

Mr. Kerr was a member of St. Mary's Catholic Church and was affiliated with the St. Vincent de Paul Society and the Holy Name Society of that parish.

He leaves five daughters, Sister Agnes Joseph, member of the Order of the Sisters of St. Joseph and a teacher in St. Joseph's School, Natrona, Pa.; Mrs. R. J. Crawford, Jr., of Freeport; Mrs. Fred W. Omnus, of New Kensington; Mrs. Thomas J. Lehner, of Kittanning; Miss Marie Kerr, at home; one son, Neal J. Kerr, of New Kensington; two brothers, John M. Kerr, of Freeport, and Bernard J. Kerr, of Pittsburgh, and four grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held Thursday in St. Mary's Church with two nephews of Mr. Kerr, the Rev. James Kerr, of Florida, and the Rev. Charles Kerr, of Holy Rosary Church, Pittsburgh, assisting the pastor, the Rev. S. J. Benson.

Judge Keeps Tab Of Weather for 64 Years

Going on 64 years now the veteran jurist has "observed" weather conditions, changes in temperature and whatnots, all of which he has recorded in a weather-diary. He started his recording when he was 13.

Every major flood, summer storm or winter blizzard is noted in the volumes Judge Kennedy has set aside for the purpose. He resides in Aspinwall.

NAZI PLOT QUIZ LINKS U. S. GIRL

International News Service.

LONDON, Sept. 18.—The name of an American girl today was brought into the international unofficial inquiry being held here to place the blame for the incendiary fire which gutted the German Reichstag Building last February.

The girl, Pauline Harvey, of Jugoslavian extraction, has offered to go to Leipzig for the official trial of communists held as the incendiaries, and to testify there as an alibi witness for George Dimitroff, a Bulgarian communist and one of the defendants.

Penthouse

By ARTHUR SOMERS ROCHE

"The morning papers will ... differently; they'll have ... straighter story. I came ... around two o'clock, and I ... you how I happened to come in at that time. I was trying to get to sleep and couldn't make it. Pretty hot last night before the storm broke, and the thunder always frightens me and I gave up hope of sleeping. I looked out my living-room window — you know, things that frighten you attract you. Maybe," and she smiled, "I'm a little bit afraid of you. Anyway, I wanted to look at the lightning. And I saw lights on in Crelliman's penthouse."

"Where is your apartment?" he asked.

News About Crelliman

"The Oklahoma Building. I can look right down on Jim's penthouse. I saw the shadows of people against the curtains, so I slipped into some clothes and dashed right over. It's only a matter of going down one elevator, walking half a block and riding up in another. The doorman of the Oklahoma Building held his umbrella over me for half a block. He told the police that. So, you see, there isn't much use in a cross-examination, is there?"

"Even if I were interested enough in the matter to want to question you, I shouldn't bother to now. I'm enough of a lawyer to know when a witness is telling the truth. It must have been a terrible shock to you."

"You're telling me!" she said. "Well, I'm telling you that I loved Mimi. Of course it was a shock. My God, I'll give up that apartment. If Jim Crelliman wants the rent, he can sue me. But I'm not going to live in a place where every time I look out the window I'll be staring at the spot where they found Mimi's body. I'm going to move."

"Why would Crelliman object to your moving?" he asked curiously.

"These are tough times, and a landlord hates to part with a tenant who pays her rent even occasionally. Jim owns the Oklahoma Building. At least, when the bonds went all to pot last year he bought most of them in. Bootleggers are the only guys with any cash. You'd be surprised if you knew how many of them had the old do-re-mi salted away. Since Al Capone went to jail the boys don't put their money in banks where the government can check up on it. It's all in the old sock or in bonds or in real estate." She stretched her pretty body. "Gee, talk makes me tired."

He stared at her. The things she didn't know she knew! Crelliman's ownership of the Oklahoma Building was an unimportant item, but days of cross-examination might have failed to get the fact from her, because she wasn't aware that the fact was worth mentioning. If she were eager to help him she'd never think of mentioning such a detail as this. Here was one casual item; how many more casual items would she mention?

A Compliment

"So, baby, if you brought me up here to pump me, there doesn't seem any sense in my staying any longer," she said. "I'd just be wasting your time."

"How could a man waste time if he spent it with you?" he asked.

"You mean that?" Her black eyes were suddenly melting.

He felt the color come into his cheeks; he could feel his heart pound. She was very lovely. She had said nothing of any importance, nothing that had any bearing upon the case which he had taken because Sue asked him to do so. The chances were a hundred to one that even in her subconscious mind she knew nothing of importance, exactly as the chances were a hundred to one that Siddall had killed Mimi Montagne. Nevertheless, she had been the Montagne's intimate friend. Nothing, however far-fetched it seemed, could be afford to overlook.

Also, he told himself again, she was very lovely.

"I mean it," he said.

* * *

Miss Leonard, the butler told Durant, was eating breakfast. He would inquire if she could receive Mr. Durant now. None of yesterday's unexpected cordiality was in the man's manner. Durant felt that the servant looked upon him with cold disapproval.

Perhaps, however, that was because he felt disapproval of himself. When one is annoyed with one's self, one is apt to think one sees that annoyance reflected in other people. The man burning with self-contempt finds it difficult to believe that others look upon him with approval. Conscience may not always make cowards of us all, but it makes us very much alive to the possible opinions of others.

Pleasant Visits

Yes, the man returned to state. Miss Leonard would receive Mr. Durant. Durant followed him to the pretty sitting room which he had not seen for six months. Sue sat before a tiny table. He had seen her sitting there before. In the glad days gone by, Sue had often permitted him to stop by on his way to the office to watch her drink her morning orange juice, sip her morning coffee, munch her morning toast. How heartened by this glimpse of her he had been for a day's work. And each time she had granted him this charming intimacy he had looked forward to the day when the intimacy would be a part of every day, not a gift sparingly bestowed.

He looked at her now, and that sense of guilt which had made him read disapproval in the butler's manner made him flush now. Fresh as the morning itself, and as unsullied as the sunshine streaming through the window, she seemed. She had a kitten-like manner of curling up in her chair as she ate her breakfast, and her movements were as dainty as a kitten's. But now, as she looked up at him, her blue eyes were as opaque as any kitten's, too.

"Didn't know when I could get in again and so I took a chance you'd receive me now," he said.

"Coffee?" she asked.

He didn't want any, but he could not forego watching her pour it. When she did so the negligee she wore would slip back from her arm; there was a dimple in her elbow which fascinated him. He saw it now as she poured a cup of coffee for him.

"But there isn't any cup for you," he protested.

A maid entered as he spoke, and placed another cup upon the table. Durant felt that the maid was frowning upon him. He'd just quit drinking in time, he told himself. Oversensitiveness was a sign of nerves.

"Did your investigations have any results?" Sue asked.

Junior Patrol Mail Box

Every member try to get a member. The more members we have, you know, fellows, the more successful the Junior Patrol will be. If we can have nearly all the children in the whole Pittsburgh district sign the Junior Patrol pledge—and belong to a patrol where he can meet his friends—just think what a lot of fun they can have! And just think what a lot of help they will be for others less fortunate than themselves.

It looks like Butch is going to make trouble for Junior's patrol, doesn't it? That brick with the message written in blood seems to mean business. But there is always somebody bigger and smarter than bullies like Butch, and in the end they don't gain anything.

Here's a letter today from Frank Westhoff, of Allison Park, Pa. He writes:

"I can play a piano, and my favorite piece is Yankee Doodle. My cousin, George Scott, and I would like to start a patrol out here in Westhoffman. I would like to come in and play for you. I am sending a pledge card with this letter."

That's fine, Frank. And we hope you do start a patrol soon. And keep on practicing your piano lessons, Frank. Lots of fellows think they are sissies to play the piano, but when they get older and find out what a fine thing it is to be able to play, they are glad their mothers and fathers asked them to learn.

Grace Pearce, of 1622 Main street, Sharpsburg, is a new captain today. She writes:

JUNIOR PATROL PLEDGE

I promise to help children less fortunate than I am.
I promise to do my best to make my parents proud of me.
I promise to watch carefully when crossing streets and to aid other children in keeping out of danger.

FERNANDO DE SOTO DISCOVERING THE MISSISSIPPI (1541)

Fernando de Soto (1496-1542) assisted Pizzarro in the conquest of Peru and returned with a fortune to Spain. There King Charles V appointed him governor of Cuba and permitted him to conquer Florida at his own expense. A fleet was richly equipped and the search of gold begun (1539). He was harrassed by hostile Indians, lured onward by reports of wealth while his men were perishing. During the third winter of this toilsome march De Soto died of fever on the banks of the Mississippi River, which he had discovered and into which his body was lowered. (United States History.)

RAMESES II ON A LION HUNT

The Nile valley of Egypt is one cradle of early civilization. Beginning with 3400 B. C. to 1800 B. C., we speak of the Kingdom of Egypt, founded by Menes, who united Upper and Lower Egypt. It was invaded about 1800 by the Hyksos, a Semitic stem, and ruled by their so-called Shepherd kings for about 200 years, when Egyptian princes recovered their land and, conquering neighbor nations, formed the Egyptian Empire, the climax of their power. Decline began, enhanced by Ikhnaton, the monotheist pharaoh; but the old splendor was revived by Rameses II (1292-1225 B. C.). After him Egypt ceased to be a moving force of the world and by 1000 B. C. her power had passed. (Breasted: History of Egypt.)

LOYAL UNTIL DEATH

George Washington, commanding the Revolutionary Army, requested the young and gifted Capt. Nathan Hale to enter the British territory in disguise. Obedient to his commander, moved by great love for his country, Hale crossed the British lines, but was betrayed and condemned to die. At the place of execution he spoke with clear and manly voice: "My only regret is that I have but one life to lose for my country!" The picture shows the brave soldier and the gruesome preparation for his execution (1776). (Character building.)

THE FOUR-STROKE OTTO CYCLE

Automobile motors generally are built for the four-stroke cycle. The strokes are: 1. Suction. The piston, connected to the revolving crankshaft (S) by connecting rod (R), moves downward and sucks the gasoline vapor and air-mixture from the carburetor through the intake pipe and raised intake valve (I) into the cylinder (C).

2. Compression. The piston moves upward, while the intake valve (I) and exhaust valve (E) are closed; thus the gasoline vapor and air in the cylinder are compressed, thoroughly mixed and preheated for a more effective explosion.

3. Explosion. An electric spark produced in the sparkplug (K) fires the mixture, which burns quickly; the heat of combustion (aver. temp. 3,000° F.) expands the products (CO_2, CO, H_2O), which force the piston downward; this is the only stroke furnishing power. Valves are closed.

4. Exhaust. The piston pushes the exhaust gases upward and through the raised exhaust valve (E) into the silencer. (Moyer: Gasoline Automobiles.)

SOILS

Left: Soil is a porous, fine-grained upper layer of the earth. It consists of decomposed (weathered) rock mixed with decayed vegetable matter capable of supporting plant life. Residual soil rests upon the bed-rock from which it is derived. Transported soil is weathered rock carried from its place of origin to the present position. The decayed organic matter giving the dark color is in the top layer; underneath is the sub-soil, lighter, with little vegetable matter and fragments of partly decayed rock; below that is the partly decayed "rotten" rock which grades into the fresh rock. All Is Forgiveness

Bugs Baer

Will Do Better Next Summer

We had the usual success of the average tourist. We got about four quarts of Niagara Falls, a concrete fence post from the petrified forest and enough of the Grand Canyon to make us suspect that the dollar camera is as unsteady as the dollar.

The natural bridge of Virginia may be the result of a terrific upheaval of nature. But it looks like a one-thumb job when you reduce it to three-by-two. However, it brings back memories of the wonders of the world and magnificent vistas squinting through the eye of a range-finding needle. There is more to touring than just hot dogs and rolls. Never forget the mustard.

We took a special trip to the Bay of Fundy to register the 60-foot rise and fall of the tide. A very clear piece of celluloid indicates either Bay of Fundy or the camera was empty. Maybe it fell 70 feet that day.

Then the family gets around to the community chorus of "That's fine of you, but it's awful of me."

A blot on the picture is usually a mountain. A dot on the blot is always the automobile. Five specks on the dot on the blot is the family. Why bother to powder your nose for a thing like that? But they do.

Next summer we are going to buy a wide-angle lens and take twelve-by-twelves. We are tired of having visitors to the house admiring us through a microscope.

The wife can keep her camera, but we are going to pack a camera bigger than Carnera's shoe box. When we take pictures we want to see some results.

The government only prints one face at a time on a three-cent stamp. Yet a woman will crowd a family group in the same area and make you hold the pose 15 minutes while she reads the book of directions.

Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph

BE A PITTSBURGH BOOSTER
To Your Friends in Other Cities

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 18, 1933

Established 1927, by Pitt Publishing Co., Pittsburgh, Pa. President, William Randolph Hearst. Publisher, Wilmer M. Jacoby. Assistant Publisher, Charles H. Joseph; Treasurer, A. W. Clark. Safe Councilmen

The Sun-Telegraph Submits the Names of Eleven Candidates Who It Believes Can Be Trusted.

The candidates for Mayor in the primary election tomorrow are comparatively few; most of them have been prominently before the public for many years, and their records and characters have been thoroughly discussed during the campaign. Intelligent voters should have no difficulty in making a choice.

In respect to the Councilmanic candidates the situation may be different. There are 47 of them, with five places to be filled, and some of them have never held office nor been candidates before, consequently are not well known outside of the little circles in which they move. Hence there is danger that in voting for Councilmen some of the citizens may vote more or less blindly.

Of course there are a number of Councilmanic slates in the field—the Coyne-Herron machine slate, the Mackrell slate, the Citizens' League slate, and the Guffey-Lawrence Democratic slate. But it is not prudent to vote for slates. Every candidate should be judged according to his individual merit.

It is of vital concern that Pittsburgh shall have good Councilmen. The Sun-Telegraph is submitting, therefore, for the guidance of citizens who are not acquainted with the qualifications of the candidates, the names of 11 who it believes can be trusted.

The election of any five of the 11, in our opinion, will be no mistake. The city will be safe if they sit in the Council, no matter who may be elected Mayor.

William A. Magee is a recognized authority on municipal affairs and has had the finest possible training for service in Council in the two terms that he served as Mayor. After organizing his campaign on theb asis of not joining with other candidates, Magee has disappointed a great many of his friends by suddenly taking sides in the Mayoralty contest. That, however, does not alter the fact that Magee is splendidly equipped for Councilmanic service.

James F. Malone also is well fitted for the job, having served as President of Council and Director of Supplies.

Frank L. Duggan, a successful businessman, has served the people of Pittsburgh well for some years in a purely unselfish way as chairman of the Better Traffic Committee and in connection with the organization and operation of the Helping Hand. He is a good citizen.

Hugh F. McKnight, president of a North Side hardware company and a member of the City of Pittsburgh Sinking Fund Commission, bears an excellent reputation.

Edward O. Tabor is an attorney who has been active in civic matters in opposition to machine politics and the spoils system.

Robert N. Waddell is an insurance man who made a name for himself as a college football coach. He has a vigorous, independent personality.

All of the foregoing are running in the Republican primary, but Magee, Malone and Tabor also seek Democratic nominations. The following seek Democratic nominations exclusively:

George E. Evans is a builder, a former president of the Pennsylvania Retail Lumber Dealers' Association, and president of the Henry George Foundation. He favors the city manager plan with election of Council by proportional representation, a 25 per cent reduction in the city payroll expenditures by elimination of unnecessary positions and improved efficiency, and a reduction in the taxes on homes to be effected by extending the graded law to school and county taxes.

Walter R. Demmler is a merchant who for years has been active in the fight for good government, but never before has been a candidate.

John J. Kane, also a member of the Legislature, fought hard for social legislation and introduced the city manager bill.

John M. Huston, secretary of one of the largest food concerns in Pittsburgh, is running on a platform calling for economy in city government and lower taxes.

All of the candidates whom we have named are, in our opinion, trustworthy. No mistake will be made in the election of any of them.

Local Reptiles

The Carnegie Museum Is Rendering a Needed Educational Service in Exhibiting Them.

The Carnegie Museum has just placed on display some lifelike replicas in wax of the salamanders, toads and frogs of Pennsylvania, and has in preparation similar exhibitions of native turtles, snakes and lizards.

This is an educational service that is badly needed; for if there is any branch of natural history in respect to which the average person is poorly informed it is the branch that has to do with reptiles.

Dr. D. A. Atkinson, Burgess of West View, one of the leading local authorities on herpetology, states that 17 different species of snakes and seven species of turtles are to be found in Allegheny County.

In a book on the snakes of the county that he published around 1900 he expressed the belief that the rattlesnake no longer existed in this vicinity. Subsequently he found some prairie rattlesnakes in a swamp near Warrendale.

Did you ever hear of DeKay's snake, or the ribbon snake, or the red-necked snake? They are among the rarer of the 17 kinds that Dr. Atkinson has found in the county.

We trust that we shall see all of the species of native reptiles and amphibians in the Carnegie Museum exhibitions of the near future.

Pananthropos

Some Man

A former Governor of Michigan with plenty of spare time on his hands has figured out how big the human race would be if it were all combined and rolled up into one individual.

This hypothetical person the ex-Governor calls "Pananthropos." The size of the gent is amazing. As his sponsor says:

"Suppose the average height of a man is five feet. Panthropos, made up of the two billion members of mankind, would have a stature of ten billion feet. That is more than 1,750,000 miles tall. With his feet on earth and his head in space he could look down on the moon."

What his other measurements are the Governor neglects to say. But it will be generally agreed that Pananthropos is some man.

And, incidentally, Mrs. Pananthropos would have to be some woman to cook for her husband, put up with his cosmic grouches and boss him as is the custom of all good wives.

Maybe all the rolling pins in the world combined into one would help her solve her problems when he came home without his pay envelope.

We Need a Gulliver

By Nelson Harding

Remember, in "Gulliver's Travels," when Gulliver was in the land of the Lilliputians he captured a diminutive enemy fleet by wading out and bringing back the little ships by their hawsers.

And today there is a Gulliver's job for Uncle Sam. He should gather in the Lilliputian meddlers, the roving internationalists and wandering diplomats and tie them up ashore.

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

Standardized Wives

The Ideal Wife is no longer standardized. Individual ideals are as prevalent, now, as individual drinking-cups.

* * *

I sometimes wonder, if I were a man, whether I'd rather be married to what is popularly known as a Perfect Wife, who would have a hot dinner waiting for me, promptly at 6 o'clock, every evening, or to be one of the more uncertain sort, who might have a surprise waiting for us, every evening.

Some men value creature comforts and punctuality above all things. They LIKE to punch a time-clock at the old front door, and to be greeted by the fragrant aroma of a broiling steak or a roasting fowl.

* * *

Perhaps that's because their wives have trained them that way. But I have never met any carefree bachelors who enjoyed dining every night at the same place, at the same moment.

* * *

The Perfect Wife is so punctual about meal-hours and so injured or so shocked when a man is twenty minutes late that "Home" must seem just like a boarding-school.

* * *

Perhaps it's just my "bohemian spirit"—but I think I'd prefer the sort of wife who could serve me a Lucullan feast (with all my pet dishes, which the doctor had forbidden) one day; and the next day might greet me with a cheery "Come on Ducky, lets go around to Tony's and have some spaghetti, tonight. The cook's off."

I think I'd like the kind of wife (if I were a man), who never had any hard and fast rules about housekeeping or any SET dinner-hour, but who could always stir up something tempting to eat, or think up some intriguing place to dine at the last moment. The kind who might forget to mend my socks; but who would never bat an eyelash if I brought home an unexpected guest.

* * *

After all, the person who makes the best life-mate is the one who makes life the best fun, and who fills it with the most spice and variety and charm and surprises. A man gets enough system and efficiency and monotony around the office all day—without carrying them into the Home.

* * *

That's what I THINK. But, no doubt, if I WERE a man, no matter which kind of woman I married, I'd prefer the OTHER kind! Most men do.

NEW HAVEN DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 18.—With returning travelers glooming about Europe, we canceled reservations on the Europa, pushed Harry Silvey into the car, tossed the dogs in after and here we are—rambling! The colonial charm of Connecticut's countryside is especially alluring against autumn's bronze.

I'm somewhat a fool for white picket fences, red barns, dovecotes and sheep-fold. And here they are in profusion. Towns flash by. Litchfield, Bethel, Danbury—I lifted my hat for The Danbury News Man and somehow thought, too, of M. Quad—Derby and this brisk city of New Haven.

In college towns I have learned to take on special deference. Any small-job man may be on the edge of a degree. I once hailed a filling station attendant as "Young Squirrel" in Berkeley. The week before he had become a doctor of philosophy at the California University.

Until this evening I had never seen Yale, whose purplish pallor shimmered so austerely in the dusk. It sprawls over a huge block close to the city's heart and fronts on a serene square. There are viney towers and through provocative archways peeps of the campus.

* * *

The tang of wind-swept hills touched off stinging hunger. I champed to try out one of the Ptomaine Tommies among the pawky hutches on the fringe of town. A compromise was the clattering dining room of a station. Depot restaurants are electric with expectancy of travel. Food becomes exciting.

* * *

We had a table beside a circular counter and were studying a well-thumbed menu when my wife with a gulp announced she lost her watch. Nothing else happened so far, save we blew two tires, John De Carlo, the chauffeur, broke a back tooth at lunch. I came off without a penny and both dogs refused food. We abandoned eating and wandered, like lost souls, around the station, hunting. It was found on the floor of the car. So back to vittling.

* * *

I asked a pert blonde, a double for Patsy Kelly, what would be her cuisine choices. (Bartlett's Business College, '08.) She shifted gum meditatively and suggested ham and eggs, French fried potatoes, sliced tomatoes and a glass of milk. "Spoken like a true daughter of Yale," said Harry Silvey, who never got further than Ned in the Third Reader.

* * *

Afterward we drew up at the Taft. I felt vague misgivings about the dogs. Some hotels are still finicky on this side of the ocean. But we trotted them up to the register. Only ladies were back of the desk. They did not glance at the pooches, nor did elevator operators or bell boys. Times have changed.

* * *

New Haven is cupped in hills. The picturesque rise, "Sleeping Giant," northward from a hotel window, suggested attractive hiking through the rustle of dry leaves. All New England towns have a feel of permanency haloed by vigorous tradition. Communism and social devices clamoring for change seem far away.

* * *

There's a puritanical purr to street names, too. I notice Chapel, Meadow, Orange, Church, Temple and Court. Aside from its big university are five other colleges. The educational urge is reflected in speech. I hailed a policeman and inquired rather clumsily direction of the hall where Nathan Hale lived. I somehow expected him to interject: "There you go splitting an infinitive."

* * *

Early we drove out to see the Yale Bowl. An empty football field looks even more desolated than an empty theater. I thought of Ring Lardner's mot the day it opened: "Gene Buck's drawing room—without lamps!"

* * *

It's warming adventure to gipsy along the open road without objective. At noon we set off again for we don't know or care where. Just floating down stream with violets in our hair. No guide book. No one home knows where we are. I have decided not to look at a newspaper. Rulers may abdicate, governments fall. Flood, famine and pestilence! But don't worry. I'll be dandy. I have my mittens. Just think of me dreaming out there under the stars, full of nomadic contentment—and plenty of red ants.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Now it's fall. College years are done with; vacation days are over; Janey must find a job. And how much is Janey's shiny, new A. B. degree going to help her in finding that job?

"MIGHTY LITTLE, IF AT ALL!" says Mrs. Esther Eberstadt Brooke.

And Mrs. Brooke should know, for she's a job finder for hundreds of girls—college graduates and otherwise—every year. Nor is she the conventional, stony-hearted employment manager. To the contrary, she's young, charming and smart herself—and likes 'em that way.

But surely she can find these qualities ad lib in the annual crop of grads? Yes, she surely can. Pretty, poised and peppy—they're all of that. Hepped up with culture; wised up to clothes. The pride of the campus and the delight of their fond parents' hearts.

Then do they not take the business world by storm?

Yes, they do NOT!

For, in spite of all their college grooming, THEY HAVEN'T WHAT IT TAKES to crash the industrial gates. What's that? Mrs. Brooke tells you in her article "September Girl" in the September GOOD HOUSEKEEPING. Listen—

"These Bachelors of Arts—they come trooping from the campuses every year, full up with culture and rosy dreams of conquering those pinnacles of business hitherto graced solely by male occupants. There is nothing wrong with either their ambition or their energy but—there is one question which almost always floors them. The question is:

" 'WHAT CAN YOU DO?' "

THE AVERAGE SWEET GIRL GRADUATE CAN DO EXACTLY NOTHING.

"The college's!" says Mrs. Brooke.

"The college woman who succeeds in business today owes her Alma Mater very little thanks. She is a victim of one of the most perfect systems of unpreparedness and misguidance ever devised.

"OUR FEMALE INSTITUTIONS OF HIGHER LEARNING, TWENTIETH CENTURY TO THE CONTRARY NOTWITHSTANDING, ARE STILL TAKING GIRLS FOR A FOUR-YEAR RIDE AND THEN LETTING THEM WALK — SOMEWHERE—ALONE."

"But," protests Janey with an indignant wave of her diploma, "all that is just at first. Of course a college girl makes a slower start than the girl who has always worked. But doesn't she, with her trained mind, forge ahead faster when she once gets going?"

No, Janey; she doesn't. For, even granting that college courses produce trained minds, which is open to much argument, what business needs in its working girls isn't the trained mind but the trained fist — and a well-weathered eye. An eye that knows what it's all about, not in the world of Campus Cut-ups but out in the main stream. A fist that can wallop a typewriter and swing a shorthand pad.

And these things don't happen spontaneously.

It takes months of hard drilling in a business college to learn them; months or years of practical experience in offices to develop them into a profitable technique.

"But if a girl is really awfully bright and adaptable won't her employer be willing to give her a chance even if she hasn't had office training?" cries Janey, still unconvinced.

"He might have once, but no longer," says Mrs. Brooke, adding:

"TODAY THERE IS NEITHER PLACE NOR PATIENCE WITH PLENTY OF CULTURE WITHOUT ALSO ACQUAINTANCE WITH THE RUDIMENTS OF BUSINESS. THE LEARNED BACHELOR OF ARTS HAS LITTLE CHANCE AGAINST THE INTELLIGENT HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATE WITH A BUSINESS COURSE AND SOME PRACTICAL EXPERIENCE."

So just where does that lead, Janey? YOU tell!

So Now—What?

By ROBERT H. HEMPHILL

Financial Authority.

One commentator said the bankers "listened in silence." It was a new experience for them. They are accustomed to playing imperator to a continuous string of anxious men, asking, begging them for the opportunity to exchange goods and services with other men.

They are accustomed to saying "not interested" haughtily, or on rare occasion saying "yes," in a manner which implies the granting of a great favor whose real value can never be accurately computed.

I don't know why most bankers are like that. Just why they can't be regular human beings will likely forever remain a mystery, but they are, almost all of them, shot full of acute self-appreciation.

For some years I occupied a semi-supervisory relation to a large number of banks. I knew the bankers intimately. I loaned them money. I knew their habits of thought, their sometimes bizarre philosophy, and their amazing ignorance of business fundamentals. The average banker is the most awkward borrower in the world. I have listened to proposals from successful bankers that amazed me, and I don't amaze very easily.

PERHAPS there is no subject on which they are more universally confused than money and credit. As a rule they know very little about them. That may seem a strange statement, but it is quite true.

Their vision is curiously limited. They do not see themselves as an essential cog in the operative economic machine. They do not visualize that their action completely controls the volume of business.

They universally regard themselves as custodians of their customers' deposits, which they may loan at favorable opportunity for the sole purpose of profit to their stockholders. Even the biggest of them have this singularly limited view.

Very, very few have a grasp on the banking system, THE WHOLE SYSTEM, as the sole source of our medium of exchange.

They do not realize that their loans are the deposits of other banks, and that their deposits are the net proceeds of the loans of other banks; that altogether the net proceeds of the loans of all banks are the deposits of all banks, and constitute our entire fluid capital—that they manufacture every dollar of our medium of exchange—completely control the volume of business.

VERY few of our statesmen nave the complete picture. Very few of our economists and teachers.

That is the reason it has been so difficult to analyze our difficulties, an almost universal imperfect conception of "what we use for money."

After all, it is very simple. We are just a great barter, and exchange society and the banker loans the "scrip" to effect our exchange transactions. If he withdrew the scrip—the exchange necessarily ceases. Very few commercial bankers have had this vision of the essential machine they are operating.

The average commercial banker's idea appears to be that, when he makes a loan to a customer, it should largely remain inactive to the customer's credit on the books of the bank. They almost universally require the customer to keep a substantial portion inactive. Some of them get quite peeved if the customer puts it all into circulation.

Very few commercial bankers visualize a $1,000 loan which they make as adding to the circulating medium of exchange of the country and being immediately broadcast into all the channels of diversified industry and commerce and being used successively by 40 or 50 people per year, all over the nation, and going on and on indefinitely in the transaction of $40,000 to $50,000 per annum in the purchase of labor and materials and the thousand and one products of the nation CONTINUOUSLY—a continuing process.

THEY do not see this at all. They universally regard their loans as a private transaction between themselves and their customer—something in which the public has no legitimate interest. Most of them have a sort of indefinite idea that the customer uses the credit, some way, but does or should keep it in his personal possession, ready to return it instanter if called upon.

The average commercial banker does not visualize the loan he makes to a merchant in New York today becoming the circulating medium which tomorrow will pay for the labor of the fruit grower in California, the textile worker in Massachusetts, and the farm laborer in Texas, who will the following day expend it for meats in Chicago or Kansas City, vegetables in South Carolina, and flour in Minnesota, where it again pays the laborer, who in turn broadcasts it all over the nation for the production, transportation and distribution of food, clothing, shelter, communication, transportation, education, health, comfort, recreation and amusement, and that it pays for labor in all these departments, where it is again immediately broadcast, and again and again, in a continuing and continuous circulation—truly the lifeblood of our social system—never ceasing, never idle—performing the essential function of making the transfer of goods and services possible.

THE commercial banker does not see that picture at all. Of course, there are exceptions, a very few exceptions, tragically few as we are learning.

I've said all along that by a process of elimination we would get down to the essence of all our difficulties. Well, here we are—right up against our unworkable banking system, whose failure to manufacture our circulating medium of exchange as and when needed is responsible for every depression we have ever had, and is now our only bar to recovery.

The bankers very clearly have no intention of coming into the picture—they took a few minutes off of their haranguing Congress for the mild and wholly inadequate Glass-Steagall law to frame their answer to the President—it was the same answer they made before—in somewhat different language.

Well, here we are—traffic stopped in all four directions. SO NOW—WHAT?
